Uniform prices change

MCLB, Albany, Ga. — As of Oct. 1 uniform prices for male and female uniforms will increase more than 28 percent for the new fiscal year.

It will cost a male Marine $680.74 if he purchases an entire issue of uniforms and a woman Marine $739.70 to purchase her entire issue of required uniforms.

The biggest increase in women uniforms will be the light weight green coat which will increase by $45.80.

Although prices are going up on most items, a few are actually decreasing in price.

For male Marine uniforms, cotton knitted briefs, black nylon socks and black shoes will decrease in price. Light weight green slacks and black oxford shoes will decrease in price for the required women's uniforms.

Chevrons for male and female are also increasing with some items increasing as much as 100 percent.

Also effective Oct. 1, Cash Sales will be located at the Main Exchange. The annual price hikes are not related to this move.

FLIPPED FLATBED — A Volkswagen Dasher collided with a Marine Corps Air Station flatbed truck on the Likelike Highway near the Wilson Tunnel Aug. 10. The five persons, including an infant, injured in the accident were taken to St. Francis Hospital where they were treated and released. According to Honolulu Police, the truck, occupied by two civilian employees of the Air Station's Club Systems, was traveling in the Honolulu-bound lane when it was struck by the compact heading in the same direction. The truck flipped over, crashed through the center guardrail then came to rest in thick foliage on the windward-bound side of the highway.

Officials amend regulations

Policy redefines maternity care

The Department of Defense has amended the definition of medical emergency in the Civilian Health and Medical Plan for Uniformed Services regulation to include emergency maternity inpatient care.

THIS ACTION CORRECTS a "catch 22" situation which has prevented some eligible CHAMPUS inpatient maternity coverage for emergencies associated with their pregnancies.

John Moxley III, M.D., Assistant Secretary of Defense (Health Affairs) explained that, through an oversight, the current CHAMPUS definition of medical emergency omitted any reference to maternity care. The amendment clarifies CHAMPUS policy on this point and establishes that a nonavailability statement is not required for maternity-related inpatient care when the care meets the definition of a medical emergency.

DR. MOXLEY STATED, "As with any other emergency, in the case of pregnancy a medical emergency must involve a sudden and unexpected medical complication which puts the mother, or baby, or both, at risk."

Examples of medical emergencies related to pregnancy include, but are not limited to, hemorrhage, ruptured membrane with prolapsed cord, shock, unconsciousness, heart attack, stroke and injury (as from an automobile accident). Pain alone would not qualify a maternity case as an emergency, nor would inpatient birth after the 34th week of gestation unless an otherwise qualifying medical complication is present.

THE POLICY CLARIFICATION concerning emergency maternity admissions is retroactive to June 1, 1977, the date the current regulation was implemented.

Therefore, any beneficiary who has been denied CHAMPUS benefits for a maternity admission which occurred during this period and which she believes could qualify as an emergency should resubmit the claim(s). Such claims should be sent to the CHAMPUS Fiscal Intermediary serving the area where the admission occurred, with a request that the case be reopened and reviewed.

Due to the retroactive nature of this policy clarification, the filing deadline on such claims is extended to Dec. 31 1981. The deadline on claims for care received in 1981 is Dec. 31, 1982.

WHEN FILING A CHAMPUS claim for emergency care (whether maternity or other) beneficiaries are advised to —

- provide as much detail as possible about the circumstances of the emergency and

- obtain a statement from the attending physician telling why immediate hospitalization was required and why the patient could not be transported to the nearest uniformed service hospital. If the emergency involves a maternity case, the physician's statement must include a certification that he/she had not been seeing the patient during her pregnancy.

Falsifying information on a claim form (such as a fraudulent resident address) in order to circumvent the 40-mile rule applicable to nonavailability statements not involving an emergency is considered to be fraud. Such actions will, at a minimum, result in the government recovering any payments made on such a claim.

FOR FURTHER information about emergency maternity care, pregnant beneficiaries who are contemplating travel, particularly during the last six weeks of pregnancy, should contact the health benefits advisor at a uniformed service medical facility.

Hawaii commemorates 22nd Admission's Day

Friday marks the 22nd anniversary of Hawaii's statehood, commemorating Hawaii's admission as America's 50th state.

THIS DAY IN history was the result of several decades of struggle by the people of Hawaii for full-fledged citizenship and representation.

It was during the year of 1959 that the pieces began to fall into place. The U.S. Senate voted 76 to 15 to introduce the statehood bill March 11. At 3:04 p.m., Washington time (10:04 a.m. Hawaii time) the following day, the House of Representatives voted 323 to 89 to pass the statehood bill. March 18, 1959, the President of the United States, Dwight D. Eisenhower, signed the bill into law.

AFTER THE PLEBISCITE vote (statewide people's vote), President Eisenhower signed the Statehood Proclamation, declaring Aug. 21, 1959 as Admission Day.

The state holiday is celebrated on the third Friday in August each year. Admission has brought more than just one more star to the nation's flag. Since statehood the islands have undergone rapid expansion and evolution. New people, new jobs, new businesses, construction and a tremendous boom in the tourist industry have all played major roles whether good or bad in Hawaii's economic growth.

ALL STATE OFFICES, banks and many businesses will also be closed.

Committee lifts limits

WASHINGTON, D.C. (EMB NewsService) — The House Armed Services Committee has authorized exchanges in the continental United States to sell microwave ovens and has removed most of the cost-price limits that prevent domestic exchanges from selling items costing over a certain amount.

husband and wife often work, and they don't have the time to prepare meals in regular ovens, said Lt. Gen. R. Dean Tice, Deputy Assistant Secretary of Defense for Military Personnel Policy. Tice, who oversees exchange and commissary operations, has asked the HASC to drop most cost-price limits and permit the microwave oven sales.

HASC CHAIRMAN Melvin Price (D-Ill.) said the committee wants exchanges to promote the sale of American-made products whenever possible.

"THE MILITARY FAMILY is subject to direct mobility not expected of its civilian counterpart," Tice added. Tice also cited microwave ovens' energy efficiency.

Exchange officials were pleased with the developments. Bill Yingst, Deputy Merchandising Director at the Army and Air Force Exchange Service (AAFES), said the elimination of the cost-price limits would help the exchange system buy better models of things like convection ovens and riding mowers. AAFES exchanges can expect microwave ovens to be on their shelves in about 60 days, he added.

