Door-to-door solicitors give questionable advice

The price of education can be high, especially if educational programs are misleading. Several so called educational institutions are attempting to sell programs of questionable value to service members and their spouses, according to Captain William Fletcher, officer in charge of the Joint Education Center.

"Door-to-door solicitors are offering educational advice and are charging anywhere from $40 to $80," said Fletcher.

"The solicitors say they are from the Education Center, but they don't say which one. They show a 30 minute film on College Level Examination Program Tests, and give out study books. The same books cost $5 60 in town. The same books cost $5.60 in town. Then they send the individuals to the Joint Education Center to take the CLEP Test, which we give for

Fletcher said that with the exception of the film, the programs basically give the same information as the Education

One such program was investigated by the Honolulu Police Department. Lieutenant Anthony Granitl, in charge of White Collar Crime and Fraud, said, "In this particular case, certain things in the contract were provided. We could not prove any criminal intent."

"The program guarantees to provide the opportunity to obtain a degree without attending college. That's exactly what the CLEP Test does." Fletcher said.

CLEF Test does, Fletcher said.
Fletcher recommends that the credibility of the company.

False claims

Fiscal officials crack down on fraudulent travel claims

WASHINGTON — How would you like to be fined $10,000 and spend the next five years in the brig? You wouldn't? Then be sure to tell the truth the next time you file a travel claim after executing permanent, change of station or temporary additional duty orders.

At least 151 Marines were investigated for lying on their travel vouchers when they reported for duty in Okinawa the first half of this year. While the guilty Marines might not receive the maximum allowable sentence, their punishments will be distressing.
In most instances, those

Marines tried to pull a fast one on their disbursing officer by claiming they had traveled part of the distance from their old duty stations by privately owned vehicles when, in fact, they had traveled by commerial air. Apparently they were tempted by the fact that a Marine is entitled to more travel new if he puts mileage more travel pay if he puts mileage on his car in carrying out PCS and

TAD orders.

Many of the younger Marines in question were coming from service schools around the country. When interrogated, they reported be told at school that while falsification of mode of travel was "technically illegal," it was a common practice.

common practice.

According to fiscal officials here this is false. It's neither "common" nor "technically" anything. It's fraud against the United States Government and a serious crime.

In any given year, the Corps will nany given year, the Corps with handle more than 225,000. travel vouchers from Marines, covering a wide spectrum of expenses. Every one of those vouchers spells out the penalty for making a false claim and every Marine must sign his name to a statement saving his name to a statement saying the claim is "true and complete."

Some Marines think that payment of a travel claim by the payment of a travel claim by the local disbursing officer means that nobody looks at the voucher again. That's false; other agencies, both in and out of the Marine Corps, may auditit. If they find misrepresentation of the facts or fraud, the Marine involved will be required to reason any undirection.

"This is not a witch-hunt," one fiscal official explained. It's a continuing emphasis on eliminating fraud, waste and abuse where travel claims are concerned."

Air Force police enforce seat belt law

HICKAM AIR FORCE BASE, Hawaii — Many motorists pay hundreds of dollars in car insurance, but many do not take advantage of the free protection against personal injuries by buckling up for safety.

Statistics prove that driving without seat belts increases a person's chances of personal injuries. That's precisely why the Air Force is taking a firm stand on seat belts.

Effective July 1, wear of seat belts while driving or riding on Air Force installations in Hawaii became mandatory. Individuals driving or riding in vehicles equipped with seat belts and not wearing them could lose their base driving privileges, warns 15th Air Base Wing Security Police officials are. This applies to military, dependents, federal employees and civilian guests. The new revision to the 15th ABW

revision to the 15th ABW regulation mandates enforcement of this policy.

According to security police officials, first offenders will receive a written warning. Second offenders will receive one week's suspension of base driving privileges. The third offense will result in one month's suspension. Individuals caught the fourth time will lost their base driving privileges for six months. Anyone caught driving during their suspension period will auto-matically get a two-year revocation of base driving privileges on all Air Force installations in Hawaii.

