Bedbugs ... a costly fiction

By

Opening Round

Sergeant: Where is the balance of your rifle?

Recruit: I don't know. This is all they gave me.

There are lots of mighty fine motels around the country where one can enjoy a good night's rest and then go peacefully on his way if he leaves that little postcard alone. You know the one. It's always on the dresser or a table, inviting comments about the service.

I had a friend who filled out the card. I still shudder to think of the consequences of his rash act. He had spent a pleasant night at one of the nicer national chain motels and had enjoyed a delicious breakfast. His baggage was all packed when he noticed the card beside the TV set.

He did it just for a joke. He wrote "Everything fine except that about 2 a.m. something started biting me." On the card and left it in the room.

Two weeks later he received a letter at his home which read:

Dear Sir:

As regional manager of _____, I was aghast at the information which you wrote recently on one of our comment cards, but I hasten to thank you for doing so. I am sure you realize how swiftly our national image could suffer under such circumstances.

"Our Mr. Twombly left national headquarters immediately after the postcard was received and within six hours took charge of the infested unit. He closed the motel facilities down upon his arrival. The manager of the unit was transferred to our school for remedial training. His assistant and four maids were terminated. The entire unit, including the restaurant, was fumigated and all bedding and linen was replaced from the regional warehouse.

"Service was restored after five days at a total cost of $11,725.80, which we do not count as too high a price to restore your good will and confidence in our integrity and dependability. Once again, thank you for your forthright remarks and the opportunity you have afforded us to overcome the grievous conditions."

Sincerely,

Well, my friend's toes began to curl a bit as he read this letter, and waves of remorse, self-recrimination, and heart-sick uneasiness swept over him as he read. He would have felt exceedingly uncomfortable about the aftermath of his card if he had been eaten up during his stay, so that under actual circumstances he felt 10 times as bad. The only thing that saved him from a nervous collapse on the spot was that his original card fell out of the envelope. Across it was written, "Send this nut the bug letter."

Parting Shot:

Did you hear the latest pollution story? I shot an arrow into the air and it stuck.

Reservists home-bound

Timing was the key last weekend as 5,000 Marine Reservists dispersed to their training centers in one of 23 states. Saturday and Sunday found highways filled with convoys of Marine Corps Reservists in military vehicle, commercial bus, or private auto — some on the way to waiting aircraft at one of the area airports or MCAS, Cherry Point.

Their two-weeks completed, the Reservists go home to families and jobs — to week-end drills — and to other interests while remaining a part of the Marine Corps team.

Citing their participation in Exercise High Boot which ended here Aug. 2, MajGen. Leo J. Dulacki, CG, 4th MarDiv. said, "They worked long and hard planning for the exercise and, down to the lowest unit level, they executed the many tasks assigned like true professionals. The Reserves can be proud of their accomplishments."

As they departed, another 500 Reservists were arriving for their Annual Training Duty.

LtGen. Chaisson retires

WASHINGTON — LtGen. John R. Chaisson, Chief of Staff, Headquarters, Marine Corps, retired from active duty July 31.

He began work the next day as the Assistant Director of Regulations for the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission.

At the retirement ceremony, LtGen. Chaisson received the Distinguished Service Medal, his second, for his exceptionally meritorious service to the Government of the United States from July 1968 to July 1972.

LtGen. Chaisson was also commended by Gen. Robert E. Cushman Jr., CMC, for his aggressive leadership and untiring spirit through his 31 years of service.

LtGen. John R. Chaisson

Pvt. James E. Turner of Hq. Btry., 2d Bn., 10th Marines, rounded out a four-year tour of active duty by receiving the Bronze Star Medal with Combat "V" for heroism during a Division parade here last week.

MajGen. Fred Haynes, Division CG, awarded the decoration to the 21-year-old Nashville Marine at Division Headquarters.

On Oct. 27, 1970, Turner was serving as a scout observer with Hq. Btry., 11th Marines, in Vietnam, directing artillery fire from a one man position in the Que Son Valley.

When he observed a medical evacuation helicopter shot down by enemy fire near his position, "Pvt. Turner left his covered position and maneuvered across the rough fire-swept terrain to the site of the crash. Although the helicopter was burning, and in danger of exploding, he repeatedly entered the wreckage and assisted in removing the injured passengers."

"The bird was on its side," Turner recalls, "with the loading door in the side open. I crawled in and pulled the men out that way."

According to Turner, a four man crew and four casualties were in the chopper at the time.

"With complete disregard for his own safety," the citation continues, "he continued his efforts until all the crash victims had been removed to covered positions. Then, despite the danger from enemy fire and great discomfort from smoke inhalation, Turner rendered first aid to the casualties and remained with them until they were evacuated.

"His heroic and selfless actions ... were instrumental in saving the lives of eight Marines."

Turner, serving as police sergeant for his unit, served in Vietnam from February, 1970, to January, 1971, and also served a tour at Guantanamo Bay Navy Base, Cuba.

Something new

NEW LEJEUNE PHONES—A new type coin telephone instrument is now being installed at Camp Lejeune by Carolina Telephone and Telegraph Company. These instruments are referred to as single-slot coin telephones and will eventually replace three-slot telephones. Some features are: modern appearance, a two-part instruction card, a single slot for depositing coins, no sounds heard by the person depositing money, and a front mounted handset. Improved customer service is anticipated.

Law students get OJT

By Sgt. Dave Conway

Four civilian law students are currently getting a taste of military law here through the Marine Corps' new Summer Law Clerk Program.