A Navy exchange official said Navy exchanges would be offering microwave ovens within about 60 days, also. "Microwave ovens have become an essential appliance in today's world," added Capt. Ralph Harms, Deputy Commander of the Exchange Operations Group at the Naval Resale and Services Support Office. Microwave ovens have been sold in overseas exchanges, including Hawaii and Alaska for several years, he noted.

Military families need microwave ovens because both of the driver or occupants. The random searches are conducted so stringently that on Friday the Provost Marshal, LtCol Ron Neubauer, drove to the gate to check on them and as he said, "I happened to be in the wrong place at the wrong time and guess what, my vehicle was checked as well."

THE GATE searches are a necessary inconvenience to motorists, and according to CWO-2 Voisine, "It's a safe bet that there will be more of them."

WHAT'S THIS — SSgt Frank Hart, a member of the Criminal Investigation Division, searches the trunk of a Marine's car for contraband during a search and seizure dramatization. The actual probes, conducted at the Air Station's gates Thursday and Friday, were used to search for government property.

CWO-2 Harriett Voisine, Officer-in-Charge of the Criminal Investigation Division, "The searches were directed by the Commanding Officer of the Air Station as a deterrent. The Commanding Officer is responsible for the health and welfare of everyone here and these searches are held to ensure that people entering the Air Station bring no contraband and those leaving have no contraband, government or station property with them."

wrongful possession of marijuana.

IN FRIDAY'S probe, 190 vehicles were stopped and $200 in government property was found. Nine Marines were held for alleged wrongful possession of marijuana and one Marine was detained for a postal violation.

The searches are conducted randomly to comply with current search and seizure laws. They ensure that vehicles are stopped in a predetermined method despite the rank

The first day's search netted approximately $400 in government property, most of it described as field equipment. In addition, two Marines and four civilians were detained for alleged

EDITORIAL / OPINION

Street Scoop

Home. The American Heritage Dictionary defines home as "A place where one lives or resides." To the men of Marine Amphibious Unit-37 home is something much more special.

"It's a rose garden," commented Sgt Alex McCullough. "On the ship you can only go so far, you're very limited."

That opinion was voiced by most of the Marines who were asked what it was like to be home after a six-month deployment.

There are many hardships at sea. Besides the fact of being away from family and loved ones, Marines must fight the constant boredom and cramped quarters.

When on a "float," Marines look forward to liberty call. LCpl Brian Dancy pointed out that, "Here you can go on liberty every night."

A few Marines remarked about the hot, humid weather.

"It wouldn't have been so bad if the air conditioners were working," stated Pvt Allegro Edwards. "It was enough to make the men appreciate central air."

Being together for a long time in such a limited area had an effect on some Marines.

"The best thing about being off the ship," SSgt Leroy Ford said with a smile, "is that I don't have to spend as much time with the troops!"

One thing we all take for granted was sorely missed by the returning leather-necks... good home cooking!

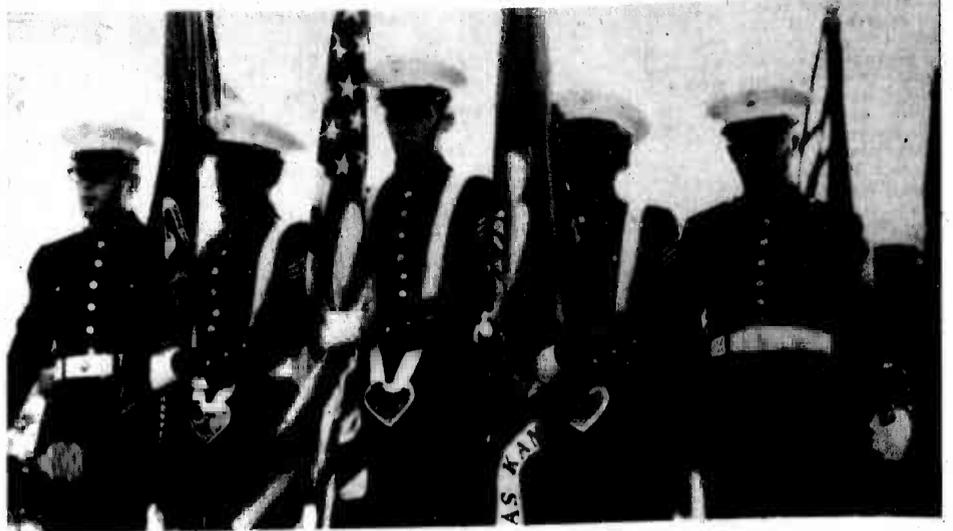

"The food is a lot better here than on the ship," observed Cpl Hector Martinez.

Most of the other comments concerning food were not phrased as politely.

But perhaps the thought echoed again and again, by the Marines is best summed up by LCpl Alfonso Visoria, "It's good to be home!"

In the beginning...

Sgt T.L. Wampler

In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was God. In the Beginning was God — and all else was darkness, and void, and without form. So God created the heavens and the earth. He created the sun, and the moon, and the stars, so that light might pierce the darkness. And the earth God divided between the land and the sea, and these He filled with many assorted creatures.

And the dark, salty, slimy creatures that inhabited the murky depths of the oceans. God called sailors, and He dressed them accordingly.

And the flighty creatures of the air He called airmen. And these He clothed in uniforms which were ruffled and fowl.

And the lower creatures of the land, God called soldiers and with a twinkle in His eye, and a sense of humor that only

He could have, God gave them trousers too short, and covers too large, and pockets to warm their hands. And to adorn their uniforms, God gave them badges. And He gave them cords... and stars... and ribbons... and patches... and stars... and bells. He gave them emblems... and crests... and all sorts of shiny things that glittered... and devices that dangled... When you're god, you tend to get carried away in a big way...

And on the 7th day, as you know, God rested. And on the 8th day at 0730, God looked down upon the earth and was not happy... God was not happy!

So He thought about His labors, and in His infinite wisdom, god created a divine creature and this He called a Marine. and these Marines whom God created in His own image, were to be of the air, the land, and the sea. And these

He gave many wonderful uniforms. He gave them practical, fighting uniforms, so that they could wage war against the forces of Satan and evil.

He gave them service uniforms for their daily work and training, that they might be sharp, and ready...

And He gave them evening and dress uniforms. Sharp, stylish, handsome things, so they might profile with the ladies on Saturday night, and impress the hell outta everybody!

