Gate inspections ensure Station security

by Sgt Ernie Carter

"Personnel and vehicles entering station are subject to search before entering and leaving," warns a sign approximately 100 feet from the H-3 Gate. A similar sign near the Mokapu Gate gives the same warning.

Actually most searches at the gates are not searches at all. They fall in the category of inspections. Rule 313 (G) of the Military Rules of Evidence defines an inspection as an examination. The primary purpose of the examination is to determine and ensure security, military fitness or good order and discipline. It may be an examination of a unit, organization, installation, vessel, aircraft or vehicle.

ACCORDING TO Lieutenant Colonel Ronald Neubauer, Provost Marshal, there are two types of inspections — inbound and outbound — conducted by the military police at the Air Station's gates.

"While the intent of each (inspection) is somewhat similar," LtCol Neubauer said, "they are uniquely different."

He pointed out that both inbound and outbound examinations are administrative inspections and are conducted only at the expressed direction of the Station Commander.

The Air Station's senior law enforcement officer said outbound inspections must be instituted for specific reasons. He cited an example: "The Commanding Officer has evidence that a large quantity of government property has been pilfered or private property has been stolen. He also has reason to believe the property will be transported off station in vehicles. He then directs that an inspection be made."

LtCol Neubauer added that the Security Department provides much of the information for the Station Commander. "At the first of the month, we submit a list of stolen property to the CO," he said.

WHEN THE COMMANDING Officer directs an outbound inspection he provides a list of specific items he has reason to believe will be transported off station.

The Provost Marshal said that the military police usually find items that are not included on the list. "During these inspections, we are not obliged to close our eyes to other contraband," he said. The contraband can be seized and used as evidence.

Although the Commanding Officer must have reason to believe specific items are being taken off station to direct an outbound inspection, he need not be so specific about inbound inspections.

"Inbound inspections are different in that the CO directs that they be conducted to seize any and all contraband found," LtCol Neubauer said. "Inbound inspections prevent contraband, deemed disruptive to the Station and well-being of personnel, from being introduced aboard the installation."

The Provost Marshal included weapons, marijuana and other illegal drugs in this category of contraband.

He added that the Commanding Officer can direct the military police to conduct an inbound inspection as often as necessary.

DEPUTY STAFF JUDGE Advocate, Major Glenn Orgeron, said a primary concern about inspections is that they can be conducted at random. "The people performing the inspections cannot have any discretion about who is inspected."

LtCol Neubauer said there are three ways to perform random inspections. One method is to inspect vehicles at timed intervals. For example, a vehicle may be stopped every 10 minutes. The second technique is to inspect by the number of the vehicle. For instance, every fifth vehicle is inspected.

He pointed out that there is room for error in both methods.

The traffic flow may be light and a vehicle isn't available at the 10 minute period. Or, perhaps during a peak traffic period there isn't time to inspect every fifth vehicle.

"The way we do it," said the Lieutenant Colonel, "is to establish three stations at the H-3 Gate and two at the Mokapu Gate. When the stations are established, we fill each one. As soon as a station clears, the next vehicle is pulled into that station and inspected."

"THIS IS ABOUT the best system to satisfy the need for random inspections."

Maj Orgeron said, "The primary purpose of inspections is not prosecution but to keep the command secure and combat ready."

However, if contraband is found, the possessor's command is notified. "When contraband is found we warn the owners of their rights. If the offense is serious, CID (Criminal Investigations Division) opens a case. If it is a minor offense, we handle it with an Incident Complaint Report and forward it to the command. What happens to the Marine is strictly up to the command," LtCol Neubauer said.

Major Thomas Henry, Chief Trial Counsel prosecuting attorney, said that most contraband cases are handled at office hours or summary court-martial at the unit level. A few of the more serious cases are tried at special courts-martial.

"Normally the sentence at a special Court-Martial for possession of marijuana involves confinement at hard labor," Maj Henry said. "The possessor could be awarded up to six months confinement and a bad conduct discharge from a special court-martial."

IN THE CASE OF civilian employees a report is made to the worker's supervisor and a copy goes to the Civilian Personnel Office. Dependents are handled in a manner similar to that of military members. Military sponsors are responsible for their dependents' actions. Therefore, reports are made to the sponsors' command.

No one can refuse to allow the inspection of his or her vehicle. LtCol Neubauer said, "The Supreme Court has ruled that civilians must allow the inspection."

"If a military member says no, he is disobeying a lawful order. He is ordered out of the vehicle and if he continues to disobey the lawful order, he is apprehended. A search is then conducted pursuant to a lawful apprehension."

The Provost Marshal pointed out that an average of $600 to $800 in property is normally recovered during a two to three-hour inspection.

Illegal contraband is destroyed after a set period of time. Government property is returned to Marine Corps inventory. Field equipment such as packs, canteens and sleeping bags, is held at the Security Department. The Marine is allowed time to produce proof that he was rightfully in possession of the gear. If he cannot, the gear is returned to supply.

A GOOD SUGGESTION is that each Marine maintains the hand-receipt for his field gear on his person at all times. "That is the reason they (Marines) are given the receipt," LtCol Neubauer said.

More inspections are expected. "I can say that the frequency of inspections will increase," the Lieutenant Colonel said.

Maj Orgeron added, "These types of inspections are authorized as a means of ensuring the security of this facility and, as such, people can expect them."

According to the Provost Marshal, inbound inspections will increase due to the Commandant of the Marine Corps' recent ALMAA on drug usage. "The hope is to prevent the introduction of illegal substances."

"Inspections are a deterrent and an increase in frequency will keep honest people honest."

Doctor gives center shot of adrenalin

New director steers counseling center's helm

by Sgt Inez J. Stoner

The Air Station's in-house drug and alcohol abuse facility, the Counseling and Assistance Center, has been under new direction since Jan. 22.

The new director, Dr. Tom Ditzler, is a diagnostic and rehabilitative neuropsychologist.

Before coming here, Ditzler was the counseling supervisor at the St. Francis Hospital, Women's Alcohol Treatment Center in Honolulu.

Ditzler received his master's degree at the University of Michigan and his doctorate of counseling psychology at Clayton University (St. Louis) in 1980. The Flint, Mich. native also worked on the mainland as a psychologist and social worker.

