

LtGen Wilson takes reins of FMFPac

by GySgt W.C. Hough

CAMP H.M. SMITH — LtGen Louis H. Wilson, recipient of the Medal of Honor and a veteran of three wars, assumed command of Fleet Marine Force, Pacific, during a twilight ceremony here Tuesday.

Symbolic of the occasion, he accepted the heavily-decorated battle color of the Marine Corps' largest field command from its outgoing commander, LtGen William K. Jones.

Other highlights of the ceremony included the presentation to General Jones of his third Navy Distinguished Service Medal, a ringing tribute to Marines delivered by Adm John S. McCain Jr., the Commander in Chief Pacific, and a review.

As observation aircraft and helicopters of the 1st Marine Brigade and troops representing every other Marine command in Hawaii participated in the review. Colors of all major elements of FMFPac and Marine Corps Bases, Pacific, were massed for the ceremony.

Gen Jones, who completed 34 years of service was honored at a reception in the Camp Smith Officers' Club following the ceremony.

Gen Wilson is no stranger to FMFPac or Hawaii. He served early in his career as aide-de-camp to LtGen A.H. Turnage, CG FMFPac from Dec. 1946 to Dec. 1947. From August 1968 until March 1970, Gen Wilson served as Chief of Staff, FMFPac.

Prior to assuming command of FMFPac, Gen Wilson served as the deputy for education/director, Education Center, Marine Corps Development and Education Command, Quantico, Va. He was promoted to his present rank on Aug. 8 at Headquarters Marine Corps, Wash, D.C.

Gen Wilson enlisted in the Marine Corps Reserve in May 1941, and in November of the same year he was commissioned a second Lieutenant. He went overseas with the 9th Marines in February 1943.

In the assault on Guam on July 25 and 26, 1944, he commanded Company "F", 2d Battalion, 9th Marines, 3d Marine Division and distinguished himself "above and beyond the call of duty," a fact which earned him the Medal of Honor.

Both generals were praised by Admiral McCain. He said it was his privilege and pleasure to participate in this ceremony and it was an honor to recognize the splendid performance of Gen Jones and to welcome Gen Wilson.

"Both of these men are 'professionals' in every sense of the word and their admirable records of service to our Country prove there are no exclusive roads to professional training and command," declared Adm McCain. The comments were part of the admiral's praise for all Marines in PACOM.

In closing, Adm McCain bid farewell to Gen Jones and his wife, Charlotte, wished them good luck and welcomed LtGen Wilson back to the Pacific Command team.

General Jones' decoration -- which he received immediately before Adm McCain's remarks -- was presented by Adm B.A. Clary, Commander in Chief, U.S. Pacific Fleet, who invited Mrs. Jones to accompany him in this formal ceremony.

The accompanying citation praised the departing general for the leadership he gave FMFPac during the redeployment from the Republic of Vietnam and the subsequent reconstitution of striking forces. It also mentioned the general's award-winning managerial efforts and his establishment of the FMFPac Human Affairs Program.

Customers to benefit from Exchanges' 75th Anniversary

by Sgt Bruce Waitman

OAHU — From smoking pipes to swim fins, from freezers to flight bags, from power tools to Ponds Cold Cream, you name it and you'll probably find it for sale at special reduced prices during the Marine Corps Exchange's 75th Anniversary Sale beginning Tuesday (Sept. 5) and lasting until Sept. 17.

In addition to having literally hundreds of items marked at reduced prices, the Exchange will also be holding daily prize drawings at each exchange for items such as cameras, luggage, radios, clocks and cassette tape recorders. The drawings will take place at the end of business each day. They will be held at the Main Store, K-Bay; the Main Store, Camp Smith; and at the Marine Barracks, Pearl Harbor Marine Exchange. You do not have to be present to win.

To register for the prizes, simply fill out a slip (available at the checkout line) and drop it in a box at the door. Individual buyers of $100 worth of items or more will receive five slips.

On Sept. 18, an island-wide drawing will be held in the parking lot of the Country Store at K-Bay. The prizes will be a diamond ring and a set of Encyclopedia Britannica books. This drawing will not only include Camp Smith and MB, Pearl Harbor Exchange customers but also the winners of the daily prizes. MCX employees and their dependents are not eligible to win prizes.

On the first day of the sale, anniversary cake, coffee and punch will be offered to customers. Hot dogs for 10 cents and sodas for five cents will be available each day of the sale. They will also be giving away balloons and pens.

The majority of the merchandise for the sale was especially ordered from the manufacturer.

The Marine Corps Exchange system started in 1897 when Theodore Roosevelt, the Acting Secretary of the Navy, directed the Commandant of the Marine Corps to set up a post exchange at the Marine Barracks in Boston.

By 1900, the Corps had post exchanges at eight Stateside and four overseas locations. Due to their success, the Commandant recommended that every post in the Marine Corps be authorized to have an exchange instead of post trader's stores, so that the enlisted men might reap some benefits from the profits.

The change from post trader to post exchange was slowly made until 1912 when the last two trader's stores were closed and exchanges established.

Exchange regulations issued on April 19, 1972, setting forth the primary and secondary missions still set the philosophy followed today, 60 years later.

There are presently 25 exchanges in this country and overseas. These exchanges rang up more than $190 million in sales in fiscal year 1971, $10.8 million higher than the total for the previous year, despite Corps personnel reductions. This figure includes domestic sales of $166,521,832 (87.6 per cent), and overseas sales of $23,586,145.

What's for sale???

The following is just a partial listing of the many items reduced for the sale (all reduced items will be yellow tagged):

Representatives of all the U.S. Armed Forces will pass in review, accompanied by the 264th Army Band. Also playing will be the 1st Marine Brigade Drum and Bugle Corps and the Pacific Fleet Band prior to the ceremony.