And at the end of the 8th day, God looked down upon the earth, and saw that it was good. But was God happy? No! God was still not happy! Because in the course of His labors, He had forgotten one thing. He did not have a Marine uniform! But He thought about it, and thought about it, and finally satisfied Himself in knowing that, well, not everybody can be a Marine.

Chairman suggests alternative

WASHINGTON, D.C. (EBM NewsService) — Rep. Richard White (D-Texas), Chairman of the House Armed Services Investigations Subcommittee, thinks the country needs to draft a reserve force to bolster military preparedness, but he admits the country isn't ready for his idea yet.

"YOU DON'T WANT A BIG standing army because it's too costly," White said. "But you would like to have a quick response of trained people."

"I think there are some real deficiencies in our services today as a result of not having a broad entry of people in the services," he explained. "You might have to get it through some kind of draft reserve."

"I'm not sure that we're ready," White added. "I don't think we've got support in the White House. I don't think we've necessarily got support from the whole nation." He did say, however, that "people are getting to the point where they're recognizing the all-volunteer force has problems."

"I WOULD DEVELOP SUMMER camps (Citizens Military Training Camps) where people drafted into the reserves could go and train in their basic course; then they would go in the inactive reserves with a two-week refresher course about every three years," White said. "They wouldn't have to report to a weekly drill session or anything like that unless they wanted to."

White thinks his proposal would get support from his Texas constituents. "I've gone and talked about it throughout my district," he said. "They know where I stand on that. And I haven't had much reaction from students."

White has another suggestion to improve the role of the reserves: He would allow students to go into the reserves with time or promotion credits after finishing high school ROTC.

TO IMPROVE THE ALL-volunteer force, a program should be implemented in cooperation with colleges and universities to allow people who enlist to attend college classes, White added. "The enlistee could take night courses, so he's building up education while he's in," White explained. "We need people who are interested in bettering themselves. They've got more self-discipline, and they're probably more intellectually suited to cope with technological demands."

My Turn

EDITOR'S NOTE: In his letter to the editor, printed in the Aug. 5 issue of Hawaii Marine LCpl Steven Butler voiced several complaints concerning Marines and transportation to Honolulu and Waikiki. One problem mentioned was the long walk to TheBus stop.

When asked about this, Capt Patrick Heard, Station Motor Transport Officer said, "The city bus did run a bus directly to the front gate for a period of 90 days during the first part of 1980. However, due to lack of interest on the part of the Marines, the service was discontinued."

"When H-3 was constructed, a walkway was built to provide Marines a safe, well-lit route to TheBus stop," he continued.

Capt Heard wishes that the liberty bus system could be expanded. "We would like to provide additional service, and have asked Headquarters Marine Corps to provide us with the equipment that will enable us to do so. The equipment we do have now is overused."

Motor pool figures indicate that the buses are running 25 to 50 percent more than they should. For the most part, this increase is due to the liberty bus schedule.

"If we had the equipment we would run an additional two buses on the weekends," Capt Heard said.

"We've even tried staggering the buses, but there was such a mob scene to get on the first or second bus that we have to run them in convoys."

In the month of July, more than 12,000 Marines were transported to and from their downtown destinations by the liberty bus. It's easy to complain about the bus service, and granted some things aren't perfect, but when you stop and think about it, it still beats hitchhiking.

Reservists gather for training

Story and photos by Sgt Gary Begin

PICKEL MEAD. — More than 400 truck drivers, artillerymen, communication men and even a few "recon" types recently gathered together at this high altitude mountain warfare training camp for their annual two-week drill.

UNITS FROM as far away as Hawaii and Florida were united under the logistical support and command of the 23rd Marines from Alameda, Calif. to learn the art of map and compass reading and mountain warfare mobility.

Battery O, and Headquarters Battery, 14th Marines, from Oklahoma and Texas, respectively, were joined by truck companies from Pennsylvania and Florida, as well as a recon unit from Hawaii and a medical unit from Oklahoma.

The Leatherneck

THE MEDICAL support personnel took an active part in the training during the day and often performed their normal duties in the evening while everyone else was on liberty.

After each reservist was issued two "D" rings or snaplinks, a rope and a pair of gloves, they were taught how to tie a variety of knots for use on the mountain.

On their first day they learned the fundamentals of balance climbing utilizing only their hands and feet.

AT FIRST they were given easy climbs of 12 to 20 feet up and an equal amount laterally. At this point, the troops were training above the 7,000-foot level.

Friction climbing was also taught during the first day of training all in preparation for the 20 to 60-foot climbs the Marines were to attempt on the following days of instruction.

A friction climb is when the climber uses body pressure and balance to maintain his climb.

On the next day of mountain skills education, a rope bridge and an "available materials" flotation course were taught.

THE FLOTATION course considered of gathering and then securing buoyant items such as ponchos and canteens. The idea was to make a raft out of these materials which would keep the Marine afloat and his equipment dry.

Successful mobilization on the mountainous terrain would give the typical Marine Corps light infantry company a strategic advantage when up against heavy armor that cannot penetrate the rock and tall-timber country.

As the days went by, the Marines gradually gained confidence in their mountaineering skills.

"THE MAIN purpose of this training is to build confidence in the men and in their leaders as well," said LtCol James Snell, Commanding Officer of the 23rd Marines.

"Mountain climbing is something I've always wanted to do," said PFC Tim Jones of Battery O, Oklahoma City, "but it's more difficult than I thought it would be."

"It gave me confidence to want to try bigger climbs," continued the 21-year-old Soener, "I wouldn't mind being stationed here because it's an exciting place."

Besides rock climbing, the Marines also went through a land navigation course.

"Distances here are deceiving," said Sgt A.S. Takamori of 4th Force Reconnaissance Battalion, Honolulu. "It may take an hour to reach a landmark that appears only a few minutes away," he said.

Whether these Marines were climbing rocks or finding coordinates on a map, the training they received may one day be a lifesaver even for truck drivers and artillerymen.

REST AMONG ROCKS — Two Marines take a break from mountain warfare training at Pickel Meadows.

COOL AND REFRESHING — Marines from Truck Company, 6th Motor Transport Battalion, Orlando, Fla., emerge from a mountain pond during the flotation course at Pickel Meadows.

HANGING BY A THREAD — A Marine from the 4th Force Reconnaissance Battalion, Honolulu, inches his way across the Walker River during training in Pickel Meadows.