According to Ditzler, the No. 1 priority at the CAAC has been the new urinalysis testing kit. "We have established urinalysis test procedures in accordance with CMC directives," said Ditzler. "A large part of our energies are invested in that."

About a dozen Marines and civilians work with Ditzler at the CAAC.

"I'm not in the Marines," he said, "but I'm working for the Marines, so I get the best of both worlds. Here, we have the strength of all the Marine Corps management systems. The Marine Corps has also provided me with a lot of direction." He added, "In the civilian world, there is a lack of clarity in management and guidance, but not in the Marine Corps. That's one of the things that I like about the Marine Corps. We have direction, but we also have the opportunity to be creative."

There are currently a number of creative ideas being considered at the CAAC. According to the doctor, one of his goals is to upgrade the clinical training of his staff. "There are a lot of untapped educational resources," explained Ditzler. "Some of the training is offered through the Marine Corps and some through state agencies."

He is also thinking about bringing in graduate psychology interns with skills and interests in substance abuse counseling. In addition, Ditzler would like to establish a smoother link between the CAAC and the Family Services Center here.

It was during his social work on the mainland that Ditzler realized that substance abuse was the underlying problem in many domestic problems. "When someone comes in because of spouse abuse or child abuse, the real culprit is often substance abuse," explained Ditzler.

The staff at the CAAC uses both group and individual therapy to treat Marines who use and abuse drugs and alcohol. The center tries to improve the quality of the abusers' life with treatment geared toward reeducation. "We're not in the business of providing happy endings," said Ditzler. "All we can do is plant the seed. If we can just get these people operational again, then we consider ourselves successful. But it all boils down to the individual's attitude," he continued. "They have to want this treatment."

Ditzler began his career helping others because of what he explains as "sort of selfish reasons. You need to find something to do that makes you feel good about yourself," he said. "I don't win a lot, but I do go home at night knowing that I did my very best."

"I think this is meaningful and productive work," Ditzler continued. "It's not just a job."

The CAAC has a 26-bed inpatient facility and a very active outpatient clinic. "In many ways we're like a conventional mental health clinic here," he explained. The CAAC is staffed with a chief administrator, lab technicians and day and night counselors. The Center is manned 24 hours a day. "I'm extremely pleased with the quality of the people who work here," Ditzler concluded.

In addition to his duties at the CAAC, Ditzler is a professor of psychology in the graduate program at Antioch University, West, in Honolulu.

Foreign divorces may be invalid

HQMC, WASH— Marines obtaining a divorce in a foreign nation and later remarrying, may find themselves ineligible to receive government benefits for their dependents.

An increasing number of requests for basic allowance for quarters have been denied to Marines divorced in a foreign nation, and now remarried.

The Comptroller General of the United States has ruled that U.S. citizens obtaining divorces in countries where neither person is an established resident (bona fide domicile) may not be valid.

"A person who moves to another country for only a few days cannot consider that country a bona fide domicile," said a manpower official. "The individual must move into a country with the intention of remaining a resident of that country."

Marines assigned to a duty station in a foreign nation, such as Japan, do not qualify for residency requirements in that country.

Individuals who obtain divorces in foreign nations, must also have a decree from a U.S. civil court, according to manpower officials here. Without such a decree, entitlement to BAQ for dependents will not be authorized.

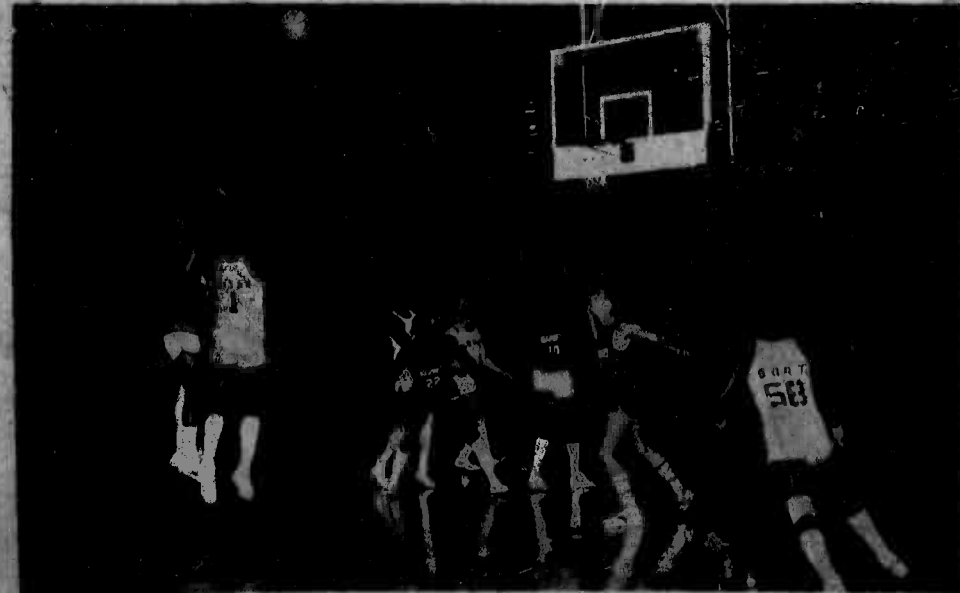

Marines contemplating a divorce in a foreign nation, should consult legal advice to determine if the divorce will be recognized in the U.S.

Memorial services set

Private First Class Gordon T. Fregoe, of Communications Support Company, 7th Communications Battalion, 1st Marine Brigade was killed Sunday morning when an automobile struck his motorcycle from behind.

Memorial Services are scheduled for 9 a.m.

Memorials immortalize presidents

The Lincoln Memorial and the Washington Monument in our Nation's capital are not only tributes to two of our greatest presidents whose birthdays are Feb. 12 and 21, respectively, but also testimony to the monumental slowness of bureaucracy. In all, a combined total of 157 years elapsed between the proposals by Congress for building them and their completion: 102 years for the Washington Monument, and 55 years for the Lincoln Memorial.

The construction of a monument to honor Washington was considered by the Continental Congress in 1783. In 1883, irked by the slowness of Congress, the Washington National Monument Society was organized by a group of influential citizens. Even so, progress was slow in amassing the necessary funds, and by 1847 only $87,000 had been collected by popular subscription.

On July 4, 1848, the Washington Monument cornerstone was laid with elaborate Masonic ceremonies. Work progressed satisfactorily until 1854 when the building became involved in a political quarrel. For almost 25 years it stood uncompleted at the height of 150 feet.

