FIRST SERGEANT FOCUS: DRILL REQUIREMENTS

By Senior Master Sgt. John Casey
202 ISRG and 203 IS/First Sergeant

There are two driving directives that describe and outline drill requirements for attendance and participation as a member of the Air National Guard. These are DoDI 1215.06, “Uniform Reserve, Training, and Retirement Categories for the Reserve Components” and ANGI 36-2001, “Management of Training and Operational Support within the Air National Guard”. ANGI 36-2001 establishes guidance for administering and controlling personnel duty status and applies to all Air National Guard organizations and individuals not in the active federal service. It implements the provisions to Titles 10, 32 and 37 of the United States Code. DODI 1215.06 establishes policy, assigns responsibilities, and prescribes procedures relating to categorizing, training, and reporting of Reserve Component (RC) Service members.

In ANGI 36-2001, description of the ANG Mission, Training Responsibilities, Participation (Satisfactory and Unsatisfactory) Authorizations, and the different types of statuses (Inactive Duty, Active Duty (including AGR), Full-Time National Guard Duty-Training, and Federal Service) are discussed. Depending on your current status there are differences you need to be aware of. However, as the title depicts, we are going to focus on Drill Requirements (currently or formerly known as “Drill”, Unit Training Assembly (UTA), Regularly Scheduled Drill (RSD), Inactive Duty for Training (IDT). Highlights from both Instructions include the following:

Regularly Scheduled Drills. IDT periods that are pre-scheduled and used primarily for individual or unit readiness training to RC Service members.

(a) The 48 annual periods of IDT are the regularly scheduled IDT as authorized for members of the Ready Reserve pursuant to requirements in section 10147 of Reference (d) or section 502(a) of Reference (f).

(b) A regularly scheduled drill period must be at least 4 hours in length.

(c) Equivalent training (ET), as defined in the Glossary, is training conducted in lieu of a missed regularly scheduled drill. There is no obligation for an RC to authorize ET periods. When an ET period is authorized, the approving official will ensure that the training is of equivalent value to the regularly scheduled of that member and available on the date(s) scheduled. An RC Service member may not be paid for more than 4 periods of ET during any fiscal year (FY) pursuant to section 206 of Reference (i).

For Annual Training (AT):

AT is required for all members of the Selected Reserve, excluding AGRs. Units of the National Guard are required to perform fulltime military training for at least 15 days each year (including travel) pursuant to section 502(a) of Reference (f).

So what are the big rocks you need to take away from these documents? In order to have a “good” year that will count towards your retirement, you must have a minimum of 50 points. Just showing up for all your scheduled drills will get you 48 out of the 50. However, due to the additional 15 AT days that are required, you get to 63 which not only ensures a good year but adds to your retirement in the end. Additionally, 15 points are awarded for “Annual Participation” combined for a total of 78 points. But just “showing up” isn’t all that’s required. You must actively participate in the mission and AFSC you have earned, be providing a service, and add value to the military. Keep in mind, leadership can send you home if you are not keeping up these standards which may affect your point earning potential.

While emergencies certainly happen without warning, cars break down and New England weather can be unpredictable at times, it is expected that you adhere to both your unit and wing show times as directed. It is expected that you adhere to the dates provided in the RSD Schedule put out as far as possible in advance to coordinate personal planning. Getting excused and rescheduling a missed drill is by far the exception and not the rule. Because of advanced planning, coordinating training, and allocating resources to an expected number of members, missing these periods is highly discouraged. We live, train, operate, and complete our missions as a team and we can’t do that as effective as necessary when we don’t have everyone available.

CHAPEL CALL: THE HISTORY OF CHANUKAH

By Chaplain (Capt.) Derek White
102nd IW/Chapel

Recently I had the opportunity to meet with two very cool Rabbis. As we discussed religious traditions and religious requirements. They explained to me that Jewish holidays can be boiled down to this, “They tried to kill us, we won, let’s eat”. It was not the first time that I had heard this from my Rabbi friends.

As we enter the holiday season I felt this article would be a good way to explain the history behind Chanukah / Hanukkah to those who may not know it.