UP AND DOWN — One Marine prepares to rappel a cliff as the other balance climbs his way up during mountain warfare training at Pickel Meadows.

ON THE ROPES — A 4th Force Reconnaissance Marine from Honolulu heads for the trees during river crossing exercises at Pickel Meadows.

TREETOP TRUCKER — A Marine from Truck Company, 6th Motor Transport Battalion, Orlando, Fla., pulls himself across the Walker River at Pickel Meadows during mountain warfare training.

Aviation celebrates 69th birthday

by Sgt Inez Stoner

What began in the minds and imaginations of ancient man continues today and no doubt will go far into the future.

From the seemingly effortless and graceful flight of the bird to the courageous and daring attempts of those with names like Wright and Cunningham, the love of flight is here to stay.

IN 1939, a presidential proclamation set aside Aug. 19 as National Aviation Day. Marine Corps aviation, nearly 70 years old, has added greatly to the field of aviation as we know it today.

Marine Corps aviation began with the solo flight of Marine Lieutenant Alfred A. Cunningham on Aug. 1, 1912. After only two hours and 40 minutes of instruction, Lt. Cunningham took to the skies to become the first Marine Corps aviator.

IT WAS DURING World War I that Marine Corps aviation got its first real boost when 282 officers and more than 2,000 enlisted Marines claimed the title of aviator. During World War I and conflicts in Santo Domingo and Haiti from 1919 to 1934 and Nicaragua from 1927 to 1933, Marine Corps aviators employed new and daring tactics including dive bombing, air-to-ground communications and the transportation of troops and supplies by air.

Marine Corps aviation continued to grow strong and during World War II, Marine aviators reportedly shot down 2,355 enemy aircraft. This exceptional performance of "aviation know-how" produced 121 aces.

MARINE aviation in a fighting capacity peaked during the Vietnam conflict, however. Marine Corps aviators are also known for their many humanitarian peace-time missions.

The Marine Aircraft Group-24 is MCAS Kaneohe Bay's representative in the field of aviation. MAG-24 is comprised of three fighter attack squadrons, VMFA-212, 232 and 235; Marine heavy helicopter squadron HMH-463; and three Marine medium helicopter squadrons HMM-165, -262 and -265.

In addition, a headquarters and maintenance squadron, H- & MS-24; a Marine air base squadron, MABS-24; and a Marine air control squadron, MACS-2, are also important parts of MAG-24.

IT IS THE mission of any Marine aircraft group to provide support to the ground units, and according to Lt. Col. John Alexander, Operations Officer for MAG-24, "The entire air group is making a concerted effort to provide quality support to the ground Marine."

Lt. Col. Alexander continued by saying, "MAG-24 is especially unique because it is the only aircraft group with a mixture of helicopter and high performance jet aircraft. This makes us the most versatile aircraft group in the world. But it's a tough job!" he added.

ALTHOUGH National Aviation Day is just a little more than four decades old, the thought, love and practice of flight is as old as man's dreams.

Savings bond interest rises

For the second time in six months, interest rates on Series EE Savings Bonds have increased one percent. Other bonds also yield higher interest rates.

SERIES EE Savings Bonds purchased on or after May 1, 1981, yield a nine percent interest rate compounded semiannually when kept until they reach full maturity, according to a recent

Department of Treasury newsletter. The hikes in interest rates are the result of a bill signed Oct. 6, which allows the Secretary of Treasury to raise U.S. Savings Bonds interest rates up to one percent during any six-month period. An additional one percent increase in interest rates on U.S. Savings Bonds may occur as early as Nov. 1, 1981, when the next six-month period ends.

IN ADDITION to increasing interest rates, the maturity date of the Series EE bonds has been shortened one year, from nine to eight years. Unmatured Series E, EE, H and HH Savings Bonds and Savings Notes (Freedom Shares) will also benefit from the one percent increase to their next maturities. The redemption value of E and EE bonds and Savings Notes and the interest on H and HH bonds during periods before they reach maturity will be improved. In general, the increase will start with the first semi-annual period on or after May 1. Maturity periods for these bonds and note will not be changed.

bonds have reached their final maturity and cease to earn interest on the 40th anniversary of the bond's purchase. Series EE Savings Bonds benefits include exemption from state and local taxes, an option to postpone Federal income taxes on accrued interest, low minimum purchase price of $25, and the right to redeem the bonds anytime after six months.

H & R BLOCK TO OFFER TAX SCHOOL IN HAWAII

Thousands of people are earning money in their spare time as income tax preparers. H & R Block, the world's largest income tax preparation service, is offering a basic income tax course starting September 9 and 10 with morning, afternoon and evening classes available at 12 area locations. During the 12 week course, students will study all phases of income tax preparation and receive actual experience in preparing individual returns. Experienced Block personnel will teach current laws, theory and application as practiced in Block offices nationwide. There is a classroom lecture on each subject and practice problems at every level. Courses are programmed to teach students increasingly complex tax problems as study progresses. Students will find the course both interesting and challenging.

Anyone may enroll. There are no restrictions or qualifications. Courses are ideally suited for housewives, retired persons, teachers or persons wanting to increase their tax knowledge.

Qualified course graduates may be offered job interviews for positions with Block. Many accept employment with Block because of the flexible hours available. However, Block is under no obligation to offer employment, nor are graduates under any obligation to accept employment with H & R Block.

The modest course fee includes all textbooks, supplies and tax forms necessary for completion of the school. Certificates will be awarded upon successful completion of the course. The course is licensed by the Hawaii Department of Education.

Registration forms and brochures for the income tax course may be obtained by contacting the H & R Block offices at 98-1268 Kaahumanu St., Pearl City, telephone 487-0450 or 662 Ala Moana Blvd Honolulu, telephone 521-4383.

Food Services strives to satisfy

by Sgt Shane Phelps

The ages-old complaint that military food is not fit to eat and that the cooks themselves don't even know what they are serving is no longer appropriate, at least not aboard MCAS Kaneohe Bay.

THIS IS TRUE due mostly to the attitude of the Air Station's Food Services Officer, Captain Nancy Wilt, and her staff.

"In the past, Marines were formed up and marched to chow," said Capt Wilt. "Now, we actively seek the patronage of Marines. We view Marines as customers. We want to know what they want and we are working toward their satisfaction."

