HANDSHAKE FOR 10,000 SAFE HOURS—Col. Paul T. Johnston, CO, MAG-26 at New River, reaches up to shake the hand of Lt. Col. Richard L. Nickerson, commanding officer of HMR(L)-262 as the latter completed the squadron's 10,000th accident-free flying hour. Marine 'Copter Unit Sets Record; Waits For Glenn Astronaut John Glenn's chances for a fast pick-up were enhanced Friday morning when the Marine helicopter squadron scheduled for the operation set a 10,000-hour flying safety record. HMR(L)-262, based at the Marine Corps Air Facility, picked up Alan Shepard and Gus Grissom after their space flights. The squadron has been picked by NASA officials to pick up Glenn after his orbital flight.

Liberian Head Of State Sees U. S. Marines

WITH THE LANDING FORCE, SOLANT AMITY III, HARPER, LIBERIA — The U. S. Marine Landing Force of the current "Operation South Atlantic Amity" to Africa landed at Harper, Liberia, and marched to town to pass in review before William V. S. Tubman, President of the Republic of Liberia.

From the Presidential Mansion roof terrace, President Tubman returned the "eyes right" with an approving nod. He was flanked by Lt. Col. James D. Boldman, commanding officer of the Landing Force, and Rear Adm. Allan L. Reed, commander, South Atlantic Force.

It was Nov. 29, 1961—the 66th birthday of President Tubman, and the first time it was officially celebrated in Harper, his hometown and birthplace.

The visiting Marines—400 strong—were formed in early September to join the goodwill cruise. There are units from the 2d Marine Aircraft Wing and the 2d Marine Division, and Force Troops, Fleet Marine Force, Atlantic.

On the eve of his birthday, President Tubman was honored on board the flagship USS Donner. On his arrival, a special U. S. Navy-Marine honor guard stood at "Present Arms" on the flight deck while a 21-gun salute was fired by the ship.

While in Harper, the Marines also conducted a display of weapons and equipment for the local citizens.

Lejeune Landscape Changes; Units Vie For Gen's Trophy

Camp Lejeune will undergo a drastic change in face over the weekend and a trophy will be the motivating force. Each year units throughout the Base compete among themselves for possession of the Commanding General's Christmas Decoration Trophy awarded for the best Yuletide display. Last year the trophy was won by the 8th Marines for its entry of a medieval cathedral complete with stained glass windows. Runners-up in last year's competition were entries from 8th Communications Battalion, Force Troops, which displayed an 18th century scene of Tun Tavern and Automatic Supply Distribution Battalion, 2d Force Service Regiment, with a Nativity scene.

Corpsman Awarded Letter For Air Show Rescue Work

What unknown force compels a man to risk his own life to save another? When the crisis comes—each man must make his own decision. Pedro Colon, Hospitalman Second Class, USN, made his decision on a fateful afternoon last September as thousands watched an air show sponsored by the Civil Air Patrol at New Hanover County Airport, Wilmington, N. C.

Disaster marred an otherwise routine day for the 21-year old corpsman when at 3:03 p. m., on September 24, a C123 Transport Plane from Nellis Air Force Base, Las Vegas, Nev., crashed on take-off. The plane, part of the Army-Air Force flying show, carried six members of the U. S. Army Sky Diving Team, six newsmen and a crew of three.

Plane Crashed

Climbing slowly on take-off the transport reached an altitude of about 500-feet before it faltered and plunged to the ground. The fuselage broke behind the wings and fire broke out immediately in the wreckage.

Pedro, was the only medical man at the scene. The corpsman immediately took charge of the rescue operation. Without hesitation he twice entered the flame-filled plane, each time emerging with an injured victim. He personally applied first-aid to seven crash victims and aided in their evacuation.

Helicopters from New River Air Facility, Marine Air Group 26, there for the air show evacuated the injured to a Wilmington Hospital. Colon left with the second "chopper," where he continued to attend the victims.

Three Died

Three men died the day of the tragic crash and two more have died since. Airport and hospital officials say: "Without Colon's quick thinking and heroic action many more passengers on the plane would have lost their lives."

Questioned about his deeds, Colon said, "I did what I was taught. I am terribly sorry that five men had to die." He continued: "The other men of the rescue team, the helicopter pilots, the fire crew, men of the Air Force, all did an outstanding job. The Military Police that I worked with also did outstanding work, especially by holding the over-curious crowd back so the rescuers could do their job without interference."