The year was 165 BCE and Alexander the Great had created one of the largest empires in the world. After his death it was divided up into 4 sections governed by his generals. The Seleucid Empire reigned by Antiochus IV Epiphanes seeking to Hellenize (assimilate to Greek culture) the remaining Jews in Jerusalem. The Second Temple of Solomon had been built during the time of Ezra and Nehemiah with limited resources of refugees returning from the Persian Empire 200 years earlier. It was not the elaborate temple that was rebuilt by Herod the Great at the time of Jesus which was the third Temple of Solomon.

In 165 BCE the Greeks raided the temple and sacrificed pigs on the altar and mixed oil in the jars with the special oil used for religious ceremonies. There were three brothers from the Hasomean Family commonly known as the Maccabees who successful lead a revolt against the Greek occupying forces in Jerusalem and liberated the city for a 45-60 year period before the Romans other threw the Greeks. The brothers were coroneted as kings and road into Jerusalem on colts with the people waiving palm branches and lining the road with cloaks. They came into the city to purify the temple and re-consecrate it for religious use. The oil used to light the lamp in the temple had been contaminated. The only bottle left with a seal on it was that could be used was that of the High Priest. It only had enough oil to burn for one day. The lamp remained lit for 8 days while more oil could be found to ensure the light of Israel never went out. This was a miracle.

The tradition of Chanukah today has evolved over time. Still the tradition is to have one lamp in the house lit for 8 days to celebrate the miracle of the one bottle of oil in the temple not contaminated was able to burn for 8 days. It is a holiday to give thanks and praise for the provisions of God. And like many Jewish holidays, the message still is “they tried to kill us, we won, let’s eat”.

Whatever holiday this season you celebrate, may we be thankful for the blessings we have received and enjoy good food and company with one another.

This past October, the 102nd Intelligence Wing Public Affairs Office established a podcast channel. The audio content published will include news, interviews and other interesting information.

As part of the launch of the new channel, a series, hosted by wing Director of Psychological Health, Jill Garvin, was also established. The series, titled “The 102IW Wellness Podcast” will release episodes on a monthly basis and will focus on the wellness of Airmen and their families.

Speaking of the new series, Garvin said, “Each month I will cover a new topic as I interview Airmen in the wing, experts in various fields relating to wellness and psychological health as well as care providers assigned right here in the wing.”

The series, titled the “102nd Intelligence Wing Wellness Podcast” is available now on iTunes at <https://podcasts.apple.com/us/podcast/102nd-intelligence-wing/id1482157010> and via the wing’s Facebook account.

We are working on getting it available on Google Play for those of you with Android devices.

It can also be listened to on the wing’s DVIDS website at: <https://www.dvidshub.net/units/102IW> and scrolling down the the ‘Audio’ section

This listing was compiled to assist you in caring for your Wingman. Please use this page for your information and as guidance for referral.

102ND AIRMEN THANK WWII VET FOR LEGACY OF SERVICE ON HER 102ND BIRTHDAY

By Tech. Sgt. Thomas Swanson
102nd IW/Public Affairs

Over a dozen Airmen from Joint Base Cape Cod's 102nd Intelligence Wing kicked off Veteran's Day weekend by wishing U.S. Army Air Corps veteran Cpl. Della Sassa a happy 102nd birthday, on November 8, 2019, at the Royal Cape Cod Nursing & Rehabilitation Center in Buzzards Bay, Mass.

Originally from Glidden, Wis. Sassa is part of "the greatest generation" of World War II servicemembers, and one of the first women in U.S. History to serve in the U.S. Army Air Corps, an organization which would become the U.S. Air Force in 1947.

Surrounded by fellow Airmen, Sassa shared memories of her service from 1941 to 1945 helping injured soldiers while working as a physical therapy nurse at Maxwell Field, Ala.

"It was a wonderful experience and I was glad I could do it. I look back with a lot of happy memories, in spite of the fact that there were a lot of people injured. We gave everything we had to them... I think I probably made a difference by doing that... We really did work hard, but I enjoyed every minute of it, every single minute."

The Airmen offered their sincere thanks and appreciation for Sassa paving the way for them to serve as women in the U.S. military.

Master Sgt. Erica Griffin said, "All of us women in this room, we wouldn't have ever been able to join if it wasn't for people like you."

Master Sgt Regina Baker continued, "We want to thank you very much, if you weren't able to do your job, we wouldn't be able to be here and do our job... we're indebted to you forever."

Sassa expressed her appreciation for the visit saying, "You're a grand group, you all look so handsome... Really and truly, this is a great country isn't it, it's great to be an American!"