The program is designed to provide a receptive base for future recruitment of law students, including minority groups, to participate in the administration of military justice as well as provide them with an indoctrination to military law to take back to their colleges.

The four, Naomi White of Texas Southern University, Victor L. Hanson from Golden Gate Law School, Michael Meehan of Georgetown University, and William Jackson from DuPaul University began arriving early in June.

Jackson is working the Force Troops legal office, while the other three work in Base Legal.

"The students are mainly working in research and preparation of trial briefs for the trial and defense councils," said Capt. E. Randall Ricketts, Chief Trial Council and supervisor of the Camp Lejeune Summer Law Clerk Program.

"Naturally, they are not allowed to work as military lawyers in court while here. However, they do observe court proceedings. We feel this training has given them a fair working knowledge of the military justice system."

Victor Hanson, formerly a Marine captain assigned to the legal field, commented, "The Summer Law Clerk Program hasn't convinced me to 'reenlist' in the Marine Corps after graduation from law school.

"I've still got another year of school to worry about, but it has made me aware of the opportunity, and a different option available."

Naomi White added, "I didn't know what to expect when I arrived. Military justice is a totally different bag from civilian. It's given me a good awareness of the differences."

The students will begin leaving Camp Lejeune in mid-August.

Some 20 positions were filled this summer at several Marine bases by the Summer Law Clerk Program.

A street dance is slated after the sun goes down until midnight.

Career planners lauded

Five Force Troops career planning NCOs were awarded letters of appreciation from the Commandant of the Marine Corps in recognition of their meritorious service as career planners during the last quarter Fiscal Year 1972.

BrigGen. Robert L. Nichols, CG, Force Troops, presented the letters to GySgt. James R. Hostilo, HqCo., GySgt. Maxie R. Johnson, 8th Engineer Bn., SSgt. Francis E. Vining, 2d Force Recon Co., SSgt. David L. Bearden, 8th Motor Transport Bn., and Sgt. James G. Maples, 2d Bridge Co.

Together the five career planners were responsible for reenlisting 64 first-term Marines during the quarter April-June 1972, and contributed to Force Troops being first in the Marine Corps in first-term reenlistments during May and June.

In addition to the letter of appreciation, GySgt. Hostilo was also awarded the Force Troops Commanding General's career planning rotating achievement award for the fourth quarter.

Eighth Motor Transport Bn., was awarded the Commanding General's rotating trophy for Career Planning achievement at the battalion level for the fourth quarter Fiscal Year 1972, while 2d Force Recon Co., received a similar trophy for career planning achievement at the company level.

Changes in training announced

WASHINGTON — Changes in Marine enlisted training — expected to develop each Marine to his fullest potential — have been ordered by headquarters training officials.

Lesson guides and tests for 11 of 12 "essential subjects training" have been prepared by Headquarters, endeavoring to bring Marine Corps-wide uniformity while making each Marine proficient in the different categories.

The current training policies, outlined in the recently released MCO 510.2G, are a modification of the original 1970 Individual Training of Enlisted Marines (ITEM) order. After two years of refinement, policies on individual and career training will now be standardized.

Previously local commanders determined their lessons plans and tests. Now lesson guides will be provided so that instructors may develop classroom formats along the same lines. Still, much of the material will have to come through the research and knowledge of the instructor.

Marines, regardless of occupational field or unit, are expected to achieve and maintain proficiency in the essential military subjects — subjects considered paramount if an individual is to attain professional characteristics necessary for him to assume a greater responsibility.

Most of the training will be conducted at the unit level supplemented by formal schools, correspondence courses, and higher level unit schools. Performance testing will determine whether an individual has achieved the desired level of proficiency.

Until the modification, there were only 11 essential training areas — drill, first aid and field sanitation, NBC defense, rifle, uniforms and equipment, Marine Corps history, individual tactics, interior guard, map reading, code of conduct, and counter-measures against mines and boobytraps. Now the 12th — physical fitness — directs Marines to abide by current physical training rules and testing.

The addition of physical fitness extends formal recognition to the subject as a daily training concern.

Water survival training and swimming is not listed as an essential subject, but rather under related training. This portion of the order asks that all Marines be able to stay afloat for an hour — with gear that includes a rifle and boots — although Headquarters officials realize that not all Marines can and that not all commands have facilities or instructors. The order adds Red Cross swimming, including swimmer classifications, as an alternative.

Commanders are not forced to replace their locally-generated training lessons or tests, but the Inspector General on his visits will use HQMC lesson and testing evaluations.

In the future, written exams may possibly be supplemented with performance testing since it and ITEM are the primary means of determining individual proficiency. Yet even more far-reaching plans call for paralleling the essential subjects portion of ITEM with boot camp training since the ultimate aim is to train all enlisted Marines in such a fashion that they can go from recruit training to retirement; or base-to-base, and still know exactly how they will be graded.

ABOUT PAGE ONE...

Time marches on

The main gate at the world's largest and most complete amphibious training base has undergone numerous changes since its inception. And it faces an ever greater change in the future as depicted on page one by Globe's chief line drawer, LCpl. Dave Sellers.

When the widening of highway 24 is completed, it is expected that a cloverleaf, not quite as elaborate as the work of art on page one, will ease the flow of traffic to and from Camp Lejeune. But this is some time in the future.

Much more modernization is taking place on base right now. GySgt. Jack Holsomback grabbed his Instamatic and note pad last week to bring Globe readers up to date on all of the construction in the mill here. His report appears on pages B and C, section II.