Illustrative of this attitude is the more than $700,000 spent since 1978 on improvements to the station's dining facilities. Capt Wilt recites an almost endless list of new equipment and renovations including new convection ovens, pots and pans washers, jet steamers, grills, meat slicers, microwave ovens and the refurbishing of both Pless and Anderson Halls.

"WE WANT TO serve hot food when it should be hot and cold food when it should be cold. We want to be as efficient as possible," commented Capt Wilt.

And, according to Capt Wilt, the equipment being bought is not of cheap quality. "The equipment we have and the equipment we have bought are as different as the Volkswagen and the Cadillac," said the captain.

BUT, THE MON-ey used to purchase all the new equipment and to renovate the facilities has not always been available. "We've gone from famine to feast," Capt Wilt explains. "In the past, we've never had enough money. Recently, however, Headquarters Marine Corps announced that it had $500,000 to distribute among commands in the Pacific. We had our paperwork in the mail in a matter of days requesting funds, and we ended up with the lion's share." But even more importantly, the new equipment will save energy and relieve many soon-to-be grateful Marines from mess duty. "It's worth $5,000 for a new dishwasher if it means that two Marines will not have to stand mess duty," Capt Wilt said. In fact, the new automatic potwashers just purchased will relieve 12 Marines per month, or 144 per year, from mess duty. And if Capt Wilt has her way, eventually there will be little need for Marines aboard the air station to stand mess duty at all.

The lion's share was more than $430,000 of the $500,000. All of that money has long since been spent and tons of equipment sits in the Subsistence Warehouse waiting to be installed. Capt Wilt says that most major installation will be completed within two months.

SPENDING hundreds of thousands of dollars is not the only step that the Food Service division is taking toward making the dining facilities more appealing to Marines. "We want to know what our Marines want in their dining facilities," said Capt Wilt.

With this in mind, Food Services solicits the comments or complaint of the Marines who eat at Pless and Anderson Halls. Also, Capt Wilt is seeking volunteers to serve on the Menu Board, the body of Marines that decides what will be served. Contrary to what most may believe, it is the Marines themselves who decide the menu, and not an arbitrary decision of the Food Services Office.

THE ALMOST Herculean effort of the Food Services Office to improve dining conditions aboard the station benefits not only those who eat in the dining facilities, but also Marines responsible for preparing and serving meals.

"We gathered our cooks and managers together and asked them what they wanted" the captain explains. "To the best of our ability, we provided what they requested."

The cooks and managers of the dining facilities are a source of pride for Capt Wilt and the Food Services Office. "If Headquarters Marine Corps had lined up every cook and staff NCO in the Marine Corps for me to choose from, I could not pick a better staff than we have now," she boasts.

CAPT WILT sums up the philosophy that guides Food Services in the performance of its duties: "It is simply caring enough to make our customer satisfied."

Sportnotes

PULL — A shooter aims for a clay pigeon at the Special Services Skeet Range, the only military skeet range on the island. The range is open three days a week and provides guns, ammo and skeets for those who don't have them.

Range offers skeet shooting

Had a tough week at the office... well, take out your frustrations on the clay birds at the MCAS Kaneohe Bay Skeet Range.

Special Services maintains two skeet ranges on the edge of Ulupau Crater, the only military skeet ranges on the island.

Soon the range will offer trap shooting. Although the trap machine isn't installed, it has arrived and soon the range will be able to accommodate both trap and skeet shooting.

Cpl David Castellon, Noncommissioned Officer-in-Charge, opens the range three days a week. Firing starts at 11 a.m. Friday and concludes at 6 p.m. During the weekend, the range opens from 8 a.m. till 6 p.m. For patrons who have their own gun and ammunition the cost is $2. Or, for those just getting started, $5 supplies a choice between a 20-gauge or 12-gauge shotgun, 25 rounds and the clay birds.

Cpl Castellon continued, "Once a month we sponsor a dead-eye skeet tourney, and seven dollars provides gun, ammo, food and beverage. Teams consist of five people, men or women combinations. Trophies are awarded for high shooting.

"It's wholesome entertainment for the hunters' off season, or anyone who wants to hone up their past shooting skills."

MCAS Kaneohe Bay Marina will be the site of an unusual contest Aug. 30, when the bay will be taken over by UFO's (unidentified floating objects). A UFO is anything but a boat, and it's powered by man. The tricky part is that it must be able to race a one-mile course starting and finishing at the Marina. There can be no more than four members on the float at one time and teams will not have more than 20 members. Each team of four-man crews must also race at least one-fifth of the course. The entry fee is $20 per float and the deadline is Aug. 20, at the Marina. All UFO's must be at the Marina by 10 a.m. Aug. 29 for inspection and judging. The race will start at noon Aug. 30.

The Mid-Pacific Roadrunners will sponsor the Hawaii Road Runners Club of America 10K Championship Race Sunday at 7 a.m. The race, starting at Building 215, is also the qualifying race for the Hawaii Marine Cross Country team.

The Provost Marshal's Office and Special Services have combined forces to start a free dependent weight-lifting program to be held at the mini-gym. Starting Aug. 24 classes will be held every Monday, Wednesday and Friday from 3 to 5 p.m. The classes will be divided into two groups; group A, ages 12 to 14 and group B, ages 14 to 16. For entry into the program, junior weight-lifters must have a physical examination. The Kaneohe Branch of the Naval Regional Medical Clinic will conduct physicals the morning of the first class. For more information contact Sgt Michael Kobes at 257-3425.

In the Hawaii Armed Service Athletic Council Tennis Tournament held at Hickam Air Force Base, Aug. 10 through 13, MSgt Al

Hanly of Marine Air Control Squadron-2 shut out the Navy Senior 6-0, 6-0 and defeated the Air Force Senior 4-6, 6-4 and 6-4. In the finals MSgt Hanly lost to the 1980 defending champion, Col. Les Thrar of Army 7-6, 6-4. The third win for the Marines came from Capt Handy Broz of Headquarters Company, 1st Marine Brigade. Capt Broz prevailed over SSgt Cliff Hills of the Army 6-1, 6-2 in the Junior Veteran Division.

The Men's Summer Open Slowpitch Softball League has completed its second round of play. Finals are being held this week at Pollock Field starting at 5:30 p.m. Monday. The final regular season standings are:

Medical center conducts survey

It has been noted that many patients who frequent doctors' offices, medical clinics and hospitals are aware that they can have significant control over their own physical well-being. Often they do not understand the nature of their own illness, or what constitutes sound health practices-not do they realize the limitations inherent in any health care delivery system.