Security police and safety officials here point out that enforcement of this regulation is in the interest of safety and a conscious effort to minimize accidents and personal injuries.

Alcohol-related crimes increase

by J03 Joy Hill-Payne

WASHINGTON — An alarming number of people are becoming involved in alcohol-related crimes each year. The ingestion of alcohol increasingly

The ingestion of alcohol increasingly appears to be a direct cause of violent crimes. The term "pathological intoxication" describes the state of violent reaction discussed in this article.

There are several factors to be considered when studying the effects of violence due to drinking. Among them are age, gender, race and social environment. In a study conducted for the National Criminal Justice Information and Criminal Justice Information and Statistics Service (1979), it was found that women generally have lower alcohol women generally have lower alcohol consumption and problem drinking rates than men. Therefore, women are less likely to commit an aggressive crime The report also said that whites tend to commit more violent crimes when drinking than blacks and other minorities.

ACCORDING TO THE REPORT, a major problem is that more people are beginning to mix drinking with other drugs. This factor only compounds an already serious problem because most drinkers don't realize that during a violent rage they may not only endanger their lives but the lives of others as well.

Drinking that leads to violence does not just happen. There is usually a definite

In modern society, drinking is not only In modern society, drinking is not only accepted, but sometimes seems to be essential to success. The three-martini lunch — with or without food — is believed by some business people to be a great way to helping clients to relax and relieve tension. Others feel that a drink at lunch time helps to keep them functioning the rest of the day.

Many of these people become compulsive or excessive drinkers and for various reasons, use heavy alcohol various reasons, use heavy alcohol consumption as a crutch for business and personal problems.

Once an individual becomes dependent control emotions that are easy to handle for most people. It is under these circumstances that criminal behavior occurs.

According to the Bureau of Justice Statistics, data from a survey of more than 10,000 inmates in state correctional institutions conducted by the U.S. Bureau of the Census for BJS show substantial percentages of individuals serving sentences for crimes they committed while drinking. Another study of 310 imprisoned felons reported that 35 percent imprisoned felons reported that 35 percent were drinking when they committed crimes, and 55 percent of these offenders are heavy drinkers.

IN GENERAL, RESEARCH HAS. shown that a large number of crimes, both petty and violent, occurred during excessive drinking periods. Most of the young men interviewed for violent crimes, while under the influence of alcohol, said they did not mean to hurt anyone, and many could not remember what really happened.

Many judges and law enforcement officials are getting tougher with people who drink, commit crimes and then use their drinking problem as an excuse. If you or a friend have a drinking-problem, don't wait until it's too late. Get help now!

Congressman proposes Military Family Day

WASHINGTON - In an effort WASHINGTON — In an effort to show appreciation to military families for the sacrifices they make, Rep. G. William Whitehurst of Virginia has introduced legislation to designate Dec. 12, 1982, as "National Military Families Day."

In a recent letter to his colleagues in the House of Representatives, he stated that military families are frequently required "to sacrifice comfort and security" for the benefit of the nation. He also recognized the role families play in retention of career-military people.

"Recent personnel studies have shown the vital role played by military families in the career decision-making process of our men and women in uniform. Clearly, if we did not have the dedication of our military families who are willing to endere the lifestyle peculiar to a military career, we would face even more difficult manpower problems than we have today."

As stated in the resolution, "National Military Families Day" would be celebrated with appropriate programs, ceremonies and activities.

"I believe that it is time that a special day be set aside to recognize the sacrifices and contributions of our military families," Whitehurst said, "and Dec. 12, seems to me to be families." Whitehurst said, "and Dec. 12, seems to me to be sepecially appropriate because so many military families find themselves separated from their homes and loved ones during the holiday season."

Senior enlisted Marine stresses good leadership

Story and photos by Sgt Greg Berry

"My advice to you staff NCOs is there are no bad privates, just bad leaders." The speaker was the senior enlisted Marine, and his audience was more than 200 staff noncommissioned officers at the Staff NCO Club here.