Preceding the review will be short addresses by President Nixon, Adm McCain and Adm Gayler. Immediately after the ceremony the President will fly back to San Clemente, Calif., while a reception at the Hickam Officers' Club will be held for Adm McCain.

Adm Gayler, a 57-year-old native of Birmingham, Ala., is a 1935 graduate of the U.S. Naval Academy.

During World War Two he was a fighter pilot aboard the aircraft carriers Enterprise, Lexington, Saratoga and Randolph, which operated in the Pacific. He is the third U.S. naval officer ever to fly jet aircraft and holds the record for the longest jet flight ever made from an aircraft carrier. He was selected for flag rank in 1960.

Adm Gayler later became the director of the National Security Agency, Fort George G. Meade, Md. Prior to leaving the agency for his CINCPAC post, he was awarded the Distinguished Service Medal by John W. Warner, the Secretary of the Navy. He also holds three Navy Crosses, the Bronze Star and the Legion of Merit.

REACH A NEW LOW — This past fiscal year has seen the Marine Corps reach a new low in numbers of aircraft accidents and consequently in the accident rate. The accident rate is a measure of mishaps against the number of flight hours. A 1.0 accident rate means one accident in each 10,000 flight hours.

VOLUNTEERS NEEDED

There is a critical shortage of sergeants and below in the cryptologic MOS's (257X). The Marine Support Battalion has companies located in Scotland, Spain, the Mediterranean, Puerto Rico, Guantanamo Bay, Florida (near Miami), the Washington, D.C. area, Japan, Okinawa and Guam. One of the Radio Battalions is located at K-Bay and the other is at Camp Lejeune.

Marines who meet the prerequisites for the MOS's as shown in the Formal Schools Manual and whose records indicate no derogatory information can expect to be ordered to school for at least 18 weeks at Pensacola, Fla., or up to one year for a language course at Monterey, Calif., or Anacostia, Md. Upon satisfactory completion of the school and a background investigation, the Marine will receive a 257X MOS and be

"YOU GUYS THINK IT WAS BAD IN VIETNAM? I REMEMBER ONE DAY IN R.O.T.C."

Opinion: 'I'm no hired killer'

DUTY, HONOR, COUNTRY

I'm Private First Class John M. Kelly, 2683036, United States Marine Corps. "Hired Killer" for short. I enlisted. Voluntarily. Nobody pushed me.

Of course, I did it for the money.

That's what I keep being told by pundits, politicians and protesters. Even NATIONAL REVIEW sometimes falls into this trap ["The Week," Sept. 24].

I serve in a force that is now nearly 100 per cent volunteer, and I wouldn't have it any other way. My life may depend on how well the man next to me does his job, and I want to know that he's doing it because he wants to.

I didn't enlist for the money. I don't know anybody who did. The long-overdue military pay raise is not going to lead to a "mercenary" army, or even serve as a "positive incentive" for enlistments. At best, it simply removes an incentive not to enlist.

As a Marine PFC, I currently make $149.50 a month, which is a little less than I would get if I were on welfare. When the new pay raise goes into effect, I'll make $327 a month, which is a little less than I'd make if I were pumping gas or parking cars. I get pretty furious when I hear the epithet "mercenary" applied to American Servicemen. I'm a United States citizen serving in the United States

Armed Forces. I fight for my patria, not my pocketbook.

I don't see the choice between a volunteer army and a conscript army as a choice between an amateur or "citizen" army and a professional or "mercenary" army. All the leaders of our current "citizen" Armed Forces field-grade and general-grade officers and staff noncommissioned officers are volunteers and professionals. Most of us volunteers consider ourselves to be "citizen" soldiers. We're just in for one hitch of two, three or four years. And it would be absurd, from a military standpoint, to want to have every volunteer make the Armed Forces his career. An army has its chiefs, but it must have a helluva lot more Indians.

What is it that does prompt us "true volunteers," as the Gates Commission calls us, to enlist? Beer in the barracks? Long sideburns? Go-go girls in the Enlisted Men's Club?

It's rarely one thing, and is usually a combination of the same things that have caused young men to enlist in the Armed Forces since the Revolutionary War.

Some enlist because a judge somewhere gave them a choice, or because they had a fight with their parents, or because their girl jilted them. To a lot of farm boys and slum kids in the Middle West and the Deep South, the Armed Forces still are the handiest path to travel, adventure and opportunity. It's a chance to learn a trade or to open the door to a college education.

But the biggest reason was, and is, patriotism. There are men aplenty "with soul so dead who never to himself hath said 'this is mine own, my native land.'" in the United States, but not in the United States Marine Corps, despite Donald A. Zoll's gloominess [My Lai and the State of the Army," Oct. 8]. Not every young American looks upon his country as the global ogre.

But Mr. Zoll is partly right: It's in "Duty, Honor, Country" that the modern Volunteer Army's advertising campaign will find its most effective slogan. The duty of a citizen to serve his country during time of war may be considered archaic by the populace at large, but it is still recognized by some enough. I think, to man America's Armed Forces in the 1970s.

You get the best men by appealing to what is best in men. Men who respond to "Duty, Honor, Country" may be fewer in number than those who might succumb to various forms of bribery, but they are the only men who can be depended upon in combat.

And they are, by and large, the kind of men we have in the Armed Forces today.

PFC John M. Kelly
Camp Pendleton, Calif.

EDITORS NOTE: The above letter appeared in the Dec. 17, 1971 issue of NATIONAL REVIEW, whose editorial offices are located at 150 East 35th St. New York, New York 10016. It was reprinted in the July-October, 1972 issue of Marine Leader and is being reprinted here.