Commended

For his courageous action, Colon has received a letter of appreciation from the New Hanover County Sheriff and the knowledge that he did the job as well as it could be done.

"Chico" as he is known to his friends, now attends Wilmington College at night.

Parents

Parents can have their children's photograph taken with Santa Claus, in color, at Toyland during regular hours.

Berndt Cited For Message Center Duties

SSgt. Robert F. Berndt, Regimental Message Center Chief, 2d Marines, was officially awarded a Meritorious Mast by his commanding officer, Col. A. L. Booth, November 30.

Berndt, now under orders to the Marine Barracks, Adak, Alaska, was commended for his "outstanding performance of duty during the period June 20 to November 27, 1961."

The mast went on to praise sergeant Berndt's efforts for writing a complete and detailed Standard Operating Procedure for the regimental message center, and devising a "more efficient and economical method of routing message traffic."

He received his mast at the conclusion of his tour of duty with the 2d Marines, immediately prior to departing for his new duty station.

A native New Yorker, Sergeant Berndt has served in the Marine Corps since Feb., 1953.

According to Maj. G. M. McAlee, chairman of the judging committee, 10 entries have been filed so far in this year's competition. Second Pioneer Bn. and the 2d Bn., 8th Marines, filed a joint entry; others entered are: 8th Comm. Bn., Force Troops, 2d Motor Transport Bn., 8th Engineers Bn., 10th Marines, 2d Recon Bn., Base Brig, Base Materiel Bn., 3rd Bn., 8th Marines, and the 2d Amphibian Tractor Bn., Force Troops.

Units desiring to enter the contest are requested to notify Major McAlee by phoning 7-5798. Name of the sponsoring activity for the display and the scene's location must be filed with each entry.

All military units and official Camp Lejeune activities may enter the contest. The only restrictions placed on the contestants are the use of government materials and the amount of money to be spent on construction.

Government materials may be used in the building of scenes only in the tableaux and only then if the materials are not altered in any way. As for the cost of construction, no more than $50 of the unit's recreation fund is allowed.

Final judging of all entries will take place Dec. 18. Those assisting Major McAlee in the judging will be: Sgt. Maj. W. O. Parrish, Marine Corps Base; Maj. C. H. Upfar Jr., and Sgt. Maj. Darte, 2d Marine Division; Capt. R. W. Bolves and GySgt. F. Lawson, Force Troops.

Pictures of the winning entries will appear in the Dec. 21 issue of the GLOBE.

Base H&S Bn. Xmas Party To Be Dec. 15

Headquarters and Service Battalion, Marine Corps Base, will hold its annual Christmas party Dec. 15 at Marston Pavilion. All enlisted personnel in the battalion and their wives or adult guests are invited to attend. It is requested that guests be held to one per person.

Base Motor Transport Company will furnish transportation throughout the evening from the rear of Building 53 to Marston Pavilion beginning at 5:45.

A buffet dinner will be served from 7 to 9 p. m. Entertainment for the evening will consist of a dance band and a talent show featuring personnel from the battalion. Those interested in entering the talent show are requested to contact the battalion special services at 7-3165 prior to 12 noon Dec. 12.

HM3 JOE DeJOSEPH

Local Corpsman Plays Camp 'Ben Casey' Role

By GYSGT. TOM DONALDSON
Base ISO

If you're expecting a surprise package for Christmas from the stork and not Santa Claus, chances are you will have the opportunity to meet HM3 Joe DeJoseph, Corpsman, U. S. Navy. Joe has been working at the Family Hospital, or what some corpsmen refer to as the "baby factory," at Camp Lejeune for three years and has assisted in the delivery of over two thousand babies during that time.

Since his graduation from boot camp at Great Lakes in 1958, Joe has worked in the medical field. As he puts it, "It's a great feeling doing something for people who are in need." He graduated from the Hospital Corpsman School in April of 1959.

Normal working hours for the "Future Ben Casey" begin at 8 a.m. and continue until 4:30 p.m., but Joe can remember working 36 hours straight at the hospital when business was really good. Seven to 10 babies are born each day, averaging about 220 stork deliveries a month.