Finally, Aug. 2, 1876, President Ulysses S. Grant approved an act authorizing the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers to finish the construction. In 1880, work was resumed. The walls of the obelisk monument reached 500 feet Aug. 9, 1885, and the capstone was set in place the following Dec. 6, marking completion of the work. The monument was dedicated on Washington's Birthday observance, Feb. 21, 1885, and opened to the public Oct. 9, 1888.

Not as slow in the building was the Lincoln Memorial. Its beginnings can be traced back to March 28, 1867, when Congress incorporated the Lincoln Monument Association. The association appealed for funds with which to begin construction, but nothing was accomplished because of little public response. It was not until February 1911 that Congress authorized funds for the building to honor Lincoln.

Workmen broke ground at the memorial site Feb. 12, 1914, and the completed structure was dedicated on Memorial Day in 1922. Its architectural lines are similar to those of the famous Parthenon in Athens, Greece.

A giant seated statue of Lincoln by Daniel Chester French dominates the interior. The brooding figure is 19 feet from head to foot, and took the sculptors four years to carve out of 28 blocks of white Georgia marble. There are two murals on the north and south walls, along with an extract from Lincoln's Second Inaugural Address and the complete Gettysburg Address inscribed in stone.

Despite the length of time in construction, the Washington Monument and Lincoln Memorial, in Washington, have inspired countless numbers of Americans and foreigners visiting them.

Equally inspiring were the history-making contributions of Presidents Washington and Lincoln whose nationwide birthday observances in February have made it "the month of presidents."

Completed papers ready for pick-up

by Sgt Inez J. Stoner

About 35 to 40 completed wills and powers of attorney await their owners at the Legal Assistance Office, according to Sergeant Anthony Tulacz, legal assistance clerk.

Marines who have requested powers of attorney from the Legal Assistance Office should pick up their completed packages from 1-3:30 p.m. Completed wills can be picked up anytime during normal working hours.

People interested in obtaining powers of attorney should stop by the Legal Assistance Office during the same times. Appointments are not necessary and packages will be prepared and notarized while they wait. Appointments are not needed to prepare wills either; however, it takes longer to prepare the packages.

Deploying units interested in large numbers of wills or powers of attorney can be briefed by the Legal Assistance Office. Unit representatives should call Legal Assistance at 257-2160 or 257-2456 to set up appointments for unit briefs.

Squadron's readiness analyzed

by Sgt Inez J. Stoner

Before leaving on deployment to the Western Pacific, the officers and enlisted Marines from Marine Fighter Attack Squadron-235 must go through an intense Marine Corps Combat Readiness Evaluation System.

The MCCRES provides a way of analyzing the squadron's operational readiness. Their mission is to attack and destroy enemy aircraft and surface targets and to escort friendly aircraft.

The daily loading of inert missiles paid off for the ordnance and radar sections of VMFA-235, responsible for loading the live missiles during the exercise. The squadron's fire control technicians made sure that the missiles were tuned and ready to fire.

THE MCCRES began Jan. 21 with knowledge examinations for the air crews that included aircraft recognition and Soviet tactics and weapons systems. They were also tested on 33 different immediate action emergencies. The air crews had to know the proper procedures and reactions to such emergencies as fires while airborne and controlling an aircraft in a spin.

The knowledge exam also included the current rules of engagement that dictate the action air crews can take if, for example, they are under attack by an enemy aircraft. The rules also specify how close the aircraft can fly to hostile ships and shorelines.

On Jan. 22 the squadron flew an anti-warfare scenario with the aid of Marine Air Control Squadron-2. A total of 27 combat sorties, including fighter intercept and all-weather intercept missions, were flown with all 12 of the squadron's F-4S Phantom aircraft.

THEY ALSO flew Combat Air Patrols with aggressors from VMFA-212. The new F-4S Phantoms and the performance of the aircraft's systems were evaluated during the exercise. CAP missions are designed to place aircraft in a position where they can intercept enemy aircraft.

The squadron practiced air-to-ground techniques Jan. 25 by bombing a target area in the waters off the island of Nihoa. They also conducted a coordinated strike on man-made targets on Kahoolawe.

The MCCRES culminated Jan. 26 with a combined strike during which 12 aircraft were used as fighters and bombers. The scenario had the squadron neutralizing a simulated North Korean island before a landing party could make an amphibious assault.

"The enlisted men were involved heavily with maintenance of the aircraft," explained Maj. Holt. "This (MCCRES) brings everyone together. The air crews and the maintenance personnel worked as a team as if they were really going to war.

"IT'S AN excellent training vehicle," he added. "Everything has gone extremely well and we're very pleased with the outcome." The squadron came out of the evaluation exercise with the highest score attained by any F-4 squadron within Marine Aircraft Group 24.

In addition to MACS-2 and VMFA-212, the squadron received support from Navy Composite Squadron-1 from NAS Barbers Point and Marine Base Squadron-24.

VMFA-235 is now prepared to replace VMFA-232, currently on deployment in the Western Pacific.

The Red Devils of VMFA-232 are due to return to the Air Station the end of March, leaving the Death Angels to patrol the skies over the Far East.

M*A*S*H — Melanie Daignault (left), Jim Roulette and Larry Britton relax after a rehearsal of Richard Hooker's comedy "M*A*S*H." The play, performed by the Koolau Players, will open 8 p.m. Friday at the Boondocker Theater here. Additional showings are scheduled for Saturday, Feb. 19 and 20. Tickets are available at Special Services Ticket Section or in lobby of the Family Theater before the movie.

Clothing allowance increase

The Department of Defense has recently authorized an increase in the clothing maintenance allowance. The new rate for the basic maintenance allowance is $9.90 for males and $11.40 for females. The standard maintenance allowance increase is $14.40 for males and $16.40 for females. A Marine receives the standard allowance after three years of service.

DEPLOYMENT time is rapidly approaching for the Death Angels of VMFA-235 who wrapped-up their most recent MCCRES with a live-fire missile shoot Feb. 1 and 2. A total of 12 live missiles were fired at the Pacific Missile Range on the island of Kauai.

Street Scoop

What do you think of the changes made to the 7-Day Store parking lot?

Sgt Milton Weathers, SOMS — "I think that it's no better than it was before. Traffic is backed up more now than it was before, especially on Bingham Way. I think the size of the parking lot should have been increased also."