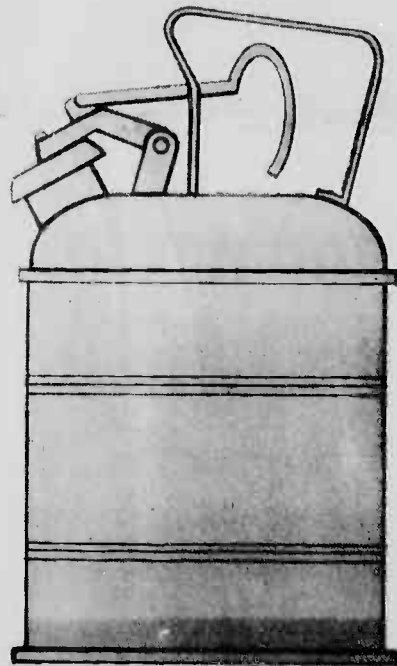

keep flammable liquids in approved containers only ...

A near tragedy was averted recently when a Navy Officer saw preschool children pouring gasoline on each other from an unapproved plastic gasoline container. He quickly called the fire department and the garage area was washed down. Clothing was removed and the youngsters were bathed. The owner of the container was preparing to use a power mower when he was called indoors and the container was left within easy reach of the children. Fortunately the gasoline vapors were not ignited by a nearby gas hot water heater.

Another similar incident happened when a military occupant was called into his home to answer the telephone, leaving his unapproved red gasoline container (screw top type) next to a power mower. A young toddler picked up the container, dumped the contents on the garage floor, sat in the pool of gasoline and received chemical burns — again lady luck was with us since the gasoline vapors were not ignited.

Some people think they have a good hiding place in the trunk of private cars knowing fire inspectors do not inspect there. To save money, they will use old polyethylene laundry bleach bottles to carry extra gasoline. These plastic bottles can be dangerous because they cannot withstand temperatures of 140 degrees. At this

Underwriters' Laboratories or Factory Mutual Laboratories. At the present time, only metal containers are listed by the recognized laboratories. Gasoline containers painted red with caution label and a screw type flexible spout are not approved. The self-closing cap which is found on approved containers are very difficult temperature polyethylene will become soluble in gasoline allowing the gas to leak in the trunk and spread explosive vapors through the car.

Navy regulations require that containers used for dispensing flammable liquids shall be of a type approved for such use by for youngsters to open. The local press covered a story recently where someone threw firecrackers in a garage, causing a can of gasoline to explode resulting in a large fire loss.

Remember!!! Five gallons of gasoline explode with as much force as 415 pounds of dynamite.

KNOW WHAT?

EMERGENCY LEAVE

Only the commanding officer can grant emergency leave when death or critical illness occurs in a serviceman's immediate family requiring his presence at home.

The Red Cross field director will obtain reports on emergencies at the request of a serviceman or his commanding officer. Because of the time and distance factor, servicemen are encouraged to advise their families to contact their local Red Cross chapter as soon as an emergency develops. The necessary information can then be reported to the field director with minimum delay.

Red Cross financial assistance in amounts sufficient to defray the cost of round trip air transportation from the port of debarkation to the home is available.

See your Red Cross field director when you need counseling on personal problems, emergency communications and reporting service, health and welfare reports, emergency assistance for dependents, financial assistance, or other services.

Safety for peddle pushers

SAFETY RULES FOR BICYCLISTS

Whether it is school time or vacation time, it is always a good idea to ride a bicycle safely. Listed below are some of the safety rules to follow aboard the Station:

Try to keep from riding on Mokapu and Lawrence Roads during heavy traffic which is from 7 to 7:30 a.m. and 4 to 4:30 p.m.

Go with the traffic riding as near to the right side of the road as possible. Do not ride bicycle on congested sidewalk.

Ride single file and not alongside of another bicyclist.

Keep good control of your bicycle. Pedal along at a steady pace and do not weave in and out of traffic.

Steer bicycle with both hands except when making hand signals. Do not hitch onto any moving vehicles.

Always give the following proper hand signals for turns and stops well in advance:

Before making left turn, signal and then look back to be sure that a car is far enough away to make a safe turn. (This especially applies to bicyclists coming from Capehart Housing on Lawrence Road and turning left into the Little League Ball Park.)

Walk bicycle across busy intersections.

Place books and packages in basket or saddle bags. Do not carry passengers, unless bicycle is designed and equipped otherwise.

If bicycling at night, be sure your white headlamp is operating properly and that you have a red lamp or reflector on rear of bicycle. (Both have to be visible at 200 feet.)

Brake(s) on bicycle must enable the rider to make the braked wheel(s) skid on dry, level, clean pavement.

By following the rules above, you can help prevent yourself from getting into an accident. REMEMBER, YOUR LIFE IS VERY IMPORTANT TO ALL OF US.

Chaplain's Column

God does not discriminate

by Chaplain A.F. Van Beck

The fifteenth Chapter of St. Matthew's Gospel tells of the Canaanite woman who pleaded with Christ to cure her daughter. The woman was non-Jewish. When she asked this favor of Jesus, he insisted that his mission was to the chosen people, the house of Israel. She refused to accept "no" for an answer and trailed after Jesus, weeping and crying. Apparently she also attached herself to various disciples who looked deceptively sympathetic for a moment, which prompted them to complain to Jesus, "Get rid of her. She keeps shouting after us." Jesus remained unperturbed by this feminine storm, and resorted to one of his favorite devices. He told a parable, but with quite a sting to it. "It is not right to take food of sons and daughters and throw it to the dogs." But like many of her sex, the lady had the last word. With quick retort, she turned the parable to her own purpose as she observed, "Even the dogs eat the leavings that fall from their masters' tables." Since these harsh words of Jesus elicited from the lady a tremendous expression of faith, she became a living fulfillment of the lesson that salvation would come to all who believed in Christ.