PI RECRUITERS SCHOOL CLOSES

After 25 years of service the Recruiter's School at Parris Island graduated its final class Aug. 4. The move to the west coast was necessitated by a requirement for enlarged student capacity and billeting spaces.

CHAMPUS warns about misinterpretation

DENVER — "I hope that expectant mothers recognize the limitations of the CHAMPUS program for dental care," LtCol. (Dr.) W. E. Landefeld, Jr., D.D.S., Civilian Health and Medical Program of the Uniformed Services (CHAMPUS) Director of Dental Affairs, warns. "We are receiving many requests for reimbursement for care which is not authorized under the program," he continues. "Dental care under the CHAMPUS Basic Program is really quite limited."

There are some instances when dental care is authorized on a cost sharing basis during pregnancy. Care is authorized to eliminate the centers of infection which might prove harmful to the health of the mother or the unborn child. If such care is necessary, it may include the removal of teeth, root canal work, periodontics (caring for the tissues supporting the teeth), restoration of decayed teeth, oral hygiene treatment and diagnosis necessary for this care.

"Certain dental procedures are not authorized, however," Dr. Landefeld warns. "For example, the replacement of teeth missing prior to pregnancy is seldom authorized." For such care to be authorized, he explains, there must be "compelling medical evidence" that the pregnancy is being seriously endangered because of nutritional deficiencies developing as a result of the lack of ability to chew food.

He also warns that CHAMPUS may not authorize gold restorations if a tooth may be "adequately" restored with another dental material, such as amalgam.

The agency that authorizes payment of dental bills is CHAMPUS in Denver. CHAMPUS Advisors and Health Benefits Counselors located at military installations have additional information for beneficiaries.

Even when some dental care is authorized during a woman's pregnancy, Dr. Landefeld warns that all claims for dental care must be accompanied by a statement from the woman's obstetrician verifying the pregnancy and indicating the estimated delivery date or actual date of the termination of pregnancy. "If the patient forgets to send in that medical statement," Dr. Landefeld explains, "we must return the claim, and of course, payment will be delayed."

OTHER CHAMPUS SCOOP

CHAMPUS will pay for the authorized services of physical therapists, psychologists, speech therapists, speech pathologists, audiologists, social workers, occupational therapists and nurses.

It's as clear as black & white

CHAMPUS

CHAMPUS means medical care for the serviceman's family from hospitals and doctors around the country and around the world.

Back to school

By James Redman

School begins Aug. 28. What can I say? The Summer of '72 will soon be a thing of the past and the Fall will soon be a reality.

This year, however, there will be some new faces in the front office, particularly in the office of the principal. For those of you who have not heard, Mr. Sloan has left LHS to go back to school. Taking his place will be the former principal of Brewster Junior High, Mr. Linker. There will also be a new face in the guidance office as Mr. Tisdale also left to return to gain his law degree. Who knows? It could turn out to be a wild year with a new administration.

In honor of the fact that school is opening, the Teen Club is going to have a dance Aug. 23. Nantucket Sleighride (formerly the Stax of Gold) will provide the music. Well, the Teen Club has lived up to its promise that it would paint the inside of Marston Pavilion. Instead of being a dull brown it is now a hot pink. Hot pink? The Teen Club has also lived up to its promise of returning the trampoline, and from what I understand things are really jumping.

And now for all you girls who want to support your school next year. The LHS Drill team will hold a week-long workshop from Aug. 21-25. The first meeting will be held at 1 p.m. in the lobby of the high school and will last for about two hours. All girls who will be attending LHS next year are eligible to participate. Any old members that are still around are asked to please attend.

This is to be my last article and I would just like to thank all the people involved with the Globe for letting me have the opportunity to write for them. It has been an experience I won't soon forget. But the greatest thrill I received while writing was getting my one and only fan letter, and I would like to share it with you.

"After reading your column for several weeks now, with its vast fund of misinformation, I felt compelled to comment. Perhaps 13 years of school is the answer, then you might learn to spell, debatable."

I would just like to thank my anonymous friend and fan, and tell him to keep those cards and letters coming in.

VA benefits are many

WASHINGTON — A serviceman or woman on active duty can become a part of the largest class of graduates in the world.

The class consists of more than 13 million men and women — veterans all — who have gone through high schools, vocational schools, and colleges under the "GI Bill."

Actually, there have been three GI Bills since the first went into effect for the men and women who fought in World War II. The second GI Bill covered servicemen and women of the Korean Conflict, and in March 1966 the Congress enacted into law the Veterans Readjustment Benefits Act. This one covers everyone who served since Jan. 31, 1955.

Educational benefits cover men and women on active duty, or those who have bid the Armed Forces goodbye, and even the dependents of such individuals.

Education is only one part of the Veterans Administration's program.

For instance, more than 8 million veterans own their own homes through loans guaranteed by the Veterans Administration.

Insurance is another good example of the type of program the VA handles. Approximately $37 billion worth of Government life insurance is administered by the VA for veterans; in addition, $52 billion worth of Servicemen's Group Life Insurance is handled by the VA for men and women on active duty in the Armed Forces today.

A veteran who becomes disabled may be eligible for disability payments. His children may be eligible for educational assistance should he die while in the Armed Forces or become totally disabled after discharge.

There are hundreds of other benefits which a man or woman on active duty, are eligible to receive. None come automatically. They must apply for the aid and assistance their family can get, but it's as easy as visiting the nearest VA office.

The 166 Veterans Administration hospitals may be available and the VA is deeply involved in aiding veterans who have drug dependency problems.

For immediate and full information, visit or write the nearest Veterans Administration office.

Dog's best friend is...