Robin Zai, dependent — "I think the parking blocks have made an improvement but the turn is too sharp as you exit the parking lot."

GySgt David Boughton, MACS-2 — "Outstanding changes, it's about time the base made the changes to consider ample parking and one-way traffic. Before, there was just too much congestion next to the front doors, now at least one can come and go without blocking traffic. Also the parking lot lights were one of the best improvements."

Cpl Marie Scavetta, H&HS — "I feel that the parking lot changes have caused a safety hazard; not only to shoppers but to the neighboring houses. The entrance and exit routes have caused a stalemate. Cars can't get in 'cause cars coming out block the road."

Ghost aids driver's decision

by PFC Clyde Collins

TRIPLER ARMY MEDICAL CENTER — Before Pvt. 2 Donald Duty joined the U.S. Army he was a school bus driver for a "voluntary ethnic transfer program" in a big city on the mainland.

In this public funded program, minority kids were bused out of the ghetto to schools in the more well-to-do neighborhoods, but only if their parents thought it best to do so. It was part of a larger desegregation plan.

On one particular day, the late Martin Luther King Jr.'s birthday, Jan. 15, Duty picked up his predominantly black junior high school kids in the ghetto, headed for the plush hills of suburbia.

Now it cannot be said for sure that the bus was haunted, but it was an old bus. And believe it or don't, as the bus bumped along, the ghost of Martin Luther King Jr. whispered to the school bus driver, "Our loyalties must transcend our race, our tribe, our class and our nation."

"What?" said Duty. He glanced over his shoulder at one of his sleepy passengers. "Did you say something?"

The little black girl's eyes went round. "No! You're crazy!"

"Hmmm," groaned Duty as he drove past rickety wine dens and battled with a cement-mixer truck for an on-ramp to the freeway.

Soon enough the school bus loaded with little ones rattled along the freeway past a local U.S. Army post. Again the ghost of a black preacher named King whispered to the driver, a little louder this time: "No individual can live alone; no nation can live alone, and as long as we try, the more we are going to have war in this world."

Duty grew more pallid than he already was. He glanced over his other shoulder at a tough black kid glaring back at him. "You talking to me?" said Duty, his voice a quiver.

The kid threw his arms up into the air. "Why I be talkin' to YOU . . . You're scary!"

Duty shrugged. The school bus chugged — down an off-ramp and up into the trimmed, pruned splendor of suburbia.

And the ghost of the man who had studied the nonviolence of Gandhi and the civil disobedience of Thoreau, harited: "Adapting nonviolent resistance to conditions in the United States, we swept into Southern streets to demand our citizenship and manhood. If they let us march, they admitted their lie that the black man was content. If they shot us down, they told the world they were inhuman brutes."

Duty accidentally ground the gears as his bus jerked up a long hill.

The ghost of the man who had been jailed 29 times for what he believed in, continued to say, "The nation and the world were sickened and through national legislation wiped out a thousand Southern laws, ripping gaping holes in the edifice of segregation."

At the top of the hill where a panoramic view of the city could be enjoyed on an occasional clear day, a group of about 20 people stood with quart-size cans of motor oil in their hands. Two cars were parked sideways, blocking the street. Duty knew they intended to stop his school bus and pour the cans of oil over his passengers' heads. He knew it because they were wearing white hoods. He stepped on the brake and idled the engine half a block away.

"We're gonna have to go the long way," moaned Duty.

"But we'll be late for class," moaned a passenger.

Duty winced — and he looked up at the overhead mirror. He saw the now totally awake expressions upon his passengers' faces. They were peering back at him expectantly, watching, wondering what he was going to do now!

Then for a long moment Duty stared through red-rimmed eyes at the crowd up the street. He slipped the bus into gear, gunned the accelerator and let out the clutch.

Inflation

Salvation's price is expensive to pay

by Father John Newton

Someone once said: "You get nothing for nothing in this world." To which someone else added: "And darn little for two cents." That "two cents" line ought to indicate how old that statement is.

Today one would be more accurate to say: "And darn little for a dollar. Money just doesn't seem to be worth as much as it used to be worth. Everything is so expensive today."

One wag bemoaning the high cost of living was even more annoyed at the high cost of leaving. He said "I thought of killing myself but I knew I couldn't afford the funeral." Others have been disturbed to find that inflation seems to have hit even the religious life of the nation. One observer of the cost estimate of a proposed religious crusade was heard to remark "Salvation sure comes high these days."

Salvation always "came high." Undoubtedly it used to cost less in terms of dollars and cents. However, in terms of personal commitment to a belief and individual effort to respect and observe the laws of God, salvation has always been "expensive."

When one realizes just what it is that he is "purchasing" when the term salvation is properly understood, it becomes cheap at any price. To be free of the pains of mind and body, the tensions and tortures of the world, to be rid of all debts, burdens and sorrows, to achieve the goal of our existence, to enter the eternal joy of heaven, to thrill to the vision of God forever . . . so what if it costs a little of our time, a little of our pride, perhaps?

What if we must learn to control our senses and our passions and keep them in check? What if we are expected to give God some recognition in our daily lives? Who is to say the price is too high . . . even if it costs us the whole world? On the other hand: "What doth it profit a man if he gain the whole world, and suffer the loss of his soul?"

"Now the judgment of God is upon us, and we must either learn to live together as brothers or we are all going to perish as fools."

A couple years later Duty and a black soldier were sitting outside the company barracks at TAMC one evening. They were exchanging tales. When Duty finished this particular story the other soldier exclaimed, "Then what happened?"

Duty's soul expanded like a blooming flower above the city lights and below the twinkling stars. With a smug little smile he said, "They got to school on time."

"It says you have received a simulated steak sandwich for this simulated combat exercise."

Former higher tar smokers affirm MERIT choice for taste, ease of switch, and long-term satisfaction.

The research results are overwhelming.

New National Smoker Study provides solid evidence that 'Enriched Flavor,' MERIT offers a satisfying alternative to higher tar cigarettes.

MERIT Taste Sparks Switch.

Nationwide survey reveals over 90% of MERIT smokers who switched from higher tar are glad they did. In fact, 94% don't even miss their former brands.

Further Evidence: 9 out of 10 former higher tar smokers report MERIT an easy switch, that they didn't give up taste in switching, and that MERIT is the best-tasting low tar they've ever tried.