The point behind this unusual gospel story is that when people want their religion to be little more than an exclusive club we have a situation that is intolerable in the sight of God. God does not discriminate against anyone. He welcomes all who believe in him and wish to do his will. It is a sad situation when the members of any chapel refuse to welcome someone warmly into their number, whether it be because of his low economic or social status or because of his poor reputation. It should be our utmost concern to make everyone welcome in his chapel no matter how he may be dressed, or how unappealing he may appear or what others may say of him. The fact that he or she came to the chapel must be taken as a sign that he wishes to respond to Christ, and who knows, his faith may be greater than even that of the Canaanite woman!

Gee thanks Dad, might have been the thoughts running through the mind of Timothy W. Brundage (left) a member of Headquarters and Service Co., PSB, as he was promoted to staff sergeant by his father - Air Force Col. Lew D. Brundage, Hickam AFB, during ceremonies held last week. A MESSAGE FROM THE COMMANDANT OF THE MARINE CORPS

During September 1972, the Marine Corps exchange system is commemorating its 75th year of providing merchandise and services to authorized customers.

This Diamond Jubilee is being celebrated, in a manner which recognizes that the primary mission of exchanges is to provide service to the customers, by a special sale during September in all Marine Corps exchanges.

Wherever I travel, I am impressed with the spirit of dedication, enthusiasm, and professionalism shown by Marine Corps exchange personnel. This spirit is evident in the continuing improvements and upgraded service that are being presented to the Marines. This service makes a direct contribution to our operational readiness and performance by its recognized contribution to the morale and welfare of all Marine Corps personnel and their dependents.

I congratulate all personnel of the Marine Corps exchange system who have made our system a success by doing their jobs in an exemplary manner. I am pleased to note that some civilian exchange employees have been employed in an exchange for more than 30 years and many for more than 20 years. Whether you came aboard 30 years ago or last month, all of you can be equally proud of being part of an effort that is dedicated to serving the needs of the Marines and their families.

As we enter into this last quarter of the first century of operating Marine Corps exchanges, let us re-dedicate ourselves to providing our Marines merchandise and high quality services at the lowest practicable cost.

Heart stoppage kills - fast

OAHU - The approaching Labor Day will be a time for Hawaii's citizens to stop and contemplate what work opportunities and their skills have brought them. If they would give as much thought to protecting their hearts, says Hawaii Heart Association, many would be around much longer to enjoy the fruits of their labor.

For, explains the Heart Association, too many people are raising their risk of premature heart attack and stroke through daily living habits-by eating too many of the wrong foods, by smoking cigarettes, by being overweight, by leading sedentary lives (not enough exercise), and by not having regular medical examinations to detect the presence of high blood pressure. It speeds the development of the artery-clogging disease called arteriosclerosis which underlies most heart attacks and strokes.

Risk reduction is a daily process, too, but by no means a difficult one, your Heart Association asserts. The following steps are recommended for adults and youngsters alike, since the earlier preventive measures are begun the better chance to escape premature heart problems:

1. If no special diet is required, modify eating habits to avoid high-cholesterol foods and control the intake of fats. Less saturated fats (meat, dairy products, lard and coconut oil) should be eaten and a larger share of the fat requirements should come from polyunsaturated fats (corn, safflower, cottonseed or soybean oil). The former raise cholesterol levels in the blood and the latter lower it, says your Heart Association. Eggs are high in cholesterol and should be limited to three a week.

2. Don't smoke cigarettes. Cigarette smokers have twice the risk of heart attack as that of non-smokers.

3. Set a schedule of regular physical check-ups. More than 21 million Americans are estimated to have some form of high blood pressure, says your Heart Association, but many don't know it.

4. Adjust calorie intake to achieve and maintain normal weight. Obesity is associated with high blood pressure and diabetes, and raises the risk of heart attack. Correcting obesity may also reduce the concentration of fatty substances in the blood that lead to artery clogging.

5. Start up and follow a program of exercise that is determined by your doctor to be compatible with your age and physical condition. It will tone up the muscles, stimulate the circulation and help to avoid overweight, and increase your physical capability for work or recreational activities.

There is no guarantee that any person will escape a heart attack by following these five points, says your Heart Association. Yet there is mounting scientific evidence that thousands of lives can be prolonged by following a risk reducing program. Labor Day, the traditional end of summer, is a good time to start a new way of living that may prolong your life. Ask Hawaii Heart Association for booklets on diet, smoking and high blood pressure that can help you along the road to reducing your risk of heart attack and stroke.

How about state-side twilight cruise?

WASHINGTON, D.C. - Marines hoping for a twilight cruise stateside, may submit their retirement or FMCR transfer requests 14 months in advance.

Headquarters officials say they will get special and individual consideration, but the needs of the Corps come first.

A new Marine Corps Bulletin stresses that requests not submitted 14 months in advance will get special consideration on humanitarian grounds only. In any case, Marines serving overseas will be returned to CONUS no later than 10 days before the date requested for transfer or retirement to the FMCR.

The regulations also say that Marines must submit their requests at least three months before desired transfer/retirement dates.

For more information, check MCBul 1800 of July 28, 1972.

Hey man, wanna fight my buddie

K-BAY — Since the age of nine, PFC Carl Youngblood, 3rd Shore Party, has been in over 200 fights. Even more amazing is the fact that he has only lost six of them.

He is a professional boxer, and even though he hasn't fought since June, 1971, when he turned pro, he's looking forward to the future and who knows—maybe a title.

Youngblood is from Odessa, Texas, and presently has a contract with a group of Odessa business men, who plan on sponsoring Carl's career when he gets out of the Marine Corps next year. "They will pay for my training and see that I get fights. Then they will take a percentage of what I make in the ring for themselves."

Youngblood, who is 5'9" tall and weighs 157 pounds, career in boxing started when he was nine. He was introduced to the sport at the local Boys Club, and has kept "punching" ever since.