Sergeant Major of the Marine Corps Leland D. Crawford toured the air station July 26, making stops at many station and brigade

Topics covered by Crawford ranged from the GI Bill to Perth, Australia and back, but the two main topics he spoke on were leadership and the "war" on drugs.

"I think he's (the commandant) going to win this conflict (against drugs)," Crawford emphasized. He stressed that leadership, good positive leadership, is what's needed to win.

"I've always said we, as staff NCOs... we are down where the rubber meets the road. We are the ones who enforce rules and regulations. We don't make rules and regulations, we enforce them," Crawford said. The sergeant major cited examples of staff NCOs caught using and dealing in drugs, and that type of conduct "won't be tolerated," he said.

The Survivor Benefit Program, fraudulent claims, reenlistment bonuses, wife and child abuse, over inflation of fitness reports, pay problems and the new woodland cammies were also touched on, sometimes lightly and sometimes with a heavy hand.

Perhaps the biggest morale booster though, was the question and answer sessions the sergeant major conducted at each address.

"When are we going to get the new (LVT-7) A-1?" was asked at the enlisted club, where Crawford spoke to a gathering of 3d Marines leathernecks.

The sergeant major smiled and replied, "When are they going to get them . . . I know, but I can't remember the year, and it's not going to be tomorrow either." The leathernecks broke out in laughter, and when the noise subsided Crawford answered, "the new vehicles wouldn't be in the Fleet Marine Force before 1985."

Retention is a problem, and the sergeant major addressed that problem at the Staff NCO Club. "Our GI Bill...in 1989 I know for us staff NCOs that's gone, but I do see an extension on that ... because if they cut that off in 1989, we're going to lose a lot of our staff

The question and answer session at the club was the last official item on the sergeant major's schedule here, and when that ended at 7 p.m., he relaxed to enjoy the company of his fellow staff NCOs.

by Sgt Corrina Martell

Passersby in the 1st Battalion, 3d Marines area July 27 may not have believed their eyes when they saw an entire company of masked Marines going about their daily chores.

The masked Marines, members of Company A, 1/3, were doing everything from answering phones to cleaning rifles, while wearing field protective masks. The purpose: NBC training, which could save their lives in time of war.

"This is part of a comprehensive training program we've started, which will continue until December," said Captain John McGuire, assistant intelligence officer.

"We will gradually increase training with NBC decontamination equipment and work up to hikes in NBC decontamination suits. We want to stress not only the use of this gear in the field, but in garrison as well. In a chemical environment, work still has to be done. We want to get the Marines accustomed to wearing gas masks. It's hot and uncomfortable, but to be the best, there's no other way about it."

First Lieutenant Michael Hamilton, executive officer of Co. A, agreed with McGuire, saying the men were doing extremely well.

The motivated leathernecks, striving to be the "best," ran three miles in 80 degree-plus weather wearing the restrictive rubber masks. Despite the heat and approximately four extra pounds on their heads, Hamilton said that no one dropped out. "We've been carrying on without any problem," he said. "We even wore the gear during cleanup."

The masked Marines were at their own integrity not to remove the head gear, according to First Lieutenant Ed Beck, company commander. "They're hard-charging," he said.

how it would really be in combat," said Sergeant Arthur Joyner. "On the run there was a little problem breathing, but it was something you have to get used to."

Private First Class Chris Helwig saw it another way. "It's what's going to keep me alive," he commented.

Laundry outlets alter NEED A rejected item policy

The Marine Corps Exchange laundry outlets have a new policy on the processing of items with stains, holes, rips, separated seams, etc. Previously the entire bundle was rejected, usually, when inspected at the laundry plant.

Although laundry employees were frequently able to notify customers by phone of the problem, some customers returned a week or so later to pick up their clothes only to find out. they could not be processed without releasing the laundry from liability for the defects in the clothes.

