

Combat Camera Weekly

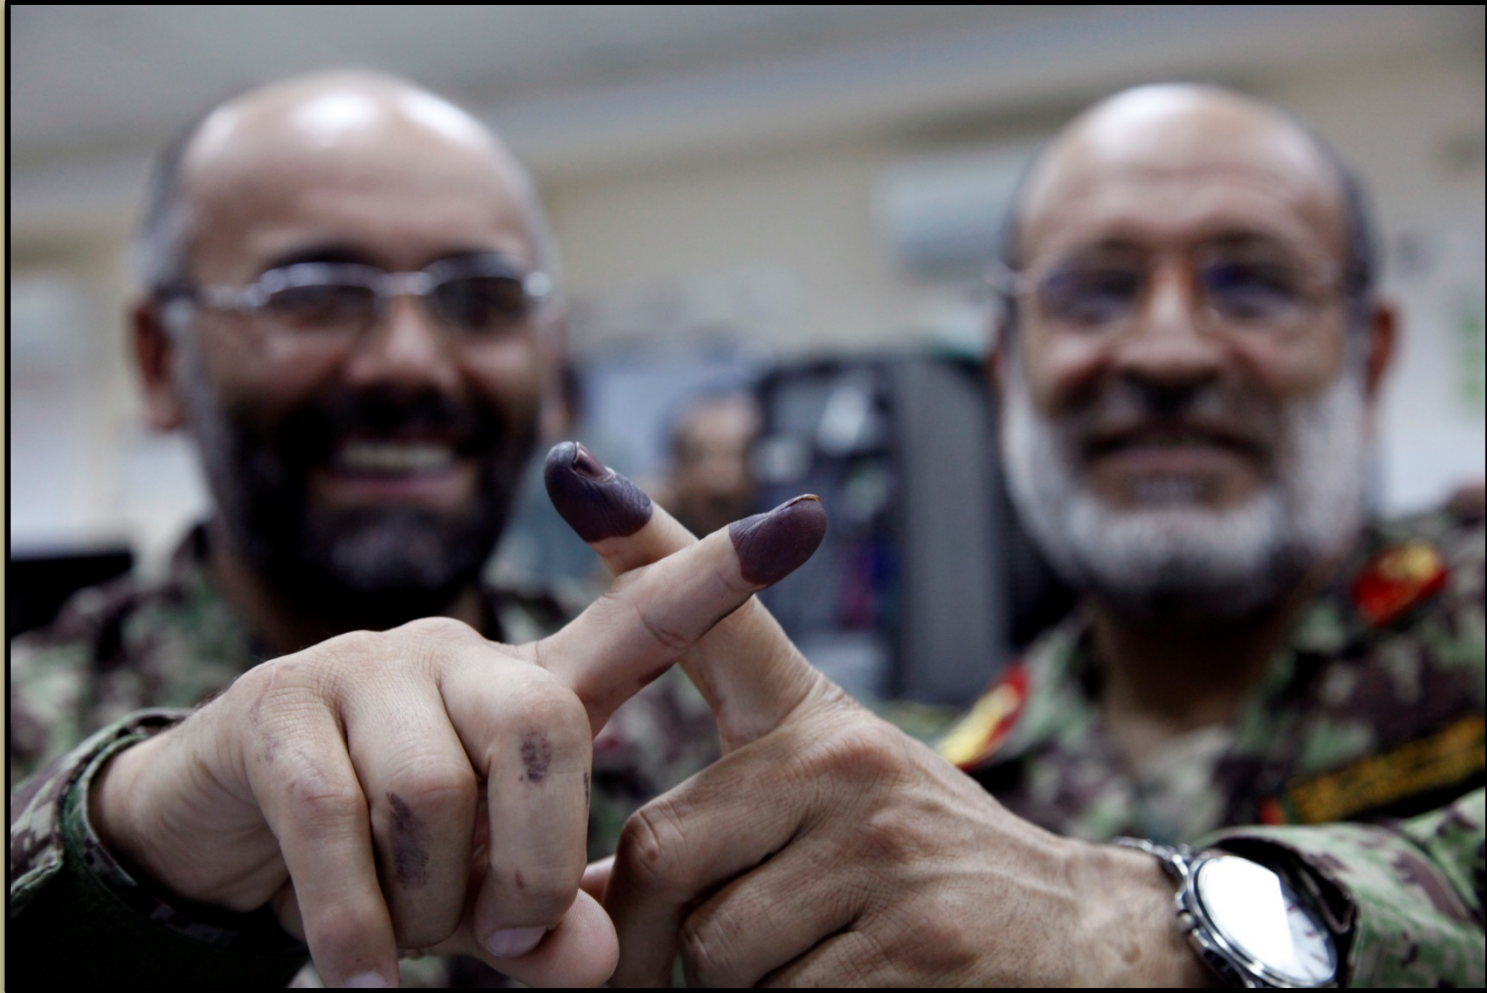

Regional Command-East Afghanistan

05 APR – 11 APR 2014

Afghan Presidential Election Day

Afghan National Army Lt. Col. Sultani, left, and Maj. Safi, 201st Corps, displays the blue ink on their fingers at Forward Operating Base Gamberi, Laghman province, Afghanistan, April 6, 2014. The blue ink represents that Sultani and Safi have voted in the Afghan presidential election.

(U.S. Army photo by Cpl. George Huley/ Released)

Afghan Presidential Election Day

Senior leaders of the Afghan National Security Forces display their inked fingers after voting in the elections at the conclusion of their press conference at Forward Operating Base Thunder, Paktia province, Afghanistan, April 5, 2014. The security forces were responsible for ensuring the safety of the polling sites.

(U.S. Army photo by Pfc. Dixie Rae Liwanag/ Released)

Afghan Presidential Election Day