In 1966 he won the Silver Gloves

Championships. He later went on to win the Regionals, District, and State Championships during 1968-70. In 1970 he won the Golden Gloves. He also was the All West Texas Champion for five years running. However his most satisfying accomplishment was when he out fought everyone else to be the Texas Champion of Champions in 1971.

His very impressive record may well account for the fact, why five men, are willing to spend their own money to get his career going.

Sugar Ray Robinson is his favorite fighter, and when asked why he plans to be a boxer, he stated, "I enjoy it! It gives me an inner satisfaction I can't receive in any other way."

Although ineligible to fight for the Marine Corps due to his professional status, Youngblood helped with coordination of fights and training with the boxing team at Camp Lejeune.

Check with your local bike shops, they have been provided with maps showing ride routes and planned rest stops.

Jumping's fun, but hard on the feet

OAHU — On September 2, parachutists from sky diving clubs all over the island will be vying for top honors in the Inter-Island Parachute Meet, to be held at Dillingham AFB.

About 30 Marines will be included in the contest, that features competition in three classes; novice, intermediate, and advance. Over all, some 75 parachutists are expected to compete.

The Marine Parachute Club, which incidentally has the best safety record in the state, and is currently the largest active club in the state, is not new to team competition.

They sent a representative to the Nationals at Tallequah, Oklahoma, who placed 110 out of 400 entrants. Not bad, considering the type of talent represented there. On an average they compete in about one meet every four months. They also give exhibition jumps at local social events.

Each jumper will jump about three times during the meet, and because of the weight of the parachute, and the fact that they have to pack each one over again, after each jump, each parachutist will be thoroughly exhausted by the end of the day.

If your interested in competing, registration is still open. Most of the jumpers plan on going out to Dillingham tonight and staying over till the meet. You could register at this time, just bring your sleeping bag. The first jump, if weather permits, will go at dawn. Registration is at this time also.

Parachutists from the entire Island will be competing against each other this weekend at Dillingham AFB during the Inter-Island Parachute Meet.

CAMP SMITH INTRAMURAL BOWLING

The past two weeks in the Intramural League have seen quite a few changes in the standings. J-5 has taken over first place on big games by Ed Moilanen (221/589) and Tom Wood (201/536).

The PMO Tickets are one game back after winning six points. Best night for them was turned in by Roy Quick (171/486).

A three-way tie exists for third place between the J-8 Ballers (10,553), Debits and Credits (10,388) and Keystone Five (10,350). Big series for J-8 were rolled by Hap Albers (192/537 and 188/520), Stew Ferk (222/548) and Bob Montgomery (189/509). For the Debits and Credits, Ken Creech's 187/548 and Dick Fox's 194/489 were high. Big series were turned in by Bill Nickerson (188/516), "Stanley Steamer" (of hot dog fame) (189/513) and Al Belcher (177/508).

In sixth place are The Money Makers (10,389), The Pack (10,157), and The Strangers (10,110). Rolling heavy for The Money Makers was Mark Kent with a 184/538 and Wee Willie Morris who has been rolling consistently 27 pins over his last year's average. The biggest contribution for The Pack was a 188 game by John Drury. High games of 222 by Cal Walker and 202 by Lloyd Davis were the bright spots for the Strangers.

All alone in eighth place are the Misfits who may have just hit their stride this past week when they took four easy points from The Birds on Sue "Ski's" 204/542.

Following the women is The Suppliers whose biggest effort was turned in by Walt Tamm (174/484).

In the vicious battle for last place are De Bums and De Boirds. The Bums are being led by Frank Conte (213/574) and Lerry Lotz (208/502). The Birds big gun was Buster Mathis with a 206/559.

CAMP SMITH — The question that arises in the Thursday night Male Staff NCO Bowling League is not who is going to win the championship, but by how many games.

The Goodguys, they sure named that team correct, swept four games from the Seafarers. By winning four, the Goodguys increased their league lead to eight and one half games. The Goodguys were led by Bill Nickerson 222/585 and Ed Lo with a 169/480. The only bright hope on the Seafarers part was a nice 184/486 by Dick Decker.

In other action, the Movers made their big move with a four game sweep of the Mongooses. The Movers were led by Al Belcher with a real fine 192/531 series and Charlie Kyle with a 199/489. The Mongooses only had two bowlers roll a 400 series and neither one of them was high enough to get an honor mention.

With only three bowlers in the line up, the Kingpins really didn't have a chance against the Red Mustaches who fielded a full line up. Even under those circumstances they gave it a bloody go. As was to be expected though, the two bowler edge was just too much to overcome and they dropped three games to the Red Mustaches. Big guns for the winners were Dick Fox 192/463 and Buzz Dement with a 151/422 series. Walt Williams rolled a 192/486 in a losing cause.

Remember last year's action? This year's action should be even better. This season's Intramural 8-man Tackle Football starts Sept. 8, right here at K-Bay—BE THERE!

Have boats, will hire

K-BAY — The commissary is not the only place to get fish. As a matter of fact, there's a place close to the base where the fish is free and always guaranteed fresh.

The place is Kaneohe Bay, and with the aid of a rod and reel, some bait and a boat, you could literally catch your dinner.

If you don't own a boat and do not have access to a rod and reel, Special Services has the answer.

The K-Bay Marina has four new 13 HP Boston Whalers for rent, and they're yours to use on that fishing trip for the asking.

A license is not required, and the Marina personnel will instruct you on how to use them the day you pick them up. They'll even tell you where to go to catch the "big ones." Rods and reels can be checked out directly from Special Services. Sorry, but you will have to supply your bait.

Call 72219 after 9 a.m. on Thursdays to reserve your boat for the weekend.

If fishing isn't your bag but water skiing is, again Special Services is where to go. They have two brand new 16 foot Boston Whalers powered by 85 HP engines to serve you. With an hour of instruction, you could be enjoying the thrill of skiing across the waters of Kaneohe Bay. Special Services only requires that you bring your own skis and two other people with you, one to drive the boat and the other, for safety reasons, to observe the skier. Again, call 72219 after 9 a.m. on Thursdays to reserve that boat.