Sgt. Ken Toney and his family recently reversed the old saying and proved that a dog's best friend is man.

Sgt. Toney, Transport Co., 8th MT Bn., his wife Peggy and daughter Casony, were out for a Sunday drive in the Blue Ridge Mountains when they found a 40 lb. Basset Hound limping along the highway. They stopped and discovered that he had been wounded in the side, apparently from an unknown archer's arrow.

Prompted by pity as well as admiration for the dog's determination to survive, Sgt. Toney first took the dog to a veterinarian and then home as the family pet. They named their pet "Boy."

"We've been wanting a dog for some time and Boy is just what the doctor ordered," said Toney.

A little help for flood victims

Open Line.

In a recent issue I saw a short article about flood disaster donations, but I can't locate the copy. Could you run the article again or maybe just answer a couple of questions.

Some of my friends and I have collected a small sum of money and we would like to donate it to where it is needed the most (worst). Also, could you tell me if the Red Cross will accept small donations and assure the donor that it goes where he wants it to go.

Just one more question, is there any base club or organization such as girl-boy scouts, ecology club, etc. that has a current project to help the flood disaster areas.

ROAD TO NOWHERE — A highway somewhere near Wilkes-Barre, Penn. abruptly ends, a victim of Tropical Storm Agnes. Because so many roads were washed out, everything from small boats to helicopters were used to carry the evacuation of stranded people. (U.S. Coast Guard Photo)

MSgt. Hargrove,

The article you refer to appeared in the July 13 issue of the Globe and was updated in last week's paper. Information for both stories was taken from SecNav BASEGRAM (DTG 111917Z July).

Here is the BASEGRAM in its entirety.

The recent flash floods in the Rapid City-Black Hills area of South Dakota and the floods on the east coast following tropical storm Agnes have affected thousands of families with substantial loss of life and destruction to property. The American National Red Cross has once again mobilized its full resources to assist the many families affected by the disaster. The Red Cross is the primary agency to meet the immediate human needs of flood stricken individuals and families. Disaster action teams are on the scene working with local volunteers.

Because this emergency comes at a time when Red Cross Disaster Funds have been seriously depleted, the Red Cross has asked its local chapters to raise a minimum of $10 million to augment the many millions of dollars necessary to assist victims of these floods and other recent catastrophies. Since Jan. 2, 1971, nearly $12 million has already been spent to assist victims of such disasters as the recent floods in Texas, Kentucky, Washington, West Virginia and Pennsylvania.

As citizens we all want to assist in every way we can to aid those stricken by floods. The best way we can do this as individuals is by a contribution to the American Red Cross. In many communities special campaigns to provide additional funds for the Red Cross will be undertaken. While the need for an on-the-job fund-raising campaign in Federal Agencies is not indicated, it would be helpful if you would encourage your military and civilian employees to participate in such community drives as are underway. Donations may be sent to local chapters of the American Red Cross, or mailed to Headquarters, American National Red Cross (Flood Disaster Relief), 17th and D St. NW, Washington, D. C. 20006.

At this time, to the best of our knowledge, there are no projects underway by any local clubs.

James Kirkland, representative from the Camp Lejeune Chapter of the American Red Cross, located in Bldg. 41, ext. 2173, said "that any donations of $20 or more can and will be earmarked for a specific area." However, to simplify the bookkeeping and associated paper work, a bank money order or cashiers check can be made out to: "Flood Disaster Relief" Fund (Red Cross).

Randolph Mills, Vice-President of the First Citizens Bank, here, will process money orders or cashiers check requests at no cost (charge).

MAKING LIFE BETTER — A growing

WALKING THE PLANK — Harry Lee Norman, a carpenter with the Marine Exchange, carries a piece of lumber to install on the walls of the Exchange Service building located next to the Main Exchange. Plans call for the exchange personnel to move into the new building this week.

 Military construction at Camp Lejeune is big business. During the past year some $15 million was spent in the area of military construction in order to make Camp Lejeune a better place for the training of Marines. Those in charge hope that — with congressional approval — the building budget will increase during the next year.

Many of the future projects, like a number of those recently completed and under construction, are for the comfort and convenience of Marines and their families assigned to this base. Other projects are designed with an eye toward increased efficiency and more complete training capabilities for the 2d Marine Division, Force Troops and Marine Corps Base commands.

The man ultimately responsible for the military construction program in the Camp Lejeune — New River area is Capt. Robert E. Daggett, Civil Engineer Corps, U.S. Navy. His official title is Public Works Officer.

His command relationship, however, is somewhat complex. He has the additional title of Officer in Charge of Construction when administering to projects under the cognizance of Marine Corps Base. But his title changes to Resident Officer in Charge of Construction when handling those projects which fall under the purview of the Naval Facilities Command in Norfolk.

A staff of about 40 carries out the Public Works mission here. Their office is located in the Industrial Area in Bldg. 1005.

Capt. Daggett said the single Marine here will be the benefactor of many of the projects awaiting legislative action. Meanwhile, several large projects have recently been finished and others are nearing completion. The Division Dental Clinic on River Road and the Division Maintenance complex in the Industrial Area have been turned over to their respective organizations and should be open for business in the near future.

The new Base Post Office or scheduled to be completed in early 1965. Moneywise, the $491,000 Post Office is overshadowed by the newly completed treatment plant located near the Main Exchange. Officially turned over to the Base for furnishing the much needed additional space.

The confinees at the Correctional Institute from a newly constructed building behind the complex, will house woodworking and furniture refinishing. Officials say that plans call for refinishing and repairing furniture areas on base.