Sassa then led the room in a chorus of the Air Force Song and reminisced about losing her service cap in the wind while riding a motorcycle.

"I'm having so much fun today, even my feet are going!"

102ND INTEL WING CONDUCTS RESILIENCY TACTICAL PAUSE

The Massachusetts Air National Guard's 102nd Intelligence Wing conducted a resilience tactical pause on Nov. 2, 2019, on Joint Base Cape Cod. The purpose of the event was to start a meaningful dialogue with Airmen about personal resiliency and suicide prevention.

Airmen heard messages from the Command Chief Master Sergeant of the Air Force Kaleth O. Wright, 102nd Intelligence Wing Commander Col. Virginia I. Gaglio and Army combat veteran Justin Miller, Co-Founder of Objective Zero, a 501(c)(3) nonprofit organization that anonymously connects veterans to a nationwide network of peer support and wellness resources utilizing mobile app technology. After the event Airmen met in small groups in their work centers to share experiences and talk about strategies for dealing with stress in all areas of life.

COL. McNULTY TAKES COMMAND OF 102 IW

Col. David McNulty took command of the 102nd Intelligence Wing during a ceremony at Otis Air National Guard Base, Massachusetts, Nov. 3, becoming the newest leader of the organization responsible for providing worldwide precision intelligence and command and control. (bottom center) Col. McNulty is joined by former 102nd wing commanders, Col. Virginia Gaglio, Brig. Gen. James LeFavor, Brig. Gen. Patrick Cobb, retired Brig. Gen. Anthony Schiavi, retired Col. Paul Worcester and retired Brig. Gen. Donald Quenneville during the wing's Change of Command ceremony held on November 3, 2019, representing nearly 20 years of wing leadership in one photo.

UNITY BRIDGE: A SYMBOL OF STRENGTH, SUPPORT AND RESILIENCY

In recent weeks and months, the Air National Guard and members of the 102nd Intelligence Wing have put extra emphasis on resiliency, wellness and suicide prevention within our community. As part of that effort, 102nd IW Airmen and Family Readiness Yellow Ribbon Support Specialist, Ms. Kimberly Healy facilitated a unique project and moral event called the “Unity Bridge”.

“The Unity Bridge is a symbol of strength and support when it may be needed more than ever,” said Healy.

During recent regularly scheduled drills, Airmen from around the wing expressed their commitment to each other and loved ones by writing messages of hope on planks of wood organized by unit. Ms. Healy then used wood burning techniques to permanently engrain these messages and assembled the emblematic structure.

“Together the 102nd Intelligence Wing has shown that no person should ever have to face their ‘bridge’ alone,” said Healy.

“This shows the unity across the wing, and the importance of taking care of each other,” said Tech Sgt. Richard Black of the 102nd Logistics Readiness Flight.

Each step across the bridge represents the member’s collective commitment to each other, and the bridge itself is symbolic of strength, each unit working together as a wing to support its Airmen up and over life’s challenges.

COMBAT DINING IN

The 102nd Intelligence Wing hosted a combat dining-in event at Otis Air National Guard Base, Massachusetts, Nov. 2, 2019. Historically, dining-ins are used to raise morale and foster esprit de corps among Airmen. The concept of these events are steeped in tradition, going all the way back to 1930. U.S. Army Air Corps Gen. Henry “Hap” Arnold was known for hosting “wing-dings” which is thought of to be the inspiration for dining-ins.

Since 1968, the Department of Defense (DOD) has supported ethnic observances through the development of local programs and many diverse activities. The Department's goal is to understand others' perspectives, to broaden our own, and to fully experience and educate ourselves.

Cultural celebrations foster respect and open-mindedness for other cultures, and provide an opportunity where diverse perspectives, cultures and values are accepted, appreciated, and celebrated. Knowledge is the key to acceptance.

Celebrating our differences, as well as our common interests, helps unite and educate us. Activities are designed to enhance cross-cultural awareness and promote harmony among all military members, their families, and the civilian work force. These activities are extensions of our equal opportunity, diversity and inclusion education, and training objectives.

The recognition of a common humanity is the first step in the celebration of our differences - differences that inform our cultures, our values, our minds, and all our ways of being in the world.

As the Nation's largest employer, the DOD encourages all members to accept the responsibility to be actively involved in addressing the educational, economic, cultural, and societal needs of all Americans.