Important!

Due to school reopening on Sept 5, the North Beach will be closed for surfing during the week for the remaining of the school year. The beach will be open on weekends, however, between 7 a.m. and sunset.

Are you 'fit' for rank?

WASHINGTON (NAVY TIMES) — As it released names of the junior gunnery and staff sergeants selectees to be promoted in August, the Marine Corps also warned all staff NCOs that physical fitness scores are being considered by selection boards.

This year's cycle of selections "and all subsequent boards will receive instructions concerning the importance to be given to Physical Fitness Test results," HQMC said.

Officials pointed out that falling the PFT wouldn't cancel selection chances automatically but "failure will be considered with all facets of the Marine's past and present performance and his potential for higher responsibilities."

The August promotion increment wiped clean the first sergeant and master sergeant lists, but left 1,184 gunnery sergeant and 107 staff sergeant selectees still waiting to be picked up.

The junior gunnery sergeant selectee to be promoted was C.C. Crabb, number 1873 on the list. The "boot" staff sergeant selectee was J.A. Antell, number 2626 on that list.

Santa Claus wears Marine Corps green

K-BAY — Staff Sergeant and Mrs. William C. Lee are not Mr. and Mrs. Santa Claus, but you would think so because of their toy collecting and repairing efforts.

Over the past seven months, SSgt Lee, a member of Headquarters and Maintenance Squadron-24, and his wife Marjorie have collected and refurbished hundreds of toys for the Marine Corps Reserve's Toys for Tots program.

"Working on the toys is something we both enjoy doing," SSgt Lee said. He continued, "Several toys are good as new and all we have to do is clean them up and store them in plastic bags."

Jigsaw puzzles are put together, just to make sure none of the pieces are lost.

To pass the word about their toy gathering campaign, the Lees advertise in the classified section of the Hawaii Marine newspaper. To collect the toys they use a station wagon with "Toys for Tots" stenciled across the sides and back.

The stacks of toys become so crowded at home additional storage and work space was needed and found in the basement of the bachelor officer quarters at the Air Station.

"When we first started another Marine was helping with the toy repairs, but he has since been transferred," SSgt. Lee stated. Looking over stacks of tricycles, pedal cars and bicycles, all of which need sanding, priming and painting, he adds, "We can use assistance from anyone who wants to lend a hand."

After a truck load of toys are prepared, SSgt Fred K. Cook, I & I Staff, 4th Reconnaissance Co., picks them up for storage at Pearl Harbor. At Christmas the toys will be distributed to underprivileged children.

"No sir, I'm not gonna re-up. The recruiter told me they'd send me abroad and I never got mine."

Hey Brudda, where you tink you goin'?

"I mean you, Bruddah, because you my tenant! I you landlord, and we got a lease!"

Marines and their dependents are presently forced into the civilian community to rent housing, either an apartment or a house, usually because there is inadequate on-base housing available.

This unfortunate situation compounds itself because of the unusually high cost of housing here in Hawaii. Especially for the lower enlisted ranks, rent is capable of chewing up two paychecks at one sitting without any difficulty at all. So the first advice any legal assistance officer would give a prospective tenant is: Don't get in over your head by renting a place for more than you can afford!

But some Marines add to their problems because not only do they rent housing at high rates, they fail to include within the lease a so-called military clause. The purpose of a military clause is simple: it allows the tenant to terminate the lease by giving the landlord proper notice in the event that certain agreed upon happenings occur, such as PCS orders or the availability of on-base housing.

Military clauses are not necessarily the art of the lawyer;

they can be written by the tenant and/or landlord and will become effective and binding on the parties to the lease. BUT make sure the military clause makes clear what the parties agree to. To help prospective tenants here is an example of a military clause that may be inserted in or added to a lease:

Notwithstanding any other part of this lease, it is understood between the lessor and lessee that military orders requiring a change of residence by the lessee or the availability of military quarters aboard the (insert the base where housing may become available for the lessee) will terminate this lease upon _____ days written notice given and delivered to the lessor or his duly authorized representative. Proof of orders shall be established either by showing a copy thereof to the lessor or by a letter from the lessee's Commanding Officer verifying the existence of such orders. Proof of the availability of military quarters shall be established by a letter from the Housing Manager or the lessee's Commanding Officer stating the availability of such quarters.

If you are potentially a sponsor, clip out this article and pass it on to the family you may be sponsoring.

By the way, many landlords in the civilian community are aware of the plight of military personnel and sympathize with them. Should your lease not have a military clause in it and on-base housing become available, or you receive PCS orders, talk with him. He may simply agree to terminate the lease upon thirty days notice. It's worth a try.

Kill, then hang up

OAHU Civilians and servicemen throughout the Aloha State will be donating their money and time to a common cause over the Labor Day Weekend.

The cause is the nationwide drive towards finding a cure for a killer disease called muscular dystrophy and the means is a Nationwide Telethon headed by Jerry Lewis.

This is Jerry's seventh consecutive Labor Day Weekend Telethon and Hawaii's first, but regardless of experience, the enemy is the same.

Hiding behind a camouflage of complicated sounding medical terms, muscular dystrophy is a selective killer known to be "incurable."

But Jerry Lewis isn't willing to let it go at that. "There are no incurable diseases," he says. "There are only diseases for which cures have not yet been found."

Apparently Jerry Lewis is not alone in his views on muscular dystrophy.

Concerned citizens donated more than eight million dollars through last year's 20-hour Telethon, to say nothing of the countless big-name show business celebrities that pitched in their time and talents.

Here in Hawaii the Telethon will be heard over radio station KORI, 650 on the dial, starting at 4 p.m. on Sept. 3 and ending at noon the next day.