MERIT Clear Choice In New Tests.

In addition, extensive unmarked-pack tests confirm that MERIT delivers a winning combination of taste and low tar when compared against higher tar leaders.

Confirmed: The overwhelming majority reported MERIT taste equal to—or better than—leading higher tar brands.

Confirmed: When tar levels were revealed, 2 out of 3 chose the MERIT combination of low tar and good taste.

Year after year, in study after study, MERIT remains unbeaten. The proven taste alternative to higher tar smoking—is MERIT.

Course defines Navy Relief's purpose

by Sgt Corrina Martell

To help Marines, sailors and their dependents understand more about the background and purpose of Navy Relief, three 15-hour courses are being offered.

The first course will be held at Barber's Point Feb. 16 through 19. Classes will meet from 8:30 a.m. to noon.

The same course will be repeated Feb. 22 through 26 at MCAS Kaneohe Bay on the lower island of the Officer's Club. Classes will meet from 8:30 to 11:30 a.m. The final course will be held at the Pearl Harbor Enlisted Club March 1 through 5 from 8:30 to 11:30 a.m.

THE NAVY Relief classes will be given by Patricia Anderson, Field Representative from Navy Relief Society Headquarters, Arlington, Va.

"The course is open to everyone," said Joyce Dinnage, Executive Director of the Kaneohe branch, "and it is geared to people who will be working in Navy Relief or who want to be aware of what Navy Relief can or cannot do."

Mrs. Dinnage explained that the classes will begin with the principles and policies of Navy Relief. Then the different types of assistance offered by the Society will be discussed. Subjects of interest will include budgeting, income tax allowances, dental care, education assistance, and other programs.

"Our budget counseling is the most interesting part of the course," said Mrs. Dinnage. "People will be able to work on budgets during class," she said, explaining that many service members and their families need assistance with proper budgeting.

ANOTHER TOPIC of discussion is education loans for individuals enrolled in the Navy Department's Tuition Assistance Program, which pays 75 percent of a service member's education. Occasionally, these individuals may need assistance to meet the 25 percent they are required to pay. Assistance may also be provided when a delay in receipt of payments from the Veterans Administration would prevent registration. "Our education loans are paid back with only a 9 percent interest," said Mrs. Dinnage.

Other classes offered include assistance for basic living expenses, such as food and shelter, medical care, transportation, funeral expenses, and motor vehicle repairs. Information on collection of loans and delinquent accounts will also be covered.

"There will be a graduation ceremony after completion of the course," said Mrs. Dinnage. "If a certain class is missed at one station, it can be taken at the next place it is offered to complete the 15-hours of graduation."

BABYSITTING will be available for the children of those who wish to attend. Parents must sign up for the babysitting service at Navy Relief.

For further information, call Navy Relief at 254-1327 or 254-1328.

Wives' clubs offer scholarships

by Sgt Inez J. Stoner

A total of $3,100 in scholarships is being offered by three military wives' clubs on Oahu to dependent children of Navy, Marine Corps and Coast Guard personnel.

The Staff Noncommissioned Officers' Wives' Club here is offering two scholarships worth $400 each to high school seniors. The students must be the dependent children of Staff NCOs stationed here.

The scholarships are to be applied to tuition, lab fees or books at a college or trade school. According to Polly Mattmiller of the Staff NCO Wives' Club here, the scholarships are not necessarily given to the students with the highest grades. "There are other considerations," said Mrs. Mattmiller, "including the recommendation of teachers, school and community activities, as well as their potential for success."

Applications for the two scholarships should be available in April from high school counselors or by contacting Mrs. Mattmiller at 254-4097. The scholarships have been funded in part by profits from the Staff NCO Wives' Club Thrift Shop.

The Camp H.M. Smith Staff

NCO Wives' Club is offering a scholarship worth $300. High school students who are the dependents of active duty or retired Marine Corps personnel are eligible to apply for the scholarship.

The scholarship will be awarded on the basis of grades and financial status, according to Barbara Cartwright of the Camp Smith club. Applications for the scholarship will be available after March 1 by calling Mrs. Cartwright at 455-4607 or Ann Julius at 456-3828.

Four $500 scholarships are being offered to high school seniors by the Awa Lau Wahine Officers' Wives' Club at Naval Station, Pearl Harbor. Applicants must be dependents of Navy, Marine Corps or Coast Guard active duty or retired commissioned officers. Students must be living in Hawaii and must have completed a portion of their senior year here.

These Citizenship Award scholarships are given on the basis of scholastic or vocational potential and achievements, and school and community activities.

Applications are available by calling Sharon Harvey at 423-2883. Completed applications must be returned to Mrs. Harvey by March 15.

Boxers capture All-Marine titles

by Cpl. T. R. Lane

CAMP LEJEUNE, N. C. — With more than 1,200 partisan fans cheering them on, Camp Lejeune fighters hooked, jabbed and hammered their way into seven of the 12 All-Marine boxing titles Jan. 21, at the Goettge Memorial Fieldhouse here. Most of the newly-crowned champs sweated and strained for their victories in the nearly four hours of boxing action; one fighter captured a coveted All-Marine title without throwing a punch.

Lance Corporal Jeffrey Cook of Camp Lejeune, was named 1982 All-Marine flyweight champion (112 pounds) by default. There were no other flyweights in the three-day competition.

While LCpl Cook didn't fight for his title, in the first bout of the night, LCpl Mark Broadway, of Camp Lejeune, did. He had to overcome two-time All-Marine titlist, Sergeant Innocencio Ventura, also of Camp Lejeune, and a costly standing eight-count to take honors in the light flyweight (106 pounds) division.

"I didn't try to do anything too fancy to him," Cpl Broadway said following his upset victory over the 1981 All-Marine champ and CISM games boxing silver medalist. "It just came down to heads up boxing. I can go toe-to-toe with most fighters, but with him (Sgt Ventura) I had to stick and move."

THE BALTIMORE, MD. Native added that his victory against a fighter of Sgt Ventura's ability gives him confidence for the Interservice Boxing Matches scheduled for March in San Antonio, Texas.

Despite the victor's confidence, the light flyweight match was no rollover for either man. Both came out tentatively, measuring each other, but halfway through the first round, Sgt Ventura knocked LCpl Broadway down with a right hook, forcing a standing eight-count.