Through multicultural celebrations, not only do we become more aware of others' culture, we gain a sense of pride for the diversity of our own culture.

102 IW HISTORY FILE - OTIS SOON WILL BE ABLE TO ACCESS WORLD-WIDE WEB

By Lt. Col. Richard Sherman
(Originally published in July 1997)

The 102nd Communications Flight has taken a giant step toward World-Wide Web access for the wing with the completion of a two-year-long project to streamline and improve the local area network.

Led by Tech. Sgt. Sean Moroney, LAN manager, the network has been divided into four segments to improve reliability and speed.

Previously, all areas serviced by the LAN were interconnected on one system, resulting in periodic “crashes” and internal conflicts due to heavy traffic. By dividing the system into four smaller networks, many of these problems will be eliminated.

The project required extensive recabling at the Communications Flight’s building 104, as well as the installation of new hardware and software.

The upshot of the project is that any computer that has LAN capabilities will soon be able to access the Internet.

System administrators will be accepting requests for web access and issuing Microsoft Internet Explorer software, version 3.02, to those users who have a need for access. Many users will be limited to military Web sites, whose address end with the “.mil” or “.gov” extension. Those who need access to other non-government sites will be authorized on a case-by-case basis.

Sergeant Moroney was assisted by other Comm Flight members in the project, including Tech. Sgts. John Leblanc and Tom Kelley; Staff Sgt. John Silvera, and civilian Steve Bazarewsky.

According to Maj. Wayne Theroux, flight commander, “This accomplishment is the first of two major steps that will give us the robust data transfer architecture we need to allow web access to everyone during the duty day. Our people have worked extremely hard on multiple requests from our customers and we will be ready when the second major step arrives. This will involve frame relay, a type of circuit that will transfer over twice as much information as our current circuit. It is slated for September or October.”

Recognition can be both formal and informal.

Medals are an important way to formally recognize Airmen. There are many medals and ribbons an Airman may be eligible to receive during their career. The most commonly earned medals are those for achievement, commendation and meritorious service which an Airman may be eligible for.

There is also quarterly and annual awards - vital programs that provide deserved recognition and as a byproduct provide excellent material for medal packages.

For more information on these programs, contact your supervisor, mentor, first sergeant, Commander's Support Staff or the Force Support Flight.

SEAGULL SUBMISSIONS

The 102nd Intelligence Wing Public Affairs Office welcomes your feedback and submissions. Got a great story idea? Is your unit or shop doing something impressive? We welcome articles written by unit members on topics of interest to the wing and its personnel.

WRITTEN STORY SUBMISSIONS

If you like to write and would like to submit a full article for publishing in the Seagull, we would be happy to take a look at it. Typically written stories are between 500-800 words and are formatted in the Associated Press (AP) format. Stories should have some relevance to the wing, its mission or its people. We reserve the right to review and edit your piece but will talk any edits over with you.

TELL US YOUR STORY IDEA

If you aren't interested in writing your own story but would still like to call attention to someone or something great happening in the wing, contact wing PA. Give us some background details and we will take it from there!

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Got something to say that doesn't warrant a full article? Send us your announcements and we will include them in the appropriate section of the Seagull. Please limit your message to a short paragraph or less.

PHOTOGRAPHS

Did you capture some great shots while training on a cool piece of equipment at some obscure training site out in the woods? Maybe you went to a great going away luncheon or a promotion ceremony. Perhaps you snapped a picture of you and your team working hard and building camaraderie. Send us your shots! Public Affairs can't always be there but we still want to share those moments with the wing. For submissions, just give us a few lines about what was going on, where the photo was taken, who is in it and who took the photo. We might be able to get them in the Around Otis section of the Seagull and possibly on our Facebook page.

FIND US

Public Affairs can be reached at x4516 or x7200, via email at usaf.ma.102-iw.mbx.pa@mail.mil or by simply dropping by our office in Bldg 170, Room 219. For official portraits and studio photography, we take appointments for Tues-Thurs from 0730-1130 or walk-ins on RSD Sundays from 0800-0900.

FY20 SEAGULL DEADLINES

Typically, 10 issues of the Seagull are published annually. Below you will find the deadlines for submission of content for each issue. The basic guidelines for submissions can be found on the left side of this page. Although Public Affairs makes every effort to accept your stories and images, we cannot guarantee content received after the submission deadline will make it in.