Jack Lord and other members of the "Hawaii 5-0" cast have already agreed to assist in manning the telephones that will be receiving local pledges. Other Hawaii celebrities are also slated to pitch in.

And then, there are the non-celebrities, the people from all walks of life in the Aloha State, who will be manning a bank of 35 telephones set up in the showroom of Datsun of Hawaii in Honolulu.

One such volunteer is RMI Mike Stanley, USN, from Camp Smith, who is planning on sticking to the Telethon for the full 20 hours.

"I'll consider the time spent working as part of my donation," says Stanley, who will be handling the setting up of chairs and tables and filling in on the phones.

Noted as the only area ever to participate in one of Jerry Lewis' Telethons by radio, the 50th State has set a goal of $50,000.

Camp Smith's Library is 'bound' to have answers

CAMP SMITH - Right here at Camp Smith we have the answers to many questions that plague all of us at one time or another.

The knowledge stored on the shelves of Camp Smith Library covers subjects from Aardvarks to Zymurgy in well over 5,680 books, periodicals, references and magazines. They're all there: political science, history, travel, art and the sciences as well as science fiction and current best sellers.

The card catalogue is your guide and there is always Cpl J.A. Ivie, the librarian, on duty to extend a helping hand in case you have trouble locating that special book.

Hours are handy too. Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday the Camp Library is open from 11:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. For the Saturday book hound, the library hours are 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. The library is closed on Wednesday, Sundays and holidays.

New books are ordered regularly and if you don't see your favorite, why don't you just mention it. After all, you'll be contributing to the knowledge of all concerned.

Those expensive reference books are free to use here and be it a "History of United States Naval Operations in World War II" or an "Encyclopedia of Poetry and Poetics" it's there and up to date.

For those of you who have to tighten up the pocket book on buying newspapers, the library has them. From the "Honolulu Advertiser" to the "Barron's." You'll also be satisfied with the wide selection of magazines that are available.

As patrons enter the library, located in the Women Marine Barracks, a space has been set aside on the right for the latest books from the current best sellers list.

If you think you are qualified for assignment to a Marine barracks or independent duty station, you may formally submit a request to CMC, Code DFB 3 for the assignment of your choice. Discipline hasn't crumbled in the Marine Corps, and a member of the K-Bay band showed that recently. The band was performing at an exhibition football game at Husky Stadium in Seattle, Wash., when the Leatherneck lost his cover. Did he stoop, break cadence and pick it up? No. The cover remained on the field until after the band was gone. A game official finally removed it from the field. (photo by Vic Condiotti of the SEATTLE POST INTELLIGENCE)

MSMs presented to two at Smith in recent ceremony

CAMP H. M. SMITH - Two Marine officers were presented the Meritorious Service Medal at an awards ceremony held here today. Lieutenant Colonel Michael J. Gott and Captain George A. Houle were presented the awards "for outstanding meritorious service" from Lieutenant General William K. Jones, commanding general of Fleet Marine Force, Pacific (FMFPac).

significant increase in the command retention rate.

Reassigned as Force human affairs officer in July 1971, his efforts were directed towards the reduction of racial tensions and drug abuse.

Capt Houle received the Meritorious Service Medal for his performance of duties as officer-in-charge of the FMFPac honor guard from September 1970 to this month. He directed 32 honor ceremonies during that period, providing honors for dignitaries and foreign visitors.

Combined Federal Campaign's motto, 'Give your fair share'

OAHU - The 1972 Combined Federal Campaign (CFC) for 14th Naval District Marine Corps and Navy activities will begin Tuesday and continue through Oct. 16.

The CFC, developed at the request of the President eight years ago, has been highly successful since its inception in the Honolulu area. This year, as in the past, military personnel and civilian federal employees will have the opportunity to contribute to national health and welfare organizations through a single gift to the CFC.

Combined in the CFC are approved federal fund drives of the Aloha United Fund, National Health Agencies and the International Service Agencies.

Another major feature of the CFC is the use of the military allotment and civilian payroll deduction plan to provide a means of spreading individual contributions over an entire year in lieu of a single lump sum donation.

Emphasis this year will again be on 100 percent solicitation among military, appropriated and nonappropriated fund civilian employees, fair-share giving and contributions through payroll deductions.

The key to a successful campaign will be the unit keymen - one keyman for every 25 personnel - who will be coordinating the drive within the various Navy and Marine Corps activities on Oahu.

The Aloha United Fund, with 53 participating agencies, represents the largest of three groups of volunteer health and social service organizations supported by federal employees and service personnel through the CFC.

Because of its size and the scope of its services the Aloha United Funds will be allocated 88.12 percent of the total CFC contributions.

International Service Agencies will receive 6.18 percent and National Health Agencies will get the remaining 5.70 percent.

These percentages apply to the first $1,044,388 pledged this year.

Military personnel and federal employees benefit through the Aloha United Fund in several ways. Men in uniform throughout the world are served by the Red Cross and U.S.O. Travelers Aid renders assistance to federal and military personnel.

Practically, every local Aloha United Fund agency serves members of the federal and military communities in direct proportion to the total population. For example: Boy Scouts have 8,675 in military or government related units. Girl Scouts have 105 troops on Oahu on or near military facilities. Other agencies such as Child and Family Service, Legal Aid, and Kindergarten and Children's Aid Association have federal and military clients.

The Aloha United Fund also supports the nationwide fight against disabling and death-dealing diseases such as cancer, heart disease, cerebral palsy, arthritis, cystic fibrosis, hemophilia and muscular dystrophy. Research and treatment of these diseases and disabilities can save the lives of service personnel and their loved ones.

Three national health agencies are participating in this year's CFC. These are the National Easter Seal Society for Crippled Children and Adults, the National Foundation-March of Dimes and the National Multiple Sclerosis Society.