The new policy is to inspect the clothing as before, but only the defective items will be set aside, all others will be cleaned. Both clean and rejected clothing articles will be returned together to the laundry outlet with a "Customer's Authorization" note attached to the rejected articles. The laundry will gladly process the rejected items once the customer acknowledges the defects.

This procedure came about because of a rash of claims against the laundry for damages which were already present when the clothes were turned in for cleaning.

To avoid having clothing rejected, inspect it and note any defects on the claim check when clothing is turned in for processing. If possible indicate exactly what caused the stain. It will make it easier for the laundry's special spot and stain remover service to eliminate it. Minor repairs can also be performed by the laundry at a reasonable charge.

Fort Shafter changes weekly schedule

HONOLULU - Returnengagement movies is a thing of the past now that the Richardson Theater at Fort Shafter changed its movie schedule to three performances at week.

According to Leo Gota, general manager, Hawaii Area Exchange, "Movies will be presented Friday, Saturday and Sunday evenings at 7 p.m. The Monday and Thursday performances have been eliminated due to a continuing lack of patronage on those evenings." An average of only 26 people attend each of those performances.

The new schedule will permit the theater to present all first-run movies with the exception of "blockbuster," "Classic" and Buena Vista (Walt Disney) movies, which will be re-released from time to time.

There will be a Saturday Children's Matinee at 2 p.m. on the first Saturday of every month. Gota explained that lack of Grated films coupled with poor attendance at previous performances suggested that the matinee be discontinued, however, in an effort to continue the showing of movies for children, the exchange established a matinee on a once-amonth basis. Continuance of and/or increase in the matinee schedule will be dependent on the attendance by authorized patrons.

Vaccinations aid measle elimination

A nation wide survey during the 1979-80 school year indicated that 94 percent of America's school children had been vaccinated against measles.

This represents major progress in a campaign to eliminate measles in the United States by October 1982. The effort, launched by the Department of Health and Human Services in 1978 has had outstanding success in the schoolage group.
The 1980, 13,430 measles cases were reported in all age groups, representing an all time low and a greater than 97 percent reduction from the annual average of 500,000 cuses in the prevaccine era. During the first 18 weeks of 1981 (ending May 9), only 1,252 cases were reported — an 81 percent drop from the 6,882 cases reported for the same period in 1980.

While the total number of cases is on the decline, the percentage of is on the decline, the percentage of measles cases contracted by preschool children is increasing much more difficult to reach with immunization service and requires additional attention from parents and the medicul community to uchieve high vaccination levels.

Military parents are encouraged to contact a military medical facility or local health department where further information and vaccination services are available. Also, parents should make sure they have the standarized immunnization record card which is available free from their local or state health department.

The Department of Health and Human Services sees the elimination of measles depending greatly on the concern and efforts of parents and individuals and the support available to them from the medical community government office.

Japanese children visit America

by Sgt Corrina Martell

It's been said in Japan that the children of today have lost their enthusiasm. There are many reasons for this, of course, the disappearance of group play, the preparatory school industry, and a wealthy society in which children need not suffer from the elements or from hunger.

"We would like to give these diagnoses children who will be the

"We would like to give these Japanese children who will he the future leaders of Japan, an opportunity to learn and experience different cultures with people of different countries."

Such were the written words of Takashi Kohno, managing director of House Foods Industries Company, Limited of Japan, in a letter to Delorese Manson, director of EF (Swedish for European summer school) Interstudy. school) Interstudy.

From July 23 to 25, 70 Japanese children, between the ages of 10 and 15, accompanied by 12 chaperones, were given the opportunity of which Kohno spoke when they visited Windward Oahu.

The program was sponsored by Daiei Co., Ltd. and House Food Industries Co., Ltd.

Following four days of visiting Waikiki, the children spent the weekend in the homes of various volunteer families in the Windward

There were two or three children to each home, and 14 sponsoring families were military.

The families met their Japanese children at the Kokokahi Young Women's Christian Association Friday night.