The second round was a repeat of the first, with Sgt Ventura fighting as the aggressor and LCpl Broadway back-peddaling behind stinging jabs. The challenger continually frustrated his opponent with his elusive style and by the end of the fight Sgt Ventura's frustration was apparent in fits of wild punching. LCpl Broadway scored several times with combinations and counter-punches in the third round, and that impressed the judges sufficiently for the win.

THE LIGHT FLYWEIGHT match wasn't the only bout to witness a change of the title between the combatants in the ring. Private First Class Walter Simpson used an aggressive, crowding style to lift the light middleweight crown from 1981 champion Corporal Jerome Kelly of the 1st Marine Division, Camp Pendleton, Calif.

PFC Simpson, a 2d Force Service Support Group, Camp Lejeune Marine, was all over Cpl Kelly immediately following the bell for the first round and smothered his man throughout the fight to capture the decision and the title.

Cpl Christensen, last year's welterweight (147 pounds) champ, fought as a light welterweight (139 pounds) and defeated LCpl Curtis Jorden of 8th Marines, Camp Lejeune to take the weight class crown.

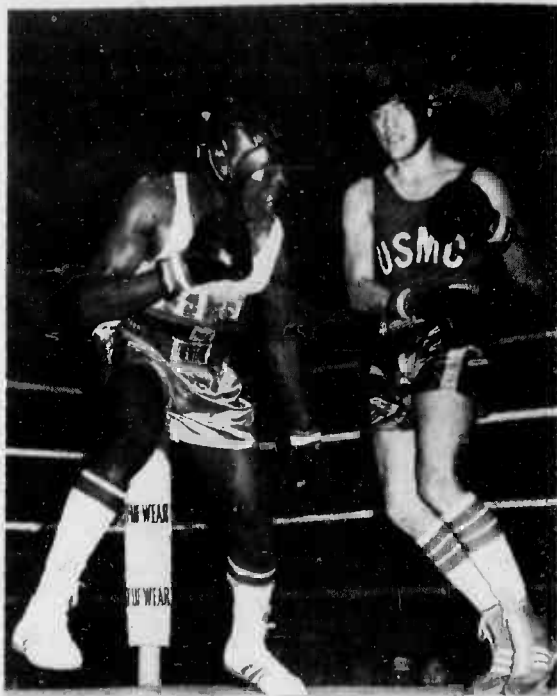

HOWEVER, THE VICTORY hung in peril for several minutes. The red-headed Central City, Neb. Marine was staggered with a wicked LCpl Jorden left in the closing seconds of the first round, and boxing coach, Master Sergeant Pat Waldo, almost threw in the towel. "He (Cpl Christensen) was hurt pretty bad by the punch," said "Top" Waldo. "He wasn't responding to me when he got back to the corner. If he hadn't come around when he did, I would have stopped it for his own safety."

Luckily, Cpl Christensen regained his senses before the bell for the second round and came on to outbox LCpl Jorden the rest of the way. "He hit me with a good shot at the end of the first round," said Cpl Christensen after the win. "And I knew I had to out fight with him in the last rounds to win."

Cpl Bagley, a Marine retiree, apparently had what it took also, win the super heavyweight (201 pounds and up) category. The strapping leatherneck knocked Staff Sergeant Edward Lewis of 2d FSSG to the canvas three times in the second round, prompting the referee to stop the contest with 2:11 gone in the round. Last year, Cpl Bagley was the All-Marine heavyweight champ, but he had to compete in the heaviest weight division of the trials this year.

In other bouts of the evening: BANTAMWEIGHT — PFC Eric Johnson, Marine Corps Air/Ground Combat Center, Twentynine Palms, defeated LCpl William Phillips, Marine Corps Base, Camp Lejeune. FEATHERWEIGHT — Sgt Jamie Williams, 1st Mardiv, Camp Pendleton, defeated LCpl Matthew Jefferson, Twentynine Palms.

WELTERWEIGHT — PFC John Bonene, Company F, 2/2, Camp Lejeune, defeated Cpl Capers D'Antigine, MCB, Camp Lejeune. LIGHT HEAVYWEIGHT — Cpl Kelvin Reay, Quantico, Va., defeated Cpl Eddie Bennette, 7th Marines, Camp Pendleton. HEAVYWEIGHT — Cpl Terry Anderson, HqBn, Headquarters Marine Corps, defeated Cpl David Brown, Naval Air Station, Norfolk, Va., when the referee stopped the contest at :51 seconds into the second round.

Carole Kai Bed Race set for Sunday

HONOLULU — One of Hawaii's most exciting events is the Carole Kai Bed Race. Now in its ninth year, it is sure to be bigger and more colorful than ever with more than 90,000 spectators lining Waikiki's Kalakaua Ave. Sunday.

The Carole Kai Bed Race has grown to international proportions. Bed race entrants now come to the February event from Hawaii, the mainland, Australia, Great Britain and Canada.

The Bed Race benefits the Variety School for Children with Learning Disabilities. All goods and services are donated, making it possible for 100 percent of the entry fees to be donated to the school. The school depends entirely on State subsidy, private donations and the Annual Carole Kai Bed Race.

Variety School was established to meet the educational needs of young children who are unable to cope in a normal school setting because of severe learning disabilities, which are due to neurological impairment. Today, the school serves about 50 students yearly. The goal is for each child to eventually return to a normal school setting.

Carole Kai is one of Hawaii's popular entertainers. She is well-traveled and takes her work very seriously. She holds a bachelor of music degree in concert piano from the University of Hawaii, and is an accomplished singer. Through the years, Kai performed at a variety of fund-raisers for numerous charities.

She dedicated her time, energy and talent to the Variety School. She has a nephew with learning disabilities, and although he does not attend this particular school, her choice of support has proven to be extremely worthwhile and satisfying.

The bed race has grown in complexity and popularity. The race is taped for delayed television viewing and is a "Bed Race Special." Airtime is funded by local businesses and corporations.

The bed race is a race between beds that are pushed by a team of runners from one point to another, either in a straight line, and/or through an obstacle course. Each year the obstacle course is changed, making it a lot more fun for contestants, and to keep the race "fair." To enter the competition, contestants or sponsors pay a $500 entry fee, which is the actual "fundraising" portion of the bed race.