All three agencies fight the disabling and handicapping diseases of children-crippling physical disorders and birth defects-and those diseases of the central nervous system that initially attack young adults.

Each agency is independent and supported entirely by voluntary contributions. All three have local chapters which offer services to children, young people and adults who need specialized help.

The Easter Seal Society maintains Sultan School in Honolulu for preschoolers. Nearly 25 percent of the children receiving services are military dependents. The school provides speech training, physical and occupational therapy, rehabilitation and education to youngsters who are crippled or physically handicapped but are normal mentally.

In addition, Easter Seal Society serves adult groups by supporting recreation clubs, a drop-in recreation center and an annual resident summer camp for children ages 8 to 14.

The Oahu chapter of the National Foundation-March of Dimes-supports research, medical services, education for prevention and treatment of birth defects. The program includes national research into the early diagnosis of sickle cell disease, improved treatment methods and screening programs, as well as the care of high-risk mothers and babies.

Local programs assisting government-connected families (approximately 50 last year) include the Birth Defects Center, at Kapiolani Children's Hospital in Honolulu, with genetic counseling and diagnostic care. Another March of Dimes financed program tested over 4,000 young women this year on University of Hawaii campuses for their susceptibility or immunity to rebecca (german measles), a serious cause of birth defects.

The local chapter of the Multiple Sclerosis Society offers information, assistance and guidance to military and federal personnel and their families. Service to multiple sclerosis patients includes aids to daily living, social, recreational and friendly visiting opportunities, professional counseling to alleviate social and psychological pressures and medical guidance.

The International Service Agencies supported by this year's CFC are Project Hope, CARE and American Korean Foundation. The agencies provide health, welfare and freedom-building assistance to countries around the world and are a demonstration of America's democracy and concern for others.

in Remedial Driving

Learn accident prevention

by Sgt Steve Hoffman

K-BAY - When a driver is involved in an accident with more than $100 in damages, he is required to attend a six-hour Remedial Driving Class or lose base driving privileges.

Before you scoff-consider the consequences-the next accident could be a lot worse. Sgt Jerry Howard, class instructor, stresses defensive driving in movies and group discussions.

He points out that most accidents could be avoided, and his goal is to teach his students that a practiced and defensive driver will have the knowledge to avoid accidents. He explains further, the application of driver safety is practiced at the driver's discretion, and indiscreet drivers cause accidents.

This reporter, out to get a story and a few photographs, intended to sit in a class for a few minutes, but got involved and ended up sitting through a six-hour class.

One reason the course is so interesting is the efforts of Sgt Howard who said, "To me, this is not merely a job. I believe my efforts can possibly save lives and prevent injuries."

After the course begins, it is easy for students to realize that six hours of classes are preferable to going on to another accident involving fatalities and injuries.

The classes begin at 9 a.m. on Saturdays in the Station Training building and, should you be assigned to a future class, don't think of it as punishment, but as a second chance at being a safe and responsible driver.

Adm Gayler

plans to retire Nov. 1, came to CINCPAC in July, 1968. He was graduated from the U.S. Naval Academy in 1931.

During World War Two, he

commanded the submarines Gunnel and Dentuda, which operated in the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans respectively. He was promoted to Rear Admiral in 1959. He later became commander of the Eastern Sea Frontier and the Atlantic Reserve Fleet. In 1968 he became CINC, U.S. Naval Forces, Europe.

Adm McCain then relieved Adm. U.S. Grant Sharp at CINCPAC.

Among his awards are the Distinguished Service Medal, the Silver Star, the Bronze Star, the Legion of Merit and the Commendation Medal. He and his wife, the former Roberta Wright of Los Angeles, Calif., have three children: LCD John S. McCain III, Mrs. Jean Flather and Joseph P. McCain.

The McCains will return to Washington, D.C.

Two Camp Smith Marines have joined forces with local Air Force personnel to remove 193 derelict autos from Oahu

CAMP SMITH - Two Marines stationed here were praised Monday by Air Force Capt Sam Ng for the assistance they provided to the Air Force during the past two weeks in the Great Automobile Round-Up on Oahu.

Both Marines, Cpl J. P. Harding and PFC C. W. Fisher, are attached to the Camp Motor Transport Section and each morning they departed Camp Smith, driving their wrecker to a designated area to meet one of the two Air Force teams.

With the Air Force providing two teams of two men each and low boys, these six servicemen hauled away 193 derelict and abandoned cars from Halawa, Aiea, Pearl City and Waipahu areas.

Capt Ng, the USAF project officer, stated that he would have been unable to complete the campaign without the aid of the two Marines and their assigned wrecker.

"They worked seven days per week and their performance is highly satisfactory," according to Capt Ng.

On the other side of the island, K-Bay Marines picked up approximately 342 cars and transported them to the Kailua Auto Wreckers where they were processed for dumping.

After being processed, which includes the removal of batteries, all fluids, tires and anything which may be injurious to the environment, these autos were loaded aboard a Navy barge at K-Bay and dumped three quarters of a mile off Kona Point.

Leeward Marines and the Air Force transported their "junks" to Campbell Industrial Park, near Barbours Point, where they will be stripped and the hulks dumped into the ocean in 80 to 160 feet of water.

The 15-day campaign, which began Aug. 12, will attempt to rid Oahu of at least 2,000 derelict automobiles. The hulks will be placed on the ocean floor at three different locations to create breeding grounds for aquatic animals.

In 1960, the Hawaii Division of Fish and Game selected an area off Oahu to test this theory by creating a breeding ground. During this seven months test, the fish count per acre was a 4000 percent increase.

The use of automobiles to create artificial shoals has been successfully tested in Guam, Japan and off both the West and East Coasts of the United States.

The goal of "The Great Automobile Round-Up" was more fish for the table and fewer cars to mar Hawaii's natural beauty. Marines from Camp Smith and K-Bay were able to assist in attaining this goal.