Joe has seen every type of delivery including twins and triplets. He has personally delivered six babies in ambulances, cars, etc. He recalls one incident when he was called to deliver a baby in an emergency in the back seat of a car with three children peering over the seat looking at him constantly during the entire procedure. This, he states, was harder on him than the new parents.

Recently, Joe was assigned as the Senior corpsman at the hospital and in addition to assisting in the delivery room and tending to the non-personal needs of the patients.

After a long day of duty at the hospital, he still finds time to talk to nervous fathers in the waiting room lobby after off-duty hours. Many times he visits the baby nursery and feeds some of the newborn to give the new mother a rest. From all reports, he's also very proficient in the art of changing diapers.

The 21-year-old corpsman has nothing but respect for the doctors and nurses with whom he works at the hospital. All have given him help and advice in planning his Naval career and his future civilian medical field.

Joe's enlistment will expire in September of 1962. He plans to enter Utica College to begin his "eight-year stretch," as he puts it, of pre-med training. His ultimate goal is to become an obstetrician.

The idea to enter medical college was not a sudden decision. He has been saving $100 a month to help him through at least the first two years of pre-med and has been doing a lot of baby-sitting whenever off-duty time permits to gain additional financial aid.

Long hours and hard work are always the order of the day at the Family Hospital, but, as Joe says, "It makes me feel great just to be there and do something for people who really appreciate it."

Allied Officers See Marine 'Shipping Over' Ceremony

Cpl. Robert F. Quinn, a member of "E" Battery, 2d Battalion, 10th Marines, received the oath of enlistment from his regimental commander, Col. W. H. Hitt, during a battalion artillery field firing exercise. Quinn's reenlistment was unique. It was witnessed by Allied officers from 15 countries.

The officers from the Junior Officers School and Command Officers School at Quantico, Va., on a three-day visit, went to

Relief Act Is Helpful When Filing Forms

You can't avoid it. Paying taxes is something everyone does. If you earn money you pay income tax on it. The only question is, to whom.

Federal income tax is universal throughout the United States and its territories, and some of the states levy income taxes.

Servicemen stationed in states or territories having their own income taxes sometimes wonder whether or not they pay taxes to their home states or the state in which they earned their incomes. If their home states do not impose income taxes, they are confused about whether they have to pay taxes at all.

The Soldiers' and Sailors' Civil Relief Act, a federal law, exempts military pay from all state income taxes, except those imposed by the state of your domicile (home state).

This only applies to income taxes based on military pay. The act does not exempt non-military income, earned within a state where you may be serving.

States can and do, for example, require you to pay income taxes on salaries from civilian employment therein rents from property located in the state and profits from the sale of such property, even though you hail from another state.

Ordinarily, you file two state income tax forms, one, a "resident" income tax return to your home state on all of your income, and the other, a "non-resident" return to the state where you are stationed on all non-military income earned in that state.

This could amount to paying taxes on your non-military income to both your home state and the state where you are serving. However, tax credits may reduce your overall tax burden if this is the case.

No exemptions are authorized under the act for civilian members of your household from taxes in the state of temporary residence.

Under the act any tax on income (federal, state or local) may be deferred up to six months after separation from active service. This deferment does not involve interest charge or penalties if your ability to pay is materially impaired by reason of military service.

HI, POP, WHAT ABOUT ME?—Seems to be what little Ronald Stabb Jr. is saying to his dad, but at the moment "Pop" seems to be a little more interested in "Mom." Cpl. Ronald Stabb, of Bulk Fuel Company, 2d Force Service Regiment, gets a long awaited kiss from his wife, Janice, after returning from a three-month cruise to Vieques, Puerto Rico, with the 1st Battalion, 2d Marines, Dec. 7.

Onslow Landing Climaxes Cruise For 2d Marines Unit

Climaxing a three-month training maneuver at Vieques, Puerto Rico, the 1st Battalion, 2d Marines, reinforced by Marine Expeditionary Unit 17 (MEU-14) from Cherry Point, stormed across Onslow Beach Dec. 7 in their final amphibious assault before returning home. The battalion, under the command

Tribute Paid To Corpsmen For Sacrifice

Two members of the 2d Medical Bn., 2d Marine Division, Hospitalmen David L. Boccia and Curlen Andrews, received a Meritorious Mast from their battalion commander, Cmdr. Roland W. Jones.