With this in mind, the Naval Regional Medical Center, Hawaii is encouraging consumer input in developing an overall patient education program, with the ultimate goal of helping individuals change their behavior and take personal accountability to promote, protect and maintain their optimum level of health.

Cmdr. Bobbie Clinton, recently designated to coordinate and develop an overall patient education program for NRMCH Hawaii, is interested in determining patient needs and desires for such an undertaking.

The following questionnaire has been prepared to help. Your participation in completing this questionnaire will be greatly appreciated as this information will be vital in planning educational programs appropriate to consumer needs.

Please return the questionnaire no later than Aug. 31.

Intelligence Brief

by MSgt Gary Thomas
Combat Intelligence Center

Intelligence Brief will feature a four-part survival in both North and South Korea. Anticipation of survival hazards can enhance your chances of returning to freedom if you have the confidence and the knowledge necessary to solve the survival problems which may be encountered. This series starts with an article on "Survival Hazards."

THE DANGERS to survival in Korea will vary with the time of year and the geographical location in which a person find himself. In the high, mountainous regions an evader may not be so vulnerable to detection and capture, but if unprotected, he may succumb to exposure in a matter of hours, particularly during winter. During the summer months, if water and food are not available, death could result from numerous factors.

The Korean climate varies from one extreme to the other. During the winter months, the basic problems of survival and evasion would be greatly complicated by low temperatures, snow and wind.

THE MAIN concern of the evader in mountainous areas would be to find immediate shelter. The location of this shelter would determine how far the evader has to travel in search of food and water. Traveling in winter conditions may well consume more energy than may be replaced by the limited food available. Also, climbing in these highlands will result in heavy sweating which, in turn, will increase the likelihood of falling victim to exposure.

Dangerous animals are relatively scarce in Korea but any animal, whether wild or domestic, may be dangerous.

THERE ARE two species of poisonous snakes in Korea. One of them is called the mamusai. Its upper skin is colored grey, has a length of 20 to 26 inches. brown or red, and its underskin is yellowish or off-red. It may also be speckled black or almost solid black. The mamusai sometimes resembles the cottonmouth moccasin found in the United States. It

The Russell's Viper has a wide head and is colored deep yellow, tan, or light brown, with oval, black spots. It may be 40 to 50 inches in length. The primary danger from animals found in Korea is the hazard of disease posed by some of the smaller species, such as rats and mice. Lice and ticks also pose a problem. These, along with other insects, such as flies and mosquitoes, can become a psychological aggravation as well as a health hazard to the survivor attempting to live off the land in an already stressful situation. MARINES should check their body regularly and remove insects as they are found. Sleeves and collars should be kept buttoned if possible.

Also remember that prevention of dysentery is vital. Its victims can be rendered helpless in less than 24 hours. For further information, contact the Combat Intelligence Center at extension 257-3190.

DoD official predicts civilian contract increase

NEW YORK (EBM NewsService) — The military will contract out more of its duties in the future to maintain military readiness, a top Department of Defense official has predicted.

JIM JULIANA, principal deputy Assistant Secretary of Defense for Manpower, Reserve Affairs, and Logistics, said, "We have to relieve the soldier, sailor, or Marine from doing just ordinary work that the civilian population can perform."

Juliana made his remarks at a gathering of suppliers and sales representatives who sell merchandise to exchanges and commissaries. The meeting was held to award college scholarships to dependents of active-duty and retired military personnel.

The official noted that the Army will continue to test the contracting out of two commissaries — at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo., and Yuma Proving Grounds, Ariz. And he cited strong pressure to get the Navy and Air Force to do the same. "We may not be able to defer that," he said.

Contracting out is popular with President Reagan. Secretary of Defense Caspar Weinberger, and Dr. Lawrence Korb, Assistant Secretary of Defense for Manpower, Reserve Affairs, and Logistics, Juliania said.

A NUMBER OF bases have already contracted out support services like maintenance, public works, and fire fighting.

Hawaii officials announce hunting and fishing seasons

Department of Natural Resources announced changes in the special control hunting season for feral pigs and goats on Molokai. The purpose of the changes is to reduce the restrictions on hunter participation, encourage the harvesting of feral pits and provide hunters with an opportunity to hunt axis deer.

Using the last digit of the hunter license as a means of signing hunter tags, hunting days will be rotated, but the system may be reinstated if it becomes necessary.

Under the new system hunters who harvest three pigs or two goats, or a combination of two pigs and one goat during the season will be issued an axis deer tag to take one deer of either sex. The tag will be valid until one deer is harvested.

Hunters will be able to accumulate their daily take of pigs and goats over a number of hunting days to qualify for the deer tag. A hunter who brings out a pig, goat, or deer which is surrendered because of signs of tuberculosis will be given a deer tag good for one axis deer of either sex.

An individual hunter is to be limited to one axis deer of either sex per day. Deer tags are not to be transferable. There will be no limit as to the number of times a hunter may qualify to hunt axis deer. All other conditions including a limit of 45 hunters per day on a first-come first-served basis will remain in effect. For more information, contact the Division of Forestry and Wildlife on the respective islands.

The Division of Aquatic Resources, Department of Land and Natural Resources announced the opening of the annual rainbow trout fishing season in the Kokee Public Fishing Area on Kauai Saturday, Aug. 1 and continues through Sept. 27.

Anglers may fish daily for a period of 16 consecutive days from Aug. 1 through 16; thereafter, for the remainder of August and throughout the month of September, trout fishing is permitted on Saturdays, Sundays and State holidays.

Prospective anglers must have valid 1981-82 Freshwater Fishing Licenses before fishing in the Kokee Public Fishing Area. Good fishing can be expected from most of the fishing areas during the opening weekend of the season, particularly in the Kawaikoi Stream, Waiakoali Stream, Koaie Stream, Waialae Stream, Puu Lua Reservoir and the ditch systems.

Newcomers to the Kokee Public Fishing Area should consult with the attendant at the Kokee Park Headquarters regarding road conditions and access routes to the fishing spots.

If you have any questions or need additional information, contact the Division of Aquatic Resources offices at 1151 Punchbowl St., Honolulu, Hawaii (phone 548-4002) or at the State Office Building, Lihue, Kauai (phone 245-4444).