Another new building, completing finishing touches to the interior, is a service building, located next to the Post Office. It is estimated that these offices will be ready for occupancy in the near future.

Closest to home among military buildings is the Hostess House, going up in the Exchange area and bank. Contain will especially benefit those people at Camp Lejeune and in need of temporary quarters. The new building should be completed in the near future.

With so much money at stake in Camp Lejeune, infinite care must be taken in the dollar and insuring that the tax money is well spent. Capt. Daggett explained that the scale is done by civilian contractors. If they bid too low, they lose the job, yet if they bid too high, they lose the money.

Locally, when a decision is made on a barracks, his office announces it. They then publish information on the time and place that the bids will be opened. "When we open the bids, we'll

READY FOR OCCUPANCY — The new Marine Exchange service building located next to the Main Exchange will be ready for use this week. Built by the Dixie General Construction Company of Wallace, N.C., the building was officially accepted by Base officials this month.

DOUBLE CHECK — Conway J. Powell (L), Director of the Department, and Jim Gavin, architect, carefully check the blueprints slated for Camp Lejeune.

WATER WORKS — The new Water Treatment Plant, well and distribution system here was recently accepted by the base and is now in full operation. The plant, located near the Main Gate off Holcomb Blvd., was built at a cost of $1.8 million.

done in a certain way according to law," he said. At least three government representatives are present in the conference room of the Public Works Department when the sealed envelopes are opened.

"When a company submits a bid, it must also have a bond to cover the entire construction cost of that bid and must also furnish a 20 percent bid bond that would cover our expenses if they decide to withdraw. The general public is invited to attend these affairs and can watch as each bid is opened, examined and recorded to insure that it meets the military construction regulations."

He went on to say that the last envelope to be opened is one prepared by their office to show what the government feels the cost should be. "We then wait up to 10 days," he continued, "and carefully check each bid. Only then do we let the company know who will build that barracks."

He said that their contract specialists go over each bid with a fine tooth comb to insure that Uncle Sam is getting his money's worth.

He mentioned that there is one exception to the bidding system and it works, in effect, in reverse. "When we ask for bids on timber harvesting on Base, the company who gives us the largest bid and who will comply with regulations concerning ecological preservation will get the job. In fact, the money that we get in this case, goes directly to the Treasury of the United States and is not spent, in any way, by the military or the Department of Defense."

Capt. Daggett sees a bright future for the building trades in the Camp Lejeune area and said that every effort is being made to get much needed structures and repairs done as soon as appropriations and contracts are made available.

Whatever the case, at the grass roots level where it counts, the young Marine eating in a new dining facility, can look forward to more and better facilities because someone is looking out for his best interest — better training, living and recreational areas at this "World's Most Complete Amphibious Training Base."

THREE FOR ONE — A triple image of a bull dozer cuts into the topsoil of the area where the new 90 unit Hostess House will be built. The new facility, designed for transients coming to and leaving Camp Lejeune, will be completed in late spring at a cost of $967,000. The triple image was created by a special device attached to the photographer's camera.

DENTAL BUILDING — The 2d Dental Company, 2d Marine Division, has been presented the new Dental Building located on River Road. Patients will soon be treated in early September in the new facility as soon as furniture and supplies are moved in and installed.

FIRST STEP — An empty field is all one sees of the new Hostess House which will be built next to the bank on Holcomb Blvd. Members of Danlee Construction Company, Jacksonville, Fla., have moved on the property with a trailer-office and have begun constructing work sheds while earth grading equipment strips the top soil for work preparation.

FINISHING TOUCHES — Workmen put the finishing touches on the interior of the new Post Office building on the Main Service Road here.

BIG BOSS — Captain Robert E. Daggett, (CEC, USN) is the officer in charge of all construction in the New River - Camp Lejeune Area. Wearing two large hats as both officer in charge and resident officer in charge, he is responsible for the handling of bids and construction money that originate both locally and from higher offices in Norfolk and Washington, D.C.

In addition to the scholarships the college offers a special Academic Enrichment Program to assist students needing special help with study habits and problem subjects. Students in this program take a full time academic load and are taught by a group of selected faculty who provide individual instruction. The faculty is also organized to provide tutorial assistance for veterans who request additional help.

An off campus employment program worked out by the college will aid veterans financially. FOR LATERAL MOVEMENT
MOS imbalances released

WASHINGTON — The list of grade and occupational field imbalances which will govern the lateral movement program through September has been released.

The program is intended to balance the number of career Marines in occupational fields and better chances for promotion. Those serving in overpopulated fields generally must switch when it becomes time to reenlist. Individuals are encouraged to change from "over" fields at anytime.

Headquarters issues the list quarterly showing the status of all occupational fields. It also lists deficient MOSs from which there can be no lateral movement regardless of the condition of the occupational field.

The following, by grade are the deficient MOSs:

MGySgt: 0294, 0491, 0493, 2192, 3495, 4093, 5994, 5997, 6292 and 6759.

Reservists pray for POWs

Reservists of the 2d Bn., 25th Marines took time from their liberty hours after a day of field training here to attend a prayer service for the return of prisoners-of-war and missing-in-action from Vietnam.

The service was led by LtCmdr. Donald Beers, Bn. Chaplain. During the service he reinded the Marines that, "prayer is a two-way street. You don't have to stop helping the families of American POWs. You can pray for their release and plan rehabilitation for them."

The reservists of 2d Bn., 25th Marines have units from Garden City, New Rochelle and Albany, N.Y., Dover, N.J. and Folsom, Pa.