By Saturday, the Japanese children were participating in a typical American day in Hawaii. The families scheduled various events for their guests, including a day at the heach, a trip to Sea Life Park, and an old-fashioned American and an barbecue.

"We thoroughly enjoyed it," said Phyllis Ryan, wife of Major Dick Ryan, commanding officer of Marine Heavy Helicopter Squadron-463. The Ryans opened their home to Kyoki and Haruko Sakurai, two girls from Takasaki, Japan.

Takasaki, Japan.
"The girls were shy and sweet," Ryan said. "They tried to communicate mostly in sign language. My husband works with someone who speaks Japanese and was able to translate for us. The girls relaxed much more after that relaxed much more after that.

"They thought our daughters were beautiful because of their blonde hair and blue eyes, and they thought our homes were very large. They were homes were very large. They were interested in the foods and ate everything on their plates. They made a few faces, but they were always very polite. I feel it was a good experience for the children as well as for the adults.

Ryan said that the Japanese children brought several crafts and gifts with them, including wooden departing. Guest speakers included Jack Richardson, honorary mayor of Kailua and a representative from the Governor's office, Mufi Hanneman. Representatives from Daiei Co., Ltd. and House Food Industrial Co., Ltd.

also spoke "Two days is a short time," said the representative from Daiei Co., "I hope the Japanese and American children will keep in touch. I hope that someday they will come to Japan."

Manson said that she was more than satisfied with the program. "The families were cordial and took time to get dictionaries to translate for the children, as well as calling on their neighbors and friends who spoke Japanese," she said.

"I contribute a lot of the success to the military families — it gave them (the children) an opportunity to meet the local families. Some families are even planning a trip to Japan."

Unsung athletic champions lauded

by Cpl Charlie Marshall

A few years ago Pablo Cruise sang "it's time to find your place in the sun." Corporal Thomas Ray attempted to locate his spot as he ran up the side of a 10,000-foot mountain.

In the annual ultramarathon held at Mount Haleakala, Maui, better known as the Run to the Sun, Ray believes he was the first military finisher to reach the summit and one of 14 who did it in under six hours.

The race, held July 25, started at sea level with approximately 160 runners. Five hours, 54 minutes and 35 seconds later the Crash Fire and Rescue man was at the finish line, atop Maui's largest volcano. That's a runner's high of a different kind. He finished 11th overall.

A group of runners riding high on their success is the Hawaii Marine Gold Team. Cleverly concealing their winged ankles in combat boots, the leathernecks from 2d Battalion, 3d Marines won the Navy Relief 20-mile Relay Race. The gold team, Staff Sergeant Sam Rael, Corporal Anthony Mata and Lance Corporals Clyde Smith and Kim Manson, crossed the finish line 149:12.

1:49:12. Finishing six and one-half minutes later was the Hawaii Marine Silver Team for a third place. Making up this year's silver team was Captain Robert Parker, LCpls Joseph Reyes Morrise Ratliff and Kenneth Robertson and Private First Class Vic Collier . . all from 2/3.
The gold team won the gold, the silver team won the bronze and the bronze team took seventh overall in a field of 45 teams.

The only women's team running in the relay did not come from 2/3 but they are members of the 1st Marine Brigade. Sgt Helga Klampfl, Cpl Sheila McDonough and LCpla Cleressia Owens, Magdalena Rico and Lita Sam deserved a round of applause for their participation and contribution toward Navy Relief.

A couple of short notes to bring everybody up to date in the military sports world: Cpl Rex Ribultan, Headquarters Company, 3d Marines was selected as the first aleternate to represent the Marines in the interservice tennis championship.
Staff Sergeant Tom Bailey and his crew ran their race car to another victory Saturday at Hawaii Raceway Park. They are in the bombers class.

And the Hawaii Marine All-Stars Golf Team will go up against the Okinawan All-Stars in the 72-hole Fleet Marine Force Pacific Golf Championship at the Kaneohe Klipper. The tournament runs Thursday through Sunday.