The mast was for "outstanding participation" in the recent emergency rescue mission for the disaster victims of Hurricane Carla at Freeport, Texas.

The mast also noted that during their stay in the Freeport area, "The men placed themselves in a position of personal sacrifice above and beyond what is normally expected of them in their regular duties."

As part of the Medical Field Team, Boccia and Andrews worked fourteen straight hours and during this time helped to inoculate more than 10,000 civilians and treat 700 others who had been injured, in addition to making medical facilities available for a population of 30,000.

After a relief team had arrived to relieve them, they volunteered to remain and help in whatever way they could.

of Lt. Col. John B. Bristow, departed Camp Lejeune via ships of Amphibious Group-8 Sept. 25, for routine training maneuvers on Vieques. During their stay in the Caribbean the Marines sharpened their skills at wet net landings and various field type problems on the island itself.

MEU-14, composed of helicopters and jets from the 2d Marine Aircraft wing of Cherry Point, furnished close air support for the infantry units during their training.

The Marines visited the ports of St. Thomas in the Virgin Islands and the capital city of Puerto Rico, San Juan, for liberty.

The unit was relieved by the 2d Battalion, 2d Marines, under the command of Lt. Col. John Venn with troops aboard ships of Amphibious Group-12.

Read And Live

To reduce injuries and deaths on the highways, the Marine Corps Exchange Service Station offers the following extra services through Dec. 29.

1. Installation, at no charge, of seat belt purchased at Exchange Service Station.
2. Free Check of vehicles to determine if deadly carbon monoxide fumes are present inside the vehicle.

FRIENDLY REENLISTMENT—Cpl. Robert F. Quinn, "E" Battery, 2d Battalion, 10th Marines, received the oath of enlistment from his regimental commander, Col. W. H. Hitt, while officers of 11 Allied nations, who were observing the firing batteries in action, looked on.

Attention Fuel Users

Units requiring fuel deliveries for other than housing areas are urged to observe the following:

1. Have more than one 55-gallon drum.
2. Make sure drums and tanks have plugs.
3. Measure your fuel frequently.
4. Order only when requirement is more than 55 gallons.
5. Do not wait until tank is empty to order.
6. Order correct type of fuel.
7. Place orders at least one day prior to requirement.
8. Call 7-5186 for fuel deliveries.

Marines In Mediterranean Pay Visit To Genoa, Italy

By CPL. DON H. GEE

2d Marine Division ISO Staff Correspondent

WITH BATTALION LANDING TEAM 3/2, IN THE MEDITERRANEAN SEA, Dec. 1—The 3d Battalion (Reinforced), 2d Marine Division, has added Genoa, Italy, to its growing list of "Ports of Call." The battalion, under the command of Lt. Col. Stanley Davis, completed a week-long "good-will" visit to the ancient city today. The Marines found the country's chief port to be quite interesting. It is both modern and medieval, and abounds with art, music and culture.

The ancient part of Genoa is filled with narrow, winding streets which pass among great renaissance palaces.

In the new part of the city, the streets are wide and well-built, and the modern buildings are spaced wide apart.

Genoa, the Proud

But the old Genoa is naturally more interesting. Genoa, the Proud, as it is called, has mothered many sons who have figured prominently in both Italian and world affairs. Of all these, however, she pays tribute to three above all others: Cristoforo Colombo, discoverer of the New World; Nicolo Paganini, child prodigy violinist and composer; and Giuseppe Mazzini, the idealist whose dream was a free, united Italy.

It is most generally agreed by the members of the BLT that the tours made available in Genoa were the most interesting and fascinating thus far.

There were tours going to Pisa

Div. Mechanic Honored For School Record

PFC Melvin L. Browning, a mechanic in Co. "A", 2d Motor Transport Bn., 2d Marine Division, received a Meritorious Mast from his battalion commander, Maj. W. H. MacCormack, during informal ceremonies held at the battalion headquarters Nov. 28.

Private Browning received the mast for his "enthusiasm and outstanding devotion to duty" by graduating second in a class of 29 students at the Organic Maintenance School at Montford Point with a total score of 91.2 per cent.

The five-week course consists of first and second echelon maintenance which involves motor tune-ups and any maintenance that can be done to vehicles without getting into the interior of the engine.

Browning missed capturing the first spot in his class by a mere one and one-tenth points, as the top man graduated with an average of 92.3 per cent for the course.