Afghan National Security Forces display their inked fingers after voting in the elections at Forward Operating Base Thunder, Paktia province, Afghanistan, April 5, 2014. The security forces were responsible for ensuring the safety of the polling sites.

(U.S. Army photo by Pfc. Dixie Rae Liwanag/ Released)

Afghan National Security Forces Provide Oversight During Afghan Election Day

Senior Leaders of the Afghan National Security Forces prepare for a press conference in the Operations Coordination Center - Regional East during the election day at Forward Operating Base Thunder, Paktia province, Afghanistan, April 5, 2014. The security forces were responsible for ensuring the safety of the polling sites.

(U.S. Army photo by Pfc. Dixie Rae Liwanag/ Released)

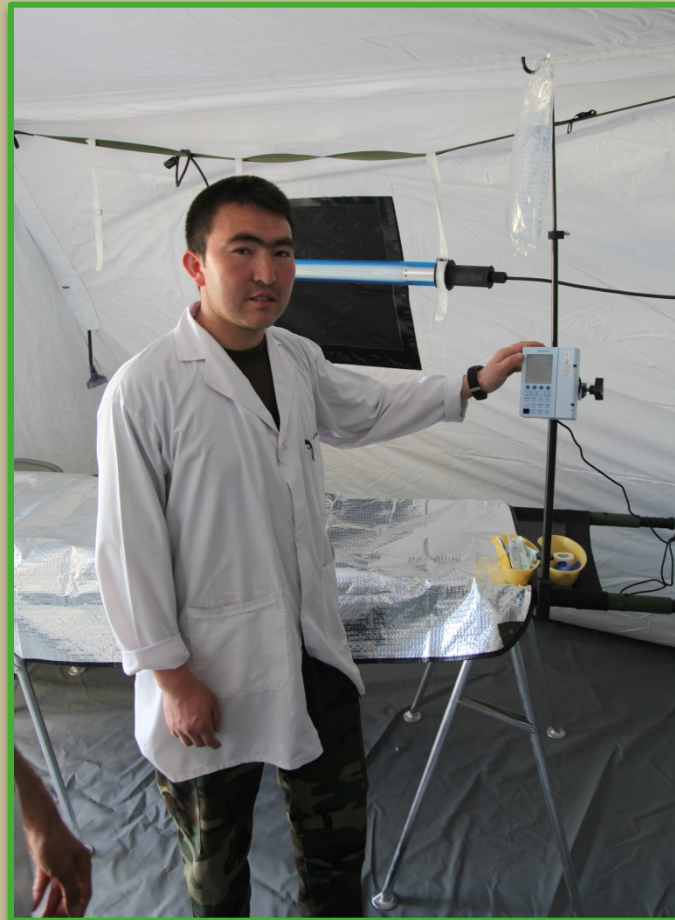

Operations Briefing at Forward Operating Base Gamberi

Afghan National Army Maj. Safi, 201st Corps, sets up slides for a briefing at Forward Operating Base Gamberi, Laghman province, Afghanistan, April 7, 2014. The briefing is about the events that took place during the last 24 hours of the Afghan presidential election.