Slowpitch softball league season began Saturday

The Recreational Slowpitch Softball League kicked off its season Saturday with games at Risely and Pollock Fields.

Gunnery Sergeant Henry Paloma's bases-loaded triple in the bottom of the fifth scored the winning run which enabled Detachment, Company A; 3d Amphibious Assault Battalion to defeat 2d Battalion, 3d Marines 8-3. Other scores in the Island Division were: Station Operations and Maintenance Squadron over 1st Radio Battalion 11-3, and Marine Fighter Attack Squadron-232 downing Marine Medium Helicopter Squadron-265, 13-8.

Fighter Attack Squadron-232 downing Marine Medium Helicopter Squadron-265, 13-8.

In the Pacific Division the All-Navy team shut out Headquarters Company, 1st Marine Brigade 12-0, while Headquarters and Headquarters Squadron upended the Fire Department 13-4: First-Battalion, 12th Marines' Battery A was on the losing end of a 8-5 score, and heavy fire power came from 1st Battalion, 3d Marines as they embarrassed Special Services 36-4.

Sunday's results had 2/3 over 1st Radio Bn 10-7 and SOMS defeated Amtracs 5-1 in the Island division.

Recruit Depot's 'Iron Man' tests strength and stamina

by Sgt Thomas Kelly

MCRD, SAN DIEGO - With long hours of intense training behind them, 41 competitors prepared to meet the challenge they had accepted weeks ago. Each man knew the course and was well aware that, despite all the training it would take the training, it would take everything they could give to conquer it. The 1982 MCRD Iron Man Contest had begun.

Every 15 minutes another wave of athletes took to the course. The first of seven obstacles was a 1,600 meter run with a back pack and 30pound sandbag. But the real enemy was time!

The competitors dropped the pack and, without losing a step, ran toward the obstacle course. After completing a cycle of the obstacle course, it was on to the confidence course to negociate three obstacles.

As the morning went on, the weather became another obstacle. Clouds gave way to sunshine and the temperature began to climb.

After running across the depot to the boathouse and cycling two miles, the next obstacle may have been a welcome sight. The 400been a welcome sight. The 400-meter swim was not easy, but the cool estuary water was invigorating for many competitors. "The swim was difficult," explained Lieutenant Colonel Albert Slater, commanding officer, 1st Recruit Battalion, "but the water was really refreshing."

After leaving the water, the contestants ran to the pull-up bars and executed 40 pull-ups or chinups.

The final and perhaps most demanding event was at the depot-track. A total of 500 sit-ups were required and each repetition; seemed tougher than the last. Fatigue and pain was etched in the faces of competitors, but as they rose and crossed the finish line, it changed to an expression of pride and accomplishment. The winner of the open (age 29 and younger) division, ran the fastest time of the day. First Lieutenant Chad Kirkley breezed through the obstacles in 57:00

Marathon: Nation's second largest endurance race expects a record crowd of 10,000 runners

A full field of 10,000 entrants is expected A full field of 10,000 entrants is expected to participate in the Seventh Annual Marine Corps Marathon to be held in Washington, D.C. Nov. 7. This year's race, now the second largest marathon in the nation, is scheduled to begin at 9 a.m. near the Marine Corps War Memorial (Iwo Jima Monument) in Arlington, Va.

More than 100,000 spectators will watch runners from around the nation and the world complete the 26.2-mile race through the monuments.

Twenty-seven-year-old Dean Mathews

Twenty-seven-year-old Dean Mathews set a course record in the 1981 Marine set a course record in the 1991 Manne Corps Marathon finishing the course in 2:16:31 in the Open Division. Twenty-three-year-old Jan Yerkes, who finished first in the 1980 marathon, still holds the course record for women with a 2:41.48. Both are expected back to defend their

The winner of the marathon is presented the Middendorf Trophy named after the former Secretary of the Navy, the Honorable J.F. Middendorf, Awards are also presented to the top three men and women in the open, military and Marine categories, as well as to the top finishers from the Washington, Virgina, and Maryland areas. Men and women can also compete for awards in six age categories

8,300 marathon entrants, it was their first attempt at the 26.2-mile race. Men, women, and youth from all walks of life, from farmers to pediatricians to house-wives represented 49 of the 50 states.