Unit COs Get Air Controller Field Training

The company commanders of the 1st Bn., 8th Marines, have been fitting themselves with additional "duty hats" since the battalion started a policy of training them in the duties of forward air controllers.

This involves their practically learning a new language so they can give the pertinent data to the pilots or air group commanders.

"The purpose of training the company commanders in this capacity is not to replace the air officers, but rather, to step in and do their job if the necessity arises, for we only have three of these Air Control Officers in our entire battalion," explained Lt. Col. Emil J. Radics, battalion commanding officer.

Supply Clerk Gets Mast As Administrator

Sgt. Charles E. Sides was officially commended during a Meritorious Mast ceremony held in Headquarters Bn., 2d Marine Division, Nov. 30.

Sergeant Sides, a supply clerk in Headquarters Battalion, Motor Transport Section, received his mast from the battalion commander, Lt. Col. Carl O. J. Grussendorf. Also present for the reading of the mast was Sides' immediate superior officer, 1st Lt. R. F. Fowler.

The sergeant's mast praised him for his "exceptional capabilities as a supply stockman and administrator." It stressed the fact that his section received an outstanding grade during a recent inspection from the Field Supply Analysis Team from Albany, Ga.

Mothers And Others Needed By Cub Pack

Organization of the Cub Scout "Pack 90" is under way in the Paradise Point Area. The Pack will meet at the Paradise Point Scout Hut the last Thursday of each month starting in January 1962.

Applications to join are many and in order to afford a future Scout the opportunity to join the Pack, it is necessary that more mothers participate and volunteer their services as Den Mothers. For information concerning the duties of Den Mothers an information and training program will be conducted at the Stone Street School at 7:30 p.m., Dec. 14, 1961.

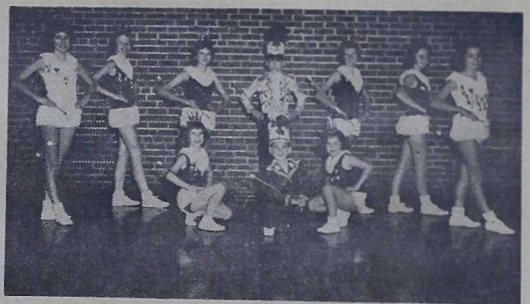

For further information concerning the Pack contact the Cub Master, Lt. Col. W. T. Westmoreland, phone 01403 or 6-6132; or Maj. T. J. Deen, phone 7-5727 or 6-6473.

Needy Family Gets Basket From FRA

The Camp Lejeune Branch 208 of the Fleet Reserve Association held a special Christmas program Thursday at the Montford Point Staff NCO Annex. Members of the Branch donated a Christmas basket which will be delivered to a needy family in the area.

MSgt. Jim McCarvill, USMC (Ret.), President of Branch 208, said that the Fleet Reserve is looking for new members.

Requirements for membership is six years active honorable enlisted service in either the Marine Corps or Navy. Meetings of Branch 208 are held the first Thursday of each month at the Montford Point Staff NCO Annex at 8 p. m.

CHAMPION TWIRLERS—This troupe of baton twirling champions will be on hand at Saturday night's basketball game to provide half-time entertainment. Base Special Services plans to book top-notch acts for half-time entertainment for all home varsity basketball games.

Basketball Game Half-Times To Offer Top Entertainment

Base Special Services is guaranteeing constant entertainment this year at the home varsity basketball games. This Friday night when the buzzer sounds ending the first half of play between Lejeune and cagers from the Marine Corps Supply Center at Albany, Ga., the Tar Heel Cloggers from Jacksonville will promenade out onto the floor in the first of many acts scheduled to appear at halftime throughout the season.

Local Marines Take Honors In UDT School

Two Marines from 2d Force Reconnaissance Company, Force Troops, graduated with honors from the Navy Underwater Swimmers School at Key West, Florida, on December 1, 1961.

SSgt. Charles E. Duncan, team sergeant of Pathfinder Team No. 44, 2d Force Recon Co., finished first, and 1st Lt. James P. McWilliams Jr., officer in charge of the Pathfinder No. 44 team, graduated in the second place honor spot. Also attending the four-week school from the Pathfinder team was Pfc Russell V. Fugier, who placed fifth.