(U.S. Army photo by Cpl. George Huley/ Released)

Gamberi Garrison Regional Military Hospital

An Afghan National Army doctor of the 201st Corps explain the different types of equipment at the shock trauma unit on Forward Operating Base Gamberi, Laghman province, Afghanistan, April 8, 2014. The shock trauma unit was created for soldiers who sustained injuries during the Afghan presidential election.

(U.S. Army photo by Cpl. George Huley/ Released)

Gamberi Garrison Regional Military Hospital

Afghan National Army soldiers of the 201st Corps and coalition soldiers of the International Security Assistance Force take a tour of the water treatment section of the Gamberi Garrison Regional Military Hospital at Forward Operating Base Gamberi, Laghman province, Afghanistan, April 8, 2014. The hospital is a new joint military civilian medical center for the Afghan National Army.

(U.S. Army photo by Cpl. George Huley/ Released)

Afghan Army Commander Hosts Western Media

U.S. Army Brig. Gen David Haight (fourth from left) and Afghan National Army Maj. Gen. Mohammad Yaftali (third from right), commander of the 203rd Corps along with media representatives from Reuters, the Wall Street Journal, Stars & Stripes, and Deutsche Presse Agentur pose for a group picture after their press round table discussion at Forward Operating Base Thunder, Paktia province, Afghanistan, April 09, 2014. The meeting was held to discuss the success of Afghan security forces during the elections.

(U.S. Army photo by Pfc. Dixie Rae Liwanag / Released)

Afghan National Army Conducts Mortar Fire Direction Training

Afghan National Army soldiers of the Regional Military Training Center (RMTTC), 203rd Corps plot coordinates for a mortar target zone during a Mortar Fire Direction Training at Forward Operating Base Thunder, Paktia province, Afghanistan, April 7, 2014. The RMTTC Security Force Advise and Assist Team conducted a train the trainer course with the ANA to familiarize with mortar direction techniques and be able to travel their AO to train other soldiers.

(U.S. Army photo by Pfc. Dixie Rae Liwanag / Released)

Afghan National Army Conducts Mortar Fire Direction Training

Afghan National Army Staff Sgt. Ayam Mudin of the Regional Military Training Center (RMTC), 203rd Corps points to the position of a mortar cannon during a Mortar Fire Direction Training at Forward Operating Base Thunder, Paktia province, Afghanistan, April 7, 2014. The RMTC Security Force Advise and Assist Team conducted a train the trainer course with the ANA to familiarize with mortar direction techniques and be able to travel their AO to train other soldiers.

(U.S. Army photo by Pfc. Dixie Rae Liwanag / Released)

Afghan National Army Conducts Mortar Fire Direction Training

U.S. Army 1st Sgt. Casey McFall, G5 advisor assigned to Regional Military Training Center (RMTC) Security Force Advise and Assist Team (SFAAT) of Headquarters and Headquarters Company, 3rd Brigade Combat Team, 10th Mountain Division poses with Afghan National Army soldiers of RMTC, 203rd Corps at Forward Operating Base Thunder, Paktia province, Afghanistan, April 7, 2014. The RMTC SFAAT conducted a train the trainer course with the ANA to familiarize with mortar direction techniques and be able to travel their AO to train other soldiers.

(U.S. Army photo by Pfc. Dixie Rae Liwanag / Released)

dvids

DEFENSE VIDEO & IMAGERY DISTRIBUTION SYSTEM

FOR MORE COMBAT CAMERA IMAGERY, PLEASE VISIT

<http://dvidshub.net/units/jcca>

<http://defenseimagery.mil>

DEFENSEIMAGERY.MIL