You can count on the Corps.

You're building a good retirement, so why start over?

You want to have something to show for your hard work. Some security in your future. That's exactly what you have in the Corps. After 20 years, you can retire with half pay. After 30, three-quarters. You start receiving that pay the day you retire. Not at age 55 or 62 or 65. And you receive it for life. Private industry can't beat that, and very few unions can equal it.

Consider also, if you leave and take your chances as a civilian, you start over at the bottom of the heap.

You may not have medical and educational benefits as good as the Corps' either. And would you be as proud of that civilian job? Think it over...

Iolani enters 119th year

As Iolani enters its 119th year and its third year of co-education, nearly 300 girls are enrolled in grades 7 to 11. Girls compose more than one-quarter of the students in each of those grades. Iolani is accepting applications from girls and boys for grades 7 to 12 for the 1982-83 academic year.

The latest addition to the Iolani campus, the Father Kenneth A. Bray Athletic Center, was dedicated this past summer. It offers the school a second gymnasium, additional locker room space, racquetball facilities and new areas for dance, wrestling, gymnastics and volleyball.

The traditional emphasis on academic excellence remains the cornerstone of an Iolani education. Each year Iolani students excel on advanced placement examinations, and over 98 per cent of the school's graduating seniors go on to four-year colleges, mostly on the Mainland. Iolani seeks to admit academically outstanding students in grades K through 12 and provides them with a balanced, challenging course of study.

Additional information about applying to Iolani School may be obtained by calling the admissions office at 949-5355.

Lush location for Nuuanu Preschool

Since its establishment in 1955, Nuuanu Preschool has been dedicated to the care and education of children. Located on a large parcel of land in lush Nuuanu Valley, the school has spacious outdoor play areas and cool, comfortable classrooms; all conducive to the learning and growing process of the young child.

Nuuanu Preschool strives to create healthy, happy children by providing a warm and friendly learning atmosphere for its children to develop to their full potential. The children are helped with the transition from home to school and the adjustment of being in a group situation.

The program we pursue is geared toward the development of the total child — socially, emotionally, academically and physically.

It is geared toward helping the child develop habits of observation, questioning and listening. It stimulates the child's natural curiosity to learn. It also gives the child an awareness of his or her own feelings and the right to express these feelings. They learn that they are free to make choices, but with consideration for people and things. A program like ours prepares the child to utilize his intellectual and creative abilities in future learning tasks.

Activities include arts and crafts, science, manipulatives, role play, blocks, music, cooking, sensory games, number and letter exercises, reading and writing. Along with our academic activities, we also provide roomastics, hula, karate and ukulele lessons.

Registrations are now being accepted. For information, call Nancy Moore at 595-2700.

Pacific Maritime Academy can start career at sea

Pacific Maritime Academy is Hawaii's only license preparation school for USCG examinations. The academy holds courses for deck and engineering officers, small boat operators, harbor pilots, able seaman and lifeboat certificate. All of which have sea time requirements. Courses not requiring sea time are complete celestial navigation and diesel mechanics. The academy's deck and engineering officers course have been geared for the military, having evening classes twice a week and Saturday mornings; 12½ hours per week, over a period of six months for 300 hours. Homework is extensive for these courses which are more difficult than most college courses. It isn't all fun and games but the outcome makes it all worthwhile. USCG and naval personnel having three or more years on large tonnage vessels are eligible to sit for officer's licenses, and can look ahead to a good future on completion of their service duty. The courses are approved for veteran benefits. New Able Seaman requirements provide opening into the Merchant Marine profession. An Unlimited Able Seaman now needs three years on vessels 65 ft. or over. Limited A/S need 18 months on 100 ton vessels. Special A/S need one year of sea time. Complete Celestial Navigation is a popular course for those planning a merchant marine career, as well as, the fisherman and the yachtman. When a student completes the course at P.M.A., he or she is a navigator. Jobs are not in demand for this position but there are some openings. It also provides an addition to your portfolio in getting a job at sea. The academy is looking for job placement for the young people of Kauai and the Waianae Coast on tour boats, fishing vessels, commercial fishing, freight and towing, and other such jobs, as deck hands. Apprenticeship training on fishing vessels would also give them experience in boat handling, the art of fishing, and a taste of what a sea career is like.

Le Jardin Academy

Le Jardin Academy offers a solid, highly effective program in the reading, spelling and writing of English and in the basics of English grammar and arithmetic. Classes are small, and in reading and spelling the school follows the well-known Spalding phonetic approach.

Le Jardin's well-balanced curriculum includes Science, History, Art, Music, and Physical Education. Swimming classes are part of the latter. The School also introduces all of its pupils, elementary and preschool, to conversational French in the early years and academic French in the upper grades.

James M. Taylor, long known in Hawaii for high educational standards, serves as headmaster. For information, call 261-0707.

Hawaii Child Centers are known for quality

The seven Hawaii Child Center pre-school/day care schools are known for the high quality of their instruction and care. A caring environment has been created for staff and children so that happy teacher/child relationships can be established.

Staff teachers are hired who believe in tender, loving care, in addition to having a degree. The pupil/teacher ratio is low. Curriculum and classrooms arrangement are based on the learning center concept wherein the rooms are divided into self-contained areas for science (with aquariums, rocks, plants), reading and reading readiness (with Language Masters, tape decks, books), numbers, music, art, dress-up corner, etc. There are a minimum of two parent/teacher conferences per year, the last of which includes a report card.

In addition to pre-school ages, the centers offer After School Programs for the children in public and private elementary schools in each area. Children in these programs are offered hobby-like activities, non-competitive sports and time to do their homework, as well as relax.

The After School Program has been expanded to the Kaneohe area serving Heeia, Ben Parker, Kapunahala and St. Ann's Elementary Schools.

All the After School Programs have a van and usually serve five or six close-by elementary schools. A child can have breakfast at the center, be bused to his elementary school and after classes be bused back to the center. Curriculum, classroom environment and equipment follow the highest national standards.

The fastest growing school of the seven is Hawaii Child Center-Montessori on Kailua Road (in the First Baptist Church, Windward) which has a certified Montessori Head Teacher and all the special materials required. A very excellent K/1/2 class is offered in Kailua and is run by the finest teacher ever hired by Hawaii Child Centers.

The centers open early; close late; serve breakfast, lunch and snacks; offer transportation and charge under a flexible hours arrangement.