Bed Race Day also includes a wacky, wild and colorful parade of beds, beginning at 11 a.m. from Fort De Russy, up Kalakaua Avenue and ending at Kapiolani Park. Just prior to the parade, the judging of the beds is held at Fort De Russy, with judging by local entertainers and business people, looking for the most creative, interesting and colorful bed decorations.

Then the Race will begin following the parade, along Kalakaua Ave., just makai of Kapiolani Park, beginning at 1 p.m. All throughout the racing, entertainment is provided at the Kapiolani Park Bandstand to racing enthusiasts, and there will be bed race souvenirs for sale along the route.

Numerous volunteers play an important part in the organization and implementation of the annual bed race. But the driving force is Carole and her 80 committee members. Carole is the vital element which makes the bed race much more than just another charity event. The committee's enthusiasm, drive and determination is contagious to the community.

All the beds are in, including the Security Department's entry and 72 of Hawaii's leading businesses and organizations have already signed up for race day.

and Dolly Smith; Lance Corporals Tim Abeyta and Rudy White, and Dean Walsh, a high school student. The team is sponsored by the MONY Insurance Corporation, and will compete against 75 other entries from around the island. The races will start at 1 p.m. at Kapiolani Park. (Photo by Sgt Pepper Davis)

Sportsnotes

The Hawaii Marines dominated the 14th Annual Oahu Perimeter Relays, finishing the race at 12:42:47. This is the second consecutive win for a Marine team and this year's runners crossed the line more than 30 minutes faster than the second-place team. The 1982 perimeter runners were: Captain Mike Boyd, Staff Sergeant Sam Rael, Sergeants Robert Beyer, Miguel Gaviria and Gary Smith, and Corporals Roy Barola and Ricardo Rodriguez.

The Intramural Soccer season starts Feb. 19. Late entries are still being accepted. For further details contact Jan Young at the Athletics Office by calling 257-3108/3258/3520.

The Hawaii Armed Services Powerlifting Championships will be held at Comp H.M. Smith in Building 130. This event is free to spectators and refreshments will be available.

The deadline to sign up for the Mixed-Doubles Tennis Tournament is Feb. 18. The tournament is scheduled for Feb. 23 through 28. For more information contact Mark Skilcorn or the Athletics Office.

The Camp Smith Invitational Golf Tournament at Leilehua Golf Course has been rescheduled for a noon shot gun start March 5.

Supply routs MACS-2 64-48

New basketball champions crowned

Supply Company, Brigade Service Support Group, stripped Marine Air Control Squadron-2 of their intramural basketball championship Friday at Hangar 103.

After being upset 54-53 Thursday night, Supply Company rallied in a 64-49 rout over "Duce" to claim the 1982 title.

MACS-2 and Supply both finished their seasons tied for first with a 13-5 record in the AA division, but MACS-2 lost the first game of the double elimination playoffs dropping them into the loser's bracket.

Supply Company first skated past Headquarters and Headquarters Squadron 58-10, then 1st Radio Battalion 62-58 to face the undefeated Sonics of Maintenance Company. Their 60-58 win pushed the Sonics into the loser's bracket and then they were eliminated by MACS-2 46-41.

Supply could have secured the title Thursday but a foul shot by Lance Corporal Larry Titus in the last 15 seconds of the game extended the playoffs into another night.

MACS-2's hot streak, however, didn't extend into the second game as their shots were off the mark.

Supply's Corporal Merlin Boyd had a field day driving the lane and scoring a game-high 26 points. Sergeant Thomas Phillips' outside shooting linked with his 11 rebounds contributed to the team effort.

During the first half Supply had built up a four-point lead before exploding in the last minutes with four more points to increase their lead and leave the court 31-23. Supply out rebounded MACS-2 20-7.

Supply halted the Duce's offense in the third quarter allowing them to score only four points. Supply tallied 10 points in this quarter, eight of them scored by Cpl Boyd.

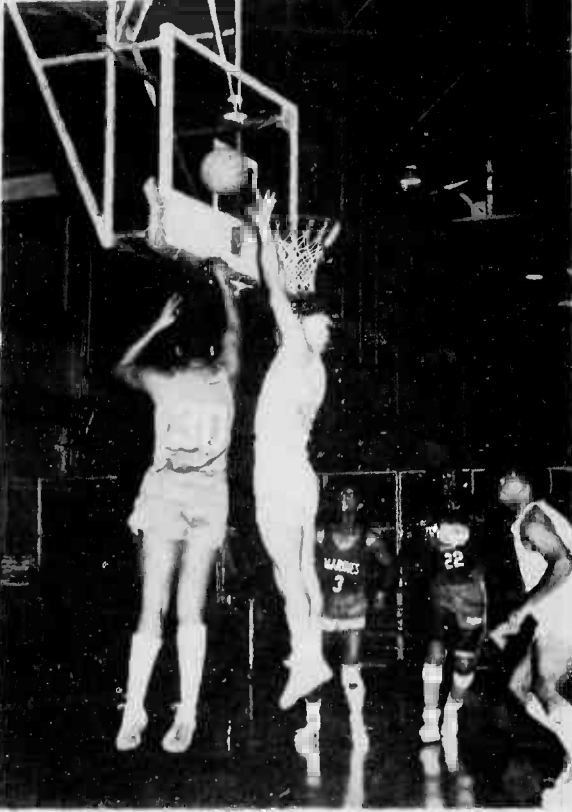

Three minutes into the fourth quarter the Green Machine had increased their lead to 21 points, the largest gap of the game.

Staff Sergeant James Brown the Supply Company's coach attributes his team's win to "Settling the ball down and getting our fast break going. Our outside shots were on target and we just played good ball. The only reason they beat us in the last game was we were cold."

Supply's Sergeant Jerry Flournoy notched 11 points and nine rebounds as teammate LCpl David Schaffer had four points and five rebounds. LCpl Theddeus Hammond tallied two points and nine rebounds.

MACS-2 had only one player in double figures, LCpl Larry Titus with 10 points. Warrant Officer-1 John Roberts, Sgt. Jeff Welch and Cpl Don Gort scored eight points each while Sgt. Tim Bougher and LCpl Ken Ray had six. WO-1 Roberts brought down six rebounds and Sgt. Bougher had five.