The relatively flat course is also aesthetically appealing. The race begins at the Marine Corps War Niemorial in Arlington, Va. and stretches across the Potomac and into Georgetown before winding through Washington, D.C. and amid the city's most historic monuments. The race also ends at the Iwo Jima

Memorial.

To assist participants (especially first-timers) who plan to participate in this year's race, there will be three premarathon clinics held Aug. 19, Sept. 16, and Oct. 21 on the campus of George Washington University beginning at 7 p.m. The clinics will feature Dr. David Brody, a leading Washington area sports medicine expert. In addition, there will be a symposium

In addition, there will be a symposium held Friday, Nov. 5 at the Sheraton National, this year's race headquarters, featuring a series of lectures by area physicians and runners that will be of benefit to both veteran and novice

All entries are provided with a Marine Corps Marathon T-shirt, a Marine Marathon patch and a certificate of completion.

The first Marine Corps Marathon was conducted in 1976 and has grown steadily from a relatively small local race of about 1,500 runners to the second largest 1,500 runners to the second largest marathon in the nation, having nearly 9,000 entrants in the 1981 marathon. The Marathon is sanctioned by both the Amateur Athletics Union and the Track and Field Association/United States of America, and endorsed by the President's Council on Physical Fitness and Sports.

Medical personnel will be on hand in case of injury or illness, and there will-be case of injury or illness, and there will-be free refreshments.

Entry fees for the race are $10 per runner and $5 for each additional family member. Registration is limited to the first 12,000 runners. BRODIES TIRE CO.

TIRE BRANDS DO NOT HAVE THE SAME OUALITY LEVELS

August 4, 1982 Classified III

During the early months of each calendar year skilled person-nel at Lex Bro-Tire Co. carefully ex-amine the first 5,000 steel radials that come in for replacement. Unfortunately, a significant number of these tires are units that have falled prior to tread wearout. Moreover, most of these tire failures are caused by either inferior factory workmanship or materials and/or car owner ne-

Artisan School of Interior Design

The Artisan School of Interior Design is dedicated to the education of creative students who are serious about developing careers in interior design and related fields.

The curriculum includes over 1,100 hours of intensive training in the principles of design, drafting skills, rendering techniques, professional and business practices, and many other practices, and many which prepare the student to perform at the level of competence that the profession demands.

The curriculum also offers students an apprenticeship program, during which they work with interior designers in architectural and interior design firms in Honolulu.

The school runs three trimesters per year, in the fall, spring and summer. Applications are now being accepted for the fall trimester scheduled Sept. 20 through Dec. 17.

Applicants must submit an application for admis-sion and have a personal interview with the director.

Application deadline is Aug. 15 for the fall trimester. Registration will be held Sept. 7-10.

For more information or to request a catalog and application for admission, call 941-6931 or write to 1400 Kapiolani Blvd., Room C-28, Honolulu, Hawaii 96814.

Disabilities is currently accepting applications for the fall session which begins Sept. 1.

The school is open to all children in Hawaii who show a discrepancy between their capability and their grades or school achievement. The program emphasis is two-fold: Intensive academic remediation and the enhancement of self-concept through group and individual counseling.

The purpose of Assets is to return the student to his/her neighborhood school, functioning at the appropriate grade levels, in the shortest time possible.

Competency Tutoring

In its ninth year, Competency Tutoring has earned the finest reputation as an outstanding educa-tional service offering quality programs throughquanty programs throughout the year.

The experienced teaching faculty is exceptional in providing basic skill instruction in reading, math, spelling, composition, study skills, and other academic subjects as well.

Most studyte are individ. Most students are individ-ually assessed to deter-mine specific needs and to design a program employ-ing the methods and materials that would be most appropriate for the student. Whether the student is in need of remedial attention, enrichment, or would like to prepare for private school testing, Competency is your best choice. Individually or in small groups of two to five students, Competency has a proven record of East-West Health Exchange, Ltd.