Guadalcanal remembered

Only a handful are still on the active rolls of the Corps who remember wading onto the shoreline of a small island in the Solomons 30 years ago this week.

To the American high command, Guadalcanal was an objective which would ensure open lines of communication to Australia and New Zealand. It had been a British protectorate until the summer of '42 when the Japanese had seized it with the intention of building airfields from which they could strike at Australia and allied shipping.

To the wet-to-the-knees, rear-rank, rifle-toting Marine who landed that tepid August morning with his cartridge belt stuffed full of well-oiled rounds for his Springfield and a freshly-honed glittering edge on his bayonet, Guadalcanal was an unheard of place: one full of mystery, adventure and the lurking shadow of death waiting to claim the unwary and unfortunate from among friend and foe.

But when the riflemen of the 1st Marine Division, led by MajGen. Alexander A. Vandegrift, left their Navy landing craft Aug. 7, 1942, to wade the last few yards to Guadalcanal, they had come to stay.

Not even the unyielding combination of the body-rotting, disease-infested jungle and no-quarter tactics of the heroically fanatical Japanese could shove the spearhead of America's first counter-offensive of World War II into the placid waters of the South Pacific.

When those grim-faced Leathernecks hit the shore, many knew some of their buddies would not leave the island . . . ever. Others, suspected, were earmarked for glory. The Corps' unofficial "Hall of Fame" was to inscribe names like Puller, Baslione, Diamond, Cates, Arnold and scores of others on its hallowed scrolls.

(Reprinted with permission from the Jacksonville Daily News.)

As long as the United States Marine Corps continues to procure "a few good men" like Sgt. Major G.H. "Hashmark" Johnson, the security of the United States is in good hands.

Sgt. Johnson earned his name "Hashmark" through service in the Marine Corps, and after his retirement he added many more "hashmarks" through service to the civilian community of Jacksonville and Onslow County.

He was a prime mover in the organization of the Montford Point Marine Association and his remarks on the Montford Point Marines were a highlight of the annual meetings here.

Sgt. Johnson died here Saturday night, in the middle of his address at the annual meeting at the Western Steak House.

He died the way he lived, erect and with dignity. He paused in the middle of his address and apologized to his audience.

"Ladies and Gentlemen, you will have to excuse me, I can't go on . . ."

He stood erect long enough for the packed banquet hall to give him a standing ovation.

His final remarks on the purpose and motivation of the Montford Point Association were never uttered, but they signify the quality and the biding human traits of Sgt. Johnson.

Here they are:

"The purpose of the Montford Point Association is to render and coordinate efforts with other civic organizations in an effort to maintain stability in place of instability and doing our share in helping to remove some of the causes for frustration and disorders which have besieged our society and community, drawing the alienation from one side and the alienated from the other. And believe me ladies and gentlemen this we must do for the salvation of the segment of our youth which has so distorted the values of the American heritage.

"The lessons which we learned on the drill field at Montford Point and in the steaming jungles of the central Pacific have proved our ideals and concepts. Let it be forever your pledge and mine fellow Montford Pointers to bear them high . . ."

"...Like a beacon, till our strong years, be sped and sinews weaken; till others in our stead take from our loosening hand, the torch full streaming which we passed on Infinite Command."

A good Marine and a good citizen, "Hashmark" Johnson has passed the torch.

(Editor's note) — Sgt. Maj. Gilbert H. (Hashmark)

Johnson, one of the first five black men to serve in the Marine Corps, had a military career that spanned 30 years and three services.

His career began in 1923 when he entered the Army (25th U.S. Infantry). He remained in the Army until 1929. In 1933, he joined the Navy and in 1942 he made the shift from the Navy to the Marine Corps.

One of the original Montford Point Marines, "Hashmark Johnson" became Sergeant Major of the Recruit Depot Bn., at Montford Point.

Transferring to the Fleet Marine Corps Reserve in 1957 and retiring in 1959, did not end "Hashmark's" service to his country. From 1953 through 1959 he worked with the U.S. Dept. of Justice, Penal Div. From 1959 until his death, he worked here with the U.S. Civil Service, Supply Dept.

Gilbert H. Johnson was born Oct. 30, 1905 in the town of Mt. Hebron, Ala. and died Saturday.

RAY RUSSELL

REGGIE JONES

CAPTURE OLYMPIC BERTHS

Jones, Russell win

Camp Lejeune has two boxers representing the United States in the 1972 Olympic Games to be held in Munich, Germany next month.

Reggie Jones, champion in the 156 lb. class, and Ray Russell, who stole an Olympic berth in the 178 lb. class, have earned the right to compete in the matches. Jones was already a member of the primary team after having defeated Larry Davis of the Air Force in the preliminary bouts held at Fort Worth, Tex., July 22. This gave him the chance to travel to Bear Mountain, New York, where he again met and defeated Davis and gained a permanent spot on the Olympic team.

Russell, on the other hand, lost his match at the Fort Worth trials and was placed on the alternate team. This meant that in order to fight on the primary team, he had to defeat his weight champion, Louis Slaughter of the Army in two fights, while Slaughter had only to win one more.

It was a hard fight Saturday, with Pan-Am Gold Medalist Russell coming out on top in the match. Following the fight, Slaughter withdrew from the Olympic bouts and the slot went to Russell.

The boxers will now continue training until the time comes for them to travel to the Olympics. It is there that the important bouts will be fought and, hopefully, two Marines will return from the competition with Gold Medals.

New look for Special Services

LCpl. Howard R. Woolley when someone mentions Special Services, most people automatically think of the big sports, softball, football, basketball — and even then in terms of participating rather than spectating.