Sergeant Greg Gibson, a 6-foot-3-inch, 220-pound, three-time All-Marine wrestler, was named Military Athlete of the Year by the prestigious Touchdown Club of Washington Jan. 16.

Gibson received the award at a banquet which was attended by President Ronald Reagan, General Robert H. Barrow, Commandant of the Marine Corps and other dignitaries.

Also, several prominent professional athletes were honored during the event. Tony Dorsett, Dallas Cowboy running back, received an award for the outstanding National Football Conference player, while Kenny Anderson, quarterback for the Cincinnati Bengals, was honored for being the American Football Conference player of the year.

WOODY SEYBERT, Vice Chairman of the awards banquet, said that the annual dinner recognizes outstanding athletes in amateur and professional sports. "This is the first year in an 8- to 10-year lapse in which we presented the Military Athlete of the Year Award," said Seybert.

He mentioned Ralph Guglielmi, former Marine, as a prior recipient of the award. Guglielmi went on to become a quarterback for the Washington Redskins. Another former Marine Eddie Labaron, also received the award.

The 1934 organization was founded by Dutch Bergman, Notre Dame football coach at that time, and last month's dinner was the 47th annual awards banquet.

Seybert said nominations for the Military Athlete of the Year award were received from all four services and Gibson's record of wrestling achievement surpassed the excellence of other military athletes.

GIBSON'S ACCOMPLISHMENTS in 1981 include:

- Gold medal in the World Cup Somo Championships in Vigo, Spain;
- Gold medal in the Cerro Pelado Freestyle Championships in Cuba;
- Gold medal in the National Freestyle and Somo Championships;
- Silver medal in the World Greco Roman Championships in Oslo, Norway;
- Silver medal in the World Freestyle Championships in Spojce, Yugoslavia; and
- Silver medal at the National Greco Roman Championships.

He also was winner of the 1981 Sun Cup award for being the International United States Wrestler of the year.

Larry Kihlstedt, wrestling coach for the All-Marine Wrestling Team, describes Gibson as a mild-mannered person.

"He's a humble person who recognizes his accomplishments, but doesn't flaunt them," said Kihlstedt.

"He has tons of ability and is constantly working out. He's always running, lifting weights, or working on his technique."

"It's like he's trying to make his body into a machine."

GIBSON HAS A KEEN motivation behind his strenuous workouts. His main goal is to win a gold medal in the 1984 Olympic games.

"I plan to peak around 1984 and win a gold medal for the United States and the Marine Corps. So from now until then I will get better and better. I'm doing the things right now and plan to keep doing it that way."

"They better look out because when the 'Gibson Express' comes to town, it's all over for anybody in my weight class."

For now, Gibson is currently participating in an "invitation only" wrestling tournament in the Soviet Union.

"It's regarded as one of the toughest wrestling tournaments in the world," said Kihlstedt. "The best wrestlers from throughout the Soviet Union and the world are invited." Last year Gibson was invited; he took second place.

PUTTING FOR PAR — Lisa Groth, one of eight women representing the Marines in the Interservice Golf Tournament, puts on the green on the fifth hole at the Kaneohe Klipper. The Marine women, presently in second place, played host to the other branches of the service during the fourth round of the tournament Friday. The Navy women are the present leaders with 27 points followed by the Marines with 25.5, Army with 23.5 and the Air Force with 20. Colleen Muhr of the Air Force hit a hole-in-one on the 135-yard, par-3 fourth hole using a 6-iron. The next round is scheduled for Feb. 19 at Leilehua Golf Course with the Army sponsoring. Do-it-yourself budget bridges planning gap

WASHINGTON — In light of the new pay raise, many of you will have absorbed this increase with nothing to show for it except more bills. You'll probably wonder how that long awaited pay boost could have vanished so quickly. All too often, the real culprit is simply a lack of training in basic money management techniques.

In order to bridge this knowledge gap, the Navy Relief Society recently produced a "Do-It-Yourself Budget" that contains all the basic information that one needs to handle one's money sensibly. It's simple, straightforward and short. Anyone can learn to use it, and copies of this useful personal planning tool are available from your nearest Navy Relief office. As a further aid to its service members, Navy Relief also published a pamphlet entitled "Sense With Dollars." Using the "Do-It-Yourself Budget" as a base, "Sense With Dollars" was designed to provide the management of one's money. For years, Navy Relief has given budgetary counseling to people seeking financial assistance. So, if you need help, the time to act is before you get into financial difficulty, not after. To order your free copy of "Sense With Dollars," call (202) 433-3364 or Autovon 288-3364.

Valentine Gift Ideas

Happy Valentine's Day

Sunday is the day of love on Oahu and for much of the rest of the world.

It's a day set aside for taking a little time out of our busy lives to simply tell the one — or ones — we cherish the three most delightful words in the English language, "I love you."

But, few lovers realize that this happy holiday had a pretty unhappy origin — at least for the guy who was responsible for it.

St. Valentine's Day stems, ironically, from the death of a Roman bishop named Valentine, who was beheaded on Feb. 14, 273 A.D. by Emperor Claudius II. Claudius had outlawed marriages because he felt they kept men at home instead of out in the boonies fighting for the glory of Rome.

Valentine, according to legend, ignored the emperor's orders and continued to marry your lovers — until he was caught. Reportedly, his last note was signed, "Your Valentine."

It took a couple of centuries after Valentine's "heady affair" before the holiday caught on.

In England, the Roman conquest had introduced a pagan fertility festival that was celebrated on Feb. 14. After the Romans left England, Pope Gelasius abolished the pagan ritual and established St. Valentine's Day in 496 as a celebration of love.

Soon, the holiday was observed throughout the Christian world, especially in England, where in 1573 King Henry VIII — you know, the one with six wives — instituted the holiday by royal charter.

The Pilgrims brought the custom to the New World, where it soon became a popular tradition. Among the earliest U.S. valentines were Pennsylvania Dutch cards fashioned with painstaking workmanship and calligraphy.

Some resembled lace, an effect achieved by thousands of pin pricks arranged in elaborate patterns.

In the 19th Century, valentines took many forms, including colorful designs and cleverly folded cards with cutouts of rose petals, angels and cupids that moved when unfolded.

Valentines generally became less elaborate during the 20th Century — but the sentiments have remained the same.

And now that our history lesson is over, we'd like to take this opportunity to wish all of our readers a Happy Valentine's Day from the staff and management of the Sun Press.