Classes in shiatsu massage — "an acupressure finger-massage" — are offered year-round by the East-West Health Exchange.

The classes are held at the American Association for University Women, 1802 Keeaumoku St., Makiki, in the evenings from 7-9:30

In eight 2%-hour sessions

— 20 contact hours —
students learn to give and receive a complete one-hour body therapy which relieves stress and fatigue, improves stress and fatigue, improves circulation and makes a wonderful gift to give to family and friends.

The Exchange is now registering students for its fall class, which will meet on Wednesday evenings, from Sept. 8-Oct. 27. Preregistration is required, and because class size is limited, early enrollment is recommended.

K's Playschool

K's Playschool, which will expand this year to a will expand this year to a before and after school program, will hold two open houses from 9 a.m. to noon, Aug. 14. The preschoolers will visit the playschool at 237 Awakea Road, Kailua, while the kindergarten through 6th graders will visit room A-III. graders will visit room A-IIL at Lanikai Elementary School in Kailua.

The children will be fortunate to have Stan Sasaki head the programs this year. Mr. Sasaki, an Iolani graduate, completed his B.A. at Adrian College in Michigan. As the playschool grew, Sasaki discovered his true interest in working with children. Several different programs are available to meet the needs of the community: Daily from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m., before and after school care with transportation pro-vided Playschool 8:30-11:30 a.m. For more information call 262-9545

Keiki and Easy Music School

The Keiki Music School's fundamentals program gives children, ages 31/2 to 7, chance to experience music in a fun way. Song, games, stories, pantomime and play enhance their learning of basic musical concepts.

The Keiki Choir Program. for youngsters ages 3½ to 12, is designed for children who love to sing. This performance oriented group teaches poise, sensitivity, and musical expression.

The older students can look toward Easy Music School for their musical instruction needs. The Piano Lab Program, for beginners age 7 through adults, teaches beginning keyboard skills, technique and theory. in studying fretted instru-ments, Easy Music School offers Group Ukulele, ages 7 to adult, and Group Guitar, pre-teen through adult. For those who prefer individual instruction, Easy Music School offers programs in piano, organ, bass, woodwinds, strings, percussion and voice.

Mayis Tracy Ballet School

The Mavis Tracy Ballet

School is now accepting registrations for the fall semester which begins Sept.

A full program is planned for all ages from pre-ballet for four-and five-year-olds, through beginner and intermediate children, to advanced pointe for teens, and beginning and intermediate evening classes for adults

Ballet is taught at our school for its educational, physical, and psychological benefits. We believe that ballet is a logical artistic outlet for the energies of the young person.

The training of mind and body in perfecting technique demands individual effort. This leads to acquiring confidence and self-discipline. The child and adult become aware of the body as an instrument of interpretation. This is basic for all dramatic and dance forms.

Our qualified instructors, using proven educational methods, have already helped thousands of boys and girls become better, more interested students. To make our educational future successful, interested persons should call 538-1191 for more information.

Instruction will be offered at the main facility at 735 Bishop St. as well as Aina Haina and Aiea. Give us a call today at 538-1191.

Parent Participation Nursery School

Parent Participation Nursery School is a private, non-profit organization. It operates a preschool cooperative which is the only one of its kind on the Windward side.

The pre-school is managed by parents and guided by a professional staff.
PPNS built its special reputation over 11 years of operation as a unique resource for Windward families.

The preschool offers more than formalized child care for parents. It is committed to encouraging parent education and parent involvement in early education.

This is accomplished primarily through regular parent participation in the classroom. Directed by a professional staff, parents are seen and used as educators themselves.

An open house is scheduled for 7 to 9 p.m. Aug. 16.

Information about the open house, the fall program and applications for enrollment may be obtained by calling 262-6891 or 262-2569. Scholarships are ulso uvailable.