Special Services sponsors many clubs, organizations, sports, intramural activities, shops, etc., that are available to military personnel and their dependents. Unfortunately, many of these activities are not taken advantage of because personnel do not know they exist. The big events, such as the "Four Tops Concert" only overshadows clubs and organizations which function on a regular basis.

Division Special Services, in an effort to better publicize their activities has created a new format. A Public Affairs person has been assigned to help "put the word out." Not only does Division Special Services prepare more complete reports, but a slide presentation and tours on their facilities is in the organizational stage. This composite of Special Services will enable new personnel and those who have been here for some time to understand the many ways they can enjoy themselves in their off-duty hours at a minimal cost.

Anyone who has slides or pictures that would enhance this presentation is asked to call Division Special Services at ext. 3533 or 3636.

More sports coverage on the "Camp Lejeune Report" has started and additional action stories for the "Globe" are planned.

Articles on a regular basis are planned to inform personnel of the many programs that Special Services plays a part in. The initial article is expected to be on the Division Boxing Center which has just started their fall program. The weekly boxing smokers will begin Aug. 16 at 8 p.m. The public is invited to attend.

Jumpers set for festival

The John A. Lejeune Sport Parachute Club held its first annual meeting to elect officers for the coming year and set other club activities.

A unanimous show of hands elected MajGen. Fred Haynes, CG, 2d Marine Division, as the honorary club president. Following that, the following officers were elected: Dick Mason, president; Larry Hawk, vice-president; Dolly Mason, secretary; Debbie Simmons, assistant secretary; Bob Crocker, equipment custodian; Roy Minor, training officer; Ken Edgell, operations officer; and Tom Bland and Bill Schridler, public relations officers.

Other business resolved at the meeting was the approval of the use of a multi-jump ticket to pay for jumps and tentative plans for forming a constitutional committee.

The next meeting of the club will be held at the John A. Lejeune Flying Club classroom at 7 p.m. Sept. 1. All interested personnel are invited to attend.

Also coming up for the parachute club is an appearance at the Sneads Ferry Shrimp Festival Saturday. A five-man team of parachutists will make a demonstration jump at Swan Point at noon.

Those participating in the jump will be: Dick Mason; Larry Hawk; Ken Edgell; Roy Minor; and Paul Clifton. They will jump from an altitude of 5,400 feet and free fall for 20 seconds before opening their chutes. They will be attempting to land on a small island about 75 feet by 50 feet. The public is invited to attend.

Squash season starts soon

The Camp Lejeune Squash Club is readying itself for a new season and is interested in attracting new members.

All active and prospective members are encouraged to contact Lt. Eugene Gilin (USN), secretary - treasurer of the club at ext. 3302 in order to complete the 1972-73 roster.

Dues are $1.50 per month and since the addition of air-conditioning, the court is now available for year-round play.

From Tee to Green

Results from the Ladies Golf Association show Dottie Givens as the "A" Flight winner and Edna Maxwell edging Sybil Patterson for "B" Flight honors. Bea Tutor won over Joanne Sulik in "C" Flight and Susan Hill took first place in "D" Flight. The July "Ace of the Month" award goes to Sue Mancari.

On Tuesday, the WGA will hold an Ace of Aces Tournament. All monthly winners since last April will be competing for the top prize. An election of officers for the next year was held and the following new officials will head the WGA: president, Shirley Ward; vice-president, Juanita David; tournament chairman, Pat Day; secretary, Sue Mancari; treasurer, Peg Davies; and publicity, Mary Cornwall.

The All-Camp Golf Tournament started yesterday and final results will be reported next week. According to reports from the MCB team, they should be favored to win, but there is still at least one other team that should give them a battle for first place. First round pairings for the NCO Golf Association's two-man team match play event are posted on the bulletin board at the golf course. All participating players are urged to play their matches as quickly as possible. First round matches should be played by Aug. 19.

Request of the Week: The golf professional has asked that players using riding carts pay more attention to the trash receptacles on each tee. Most people using the carts assume that the rear of the carts are to be used as trash cans. The paper and cans that are left in the carts somehow find their way everywhere on the course except in the cans that are on every tee. Let's keep our course clear of all trash and cans.

Hospital stops H&S Bn., 12-0

In a penalty filled game Thursday afternoon, Naval Hospital overcame a determined second half attack by H&S Bn. to defeat them 12-0 in Base intramural flag football action.

Naval Hospital took the opening kick-off, but after two completed passes were unable to move the ball and were forced to punt.

On the first play from scrimmage for H&S Bn., Harold Critchfield of the Hospital intercepted a Steve Bailey pass to put the Naval Hospital in excellent scoring position.

About half-way through the first half of play, Dee Reed took a Critchfield pass and scored the touchdown. The extra point attempt was no good and the score stood 6-0.

With H&S Bn. back in control of the ball, a series of penalties forced a turnover. Naval Hospital couldn't move it either and the ball went back to H&S Bn.

With less than two minutes left to play in the game, Terry Hoffman intercepted another Bailey pass for Naval Hospital and the clock ran out before any more scoring took place.

In the second half of the game, H&S Bn. took the kick-off and a new quarterback, Marshall Morton led the attack. After moving the ball well for several downs, with pass completions to Charles Fisher and Joseph Cooke, the drive bogged down. H&S Bn. was forced to give up the ball after failing to make a fourth down play.

Neither Naval Hospital nor H&S Bn. could move the ball in the next series, H&S Bn. punted to Naval Hospital after recovering their own fumble.