Each Center should be contacted for registration information and details on their programs and hours.

Success offers help for disabled

Success Learning Programs' goal is to provide special help for learning disabled youngsters.

A child or adult is generally said to have a learning disability when his/her scholastic performance, with language and math skills, is two or more years below what would normally be expected of that person. Learning disabilities can be a problem for all levels of intelligence — gifted, average or low achieving.

At Success Learning Programs the emphasis is on the language areas of listening, speaking, reading, writing and spelling. Math instruction is direct and emphasizes the use of concrete materials.

Learning behavior is a concern and improvement of learning behavior — attending, associating, recalling, formulating answers and work production — is a primary goal. Study skills are emphasized. Social-emotional factors and physical coordination and skill are also taken into consideration.

Integral to Success Learning Programs' philosophy is that learning difficulties are often a basis of problems in learners where reading problems are found. Factors, such as sensory attention, visual attention, impulsivity, motor speed, verbal facility, ability to follow directions and ability to see the part in relation to the whole, are considered.

The instruction procedure is to test for the special needs of the child. When the areas of special need are delineated, then programs are designed in those areas. Emphasis is placed on direct instruction to the individual needs. Supportive positive feedback and constant readjustment of instruction follow.

This year Success Learning Program will provide a group experience along with the one-to-one tutoring and small group experiences normally provided in the summer. Top-notch teachers, high-quality materials, close and direct interaction between teacher and parent, and constant follow-up on the child's performances are an integral part of the programs.

Call 261-0017 for more information. You may also wish to request a copy of their booklet: "Guidelines for Parents in Choosing Remedial Schooling for the Child." Put your name on their mailing list for their seminar explaining learning disabilities, "Diagnosis — Learning Disability."

Howarth dance classes bring rich rewards

Expose your daughters to one of the oldest of the art forms and watch as they, the "buds of beginners", spring alive with the richness of Sally Howarth's training and in time "blossom" into delightful young ladies filled with grace, beauty and self confidence.

The Fall Session at the Howarth School of Dance, which is offering a full range of classes for ages five through adults promises excellence.

This is the 19th anniversary of Sally Howarth's teaching. There are a variety of classes taught for the various age groups.

The newest concept is the Jazz and Cheer Class which offers students the opportunity to learn the basic skills of cheerleading as well as Jazz dance techniques.

Many aspiring cheerleaders are injured during tryouts because they are not physically able to handle the stress of the required moves necessary for auditioning. Through the Jazz and Cheer Class the students are taught routines, both Jazz and Cheer, how to be creative, show enthusiasm, poise and personality. A 'must' for a dancer, a 'must' for a cheerleader.

The other creative class that is so popular is the Fun and Fantasy class for children ages 5 to 9. These children are taught routines from fairytale to pomm-pomm and song leaders, and, of course, darling little jazz dances most becoming a little girl.

The idea of this class is to encourage the children in dance and still make the class fun and exciting to attend.

Sally Howarth believes in keeping little girls just that — little girls, feminine and precious.

Classes are available for all levels of dance from the beginner to the advanced dancer. All classes include a wide variety of exercises, stretching, basic ballet, jazz technique and dance routines.

Tap classes are also offered for all ages and are based on the same format with the exception of tap routines rather than the jazz.

Sally Howarth has a fine reputation in the community for her patience with her students, the discipline found in her classes and the excellence of her technique. Her students have chalked up a long list of titles over the years. By joining her classes you may be the next Miss Teenager, Miss Hawaii or whatever your dreams may be.

Fall classes begin the week of Sept. 14. For more information phone the Windward YMCA at 261-0808, or call 262-7747 or 254-2110.

Adult "Dancercise-Jazzercise" class to begin in October call Sally Howarth 254-2110.

At Nani Muna Montessori School, the task is providing the child with the tools of self-discovery, which will enable him to "create the person he is to become."

Nani Muna is a special place to help children learn, grow and develop. Nani Muna is adding summer and fall skill classes to our curriculum and is also adding first grade to the school. In addition, video courses with Margaret Humfrey for teachers and parents in helping children 2½ through 7 years of age, will be offered.

Practical life, sensorial exercise, language, mathematics and cultural subjects; plus geography, music, history, foreign language and art are the foundation of the Montessori curriculum.

Priory strives for highest

St. Andrew's Priory School for Girls is in its 115th year and continues to live up to its motto "Kulia I Ka Nu'u (strive for the highest)".

The Priory is a private day school founded in 1867 because of a royal request by Queen Emma. She had been raised in the English tradition and wanted a school in Hawaii where young Hawaiian girls could receive an education equal to that of the boys.

The Priory's average enrollment is 660 students. The school's college-preparatory curriculum includes many creative and interesting elective courses. Located on the grounds of Queen Emma Square, the Priory is adjacent to the new downtown Civic Center of Honolulu. For information call 536-6102.

Calvary Episcopal preschool continues growth

On June 5, Calvary Episcopal Church Preschool and Day Care Center began their 15th year in the care and education of children from the Kaneohe-Kailua communities.

During this 15-year period the school has grown from a small three teacher, 45 student day care center into a three-building complex with a potential enrollment of 90 children and a staff of 10 well-trained Christian women.

This has produced an exciting learning environment for all concerned.

This Christian preschool offers a well-balanced individualized development program of pre-kindergarten skills and social adjustment in order to prepare each child for either private or public school.

Experiences in science, cooking, ethnic studies, music, and creative art in many medias are interwoven with a chapel program every Wednesday morning and free-play periods using both fine and gross motor toys and equipment.

Ethnic holidays are special times for songs, language, cooking, eating new foods, and learning about families from all over the world. Audio-visual aides such as movies, film strips, records and cassettes are used to enhance such projects.

Instruction about our community helps this year included visits from the police and firefighters with their respective vehicles, the Humane Society's "Mr. Mac" and his friend Freckles.

Calvary Preschool is proud of our early childhood trained and CDA certified teaching staff. Each teacher has been chosen for her patience and love for children and they each bring over five-years experience to this year's group of new students.

The location of the center "right across the street from McDonald's" provides easy access for commuter parent. Children may be dropped off as early as 6:30 a.m. and the center closes at 5:30 each evening. Preschool hours are from 8 thru 1:30 each weekday morning. The center is open 12 months for day care operation.

Interested parents are asked to call the school director, Mrs. Lauretta Crowell at 247-2733 for more information.