In the last series, Naval Hospital began moving the ball well, and with less than a minute left to play, a Critchfield pass scored the second and final touchdown of the game. The final score was Naval Hospital, 12, H&S Bn., 0.

SPORTS' BARBS

By LCpl. Barb Majewski

It's happening again! The life of a harried sports editor is starting to get to me.

I've been running around in a daze lately trying to keep straight all the events that are going on. This week is the East Coast Slow Pitch Softball, All-Camp Golf and All-Marine Fast Pitch Softball Tournament (which fortunately for me is in Camp Pendleton) and next week is the All-Marine Slow Pitch Softball Tournament.

Then, of course, the Base flag football season is underway. And the softball season is coming up — and I can't forget the horseshoe tournaments that will begin soon.

One of my most trying problems at the moment is the fact that when I go out on a job, I'm having an increasingly hard time trying to remember what I'm going to be watching.

I've got it down to a system now — when the men are hitting a ball with a stick, it's softball; when they run stealing ribbons from each other, it's flag football; and when they hit a ball with a stick but the ball is on the ground, then it's golf.

But no matter what else happens to be going on, the big thing right now at Camp Lejeune is Slow Pitch Softball. I hope a lot more people will go out to watch the games now that the stakes are getting a little higher, because the games are really fun to watch.

Next week at the All-Marine Tourney, the games will be a 1:30 and 6 p.m. Monday, 6 and 8 p.m. Tuesday, 6 p.m. Wednesday and 6 p.m. Thursday. Thursday's game will be followed by the contest between the California Cuties and the Camp Lejeune All-Stars.

I hope to see a lot of you sports fans out there — and even if you're not a sports fan, you can still come out to root for the Lejeune teams.

1/8 crushes Slow Pitch foes

In Division Slow Pitch Softball Action last week, 1-8 trounced 10th Marines by a 12-2 score Friday morning for the Division title in prelude to the East Coast Regionals being held this week.

In semi-final action Thursday, 10th Marines squeaked by Hq. Bn. 5-4 for a spot in the finals while 1-8 walloped 2d Shore Party Bn. 30-4 in their game.

In the first game, 10th Marines withstood a last inning rally by Hq. Bn. to remain in contention. They scored four of their five runs in the third inning on five hits.

John Gray, 10th Marines pitcher, lined a single to right and Walter Shupe, shortstop, added another single to center. Sandwicked between those hits were back-to-back home runs by Larry Jones, center fielder, and Jerry Singleton, third baseman.

It wasn't until the seventh inning that Hq. Bn. came alive and exploded for four runs to tie the game. Two singles to center, by Paul Tullier, first baseman, and Dave Beckley, third baseman, started off the inning. Walter Richardson, followed with a double and an error allowed the runs to score. Two more errors and a single by catcher, Tony Valentinoe added the final run.

Not to be outdone, 10th Marines scored the winning run in their half of the seventh, on singles by Joe Snyder, left fielder, and Larry Jones and one error on Hq. Bn.

That win enabled 10th Marines to advance to the championship game which was played last Friday.

In the second game of the day, 1-8 faced 2d Shore Party Bn. for a berth in the finals.

It was 1-8's game from the first inning, when they exploded for five runs and an early lead. There were four doubles involved in the scoring by Mark Kennedy, right fielder, John Smythe, shortstop, Buddy Tillet, short fielder, and Steve Moscinski, third baseman.

In the second inning, 1-8 added two more runs to their total on singles by Mike Boozer, pitcher and Smythe and an error.

The third inning showed more of the same as hits and errors abounded and 1-8 tallied nine more runs. Oliver Thompson, center fielder, and Smythe lined triples into the outfield, while Kennedy contributed to the cause with a single. Seven errors by Shore Party were also helpful to the 1-8 inning.

In the top of the fourth inning, 2d Shore Party Bn. scored one of their two runs on an error and a single by Moore, the pitcher.

The fourth inning for 1-8 was more of what they had been doing before. Singles by Smythe and Moscinski, a double by Tillet and a triple by Ted Cason, catcher, were responsible for seven more 1-8 runs.

Bill Barker, center fielder, hit a home run in the fifth inning to highlight a four run inning for 1-8. A double by Kennedy, triple by Dave Wetzel, first baseman, and single by Smythe also figured in the scoring.

The final scoring for 1-8 came in the sixth inning on singles by Kennedy and Smythe and a double by Wetzel.

Shore Party scored their final three runs in the seventh inning on singles by Moore, John Westrich, short fielder, and Jim Meyer, right fielder and an error.

The championship game of the series matched 1-8 and 10th Marines, with 1-8 overrunning the 10th Marines team by a 12-2 margin.

The game started out with 10th Marines drawing first blood in the first inning on singles by Joe Snyder, short fielder, Bill Fritch, first baseman, and Walter Shupe, shortstop.

In the second inning, 1-8 came alive and scored four runs to begin their rout. Singles by Tillet, Oliver Thompson, right fielder, and Boozer, plus an error figured in the scoring.

Tenth Marines came back with another run in the third inning on a double by Larry Jones, center fielder and two sacrifices.

It wasn't enough however as 1-8 came back with another run in the third on singles by Barker and Tillet.

The fifth inning really was the game open though, as 1-8 exploded for six more runs on singles by Wetzel, Smythe, Tillet and John Herndon, center fielder, and four errors.

The final run of the game came in the sixth inning on a single by Smythe and an error.

Division then selected an All-Star team to compete in the East Coast Regionals now going

Thursday, August 10, 1972