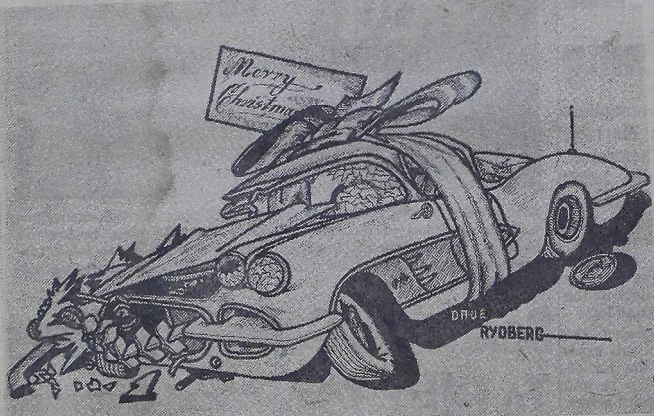

Both Sergeant Duncan and Lieutenant McWilliams are qualified in airborne operations. Sergeant Duncan is a Korean Veteran, having served with the 1st Marine Brigade. He made his 100th jump over Mombasa, Kenya, Africa, and is an honor graduate of the Army Ranger School. Lieutenant McWilliams' background includes, among others, the Army Airborne School, Ft. Benning, Ga.

This marks the second time in a week that 2d Force Recon Co. Marines have taken at least first place and one or more other honor spots at service school graduations.

Christmas Gift For ??? Marines

Holiday Driving Has More Traffic Hazards

We are saying "Merry Christmas" a little early this year in order to get our greetings to those Marines who will be killed in traffic accidents over the holidays.

This is not a warning, just a simple "Merry Christmas" and goodbye. Just how many will die we have no way of knowing. We may be lucky and not have any Marine killed, but there is still the other side of the coin.

Accidents are going to happen and someone is going to get hurt. For those involved, we offer this small consolation—the pain won't last forever. Loss of sight or limbs can cause a lasting inconvenience but we won't dwell on that.

Luckily most Marines are good drivers, even safe, careful and conscientious drivers. To them we say LOOK OUT. You can always get clipped by someone less careful.

Highways will be jammed over the holidays. Bad weather will increase the hazards, particularly in the northern areas where snow is already falling.

If you go on leave over the holidays, try to get back. Riflemen are luxuries we can't afford to throw away.

If you are a passenger, don't be too cowardly to save your life if the driver gets his foot hung in the car-burner. Either get out or slow him down. You'll be dead wrong if you don't and quite possibly just dead.

This is a happy send off, isn't it?

Merry Christmas.

Letters

Dear Editor:

I know the commanding general of Camp Lejeune and also the other regimental commanders know they have good Marines in their outfits, but do they know that these hard-charging Marines turn into the closest thing to an animal or even worse when they go to the movies?

This movie I'm talking about is our biggest indoor theater. We call it the C. T. These Marines go into this theater and when the movie starts they go into a wild panic. Loud and boastful comments are made on the pictures. There is profane language used so loud and so filthy it is downright disgusting. The dependents sit right in the balcony and can easily hear this.

Myself and many others are considered a part of this because we are called Marines right along with these adolescent loud-mouthed hoodlums.

If this was known by our commanders this would surely come to a halt because action would be taken inside of the theater to prevent this. Myself and my friends would be glad to discuss this with anyone.

Chaplain's Corner

The message of the Bible seems to be that pride is the greatest enemy man has. It is almost impossible for a man to grow until he is willing to admit that he is somewhat less than perfect. The man who refuses to admit that he is wrong is not likely to grow in wisdom.

Alexander Pope says, "A man should never be ashamed to own he has been in the wrong, which is but saying in other words that he is wiser today than he was yesterday." That is the secret of mental growth. The man who is never wrong is hard to live with, for he leaves no room for growth.

Even as foolish pride is the greatest enemy to mental growth, it is an even greater enemy to spiritual growth. Such a man refuses to admit any power greater than himself. He feels a need to explain each act he commits in such a way as to make himself look good. He cannot live with the possibility of weakness in his own character. As a result, he harbors guilt within his conscience and tries not to have to face his imperfections.

The expression of real worship is basically concerned with our attitude toward ourselves and God. Jesus told of two men who went to the temple to pray. One, the Pharisee, stood proudly and thanked God for making him so perfect, and not like other weak creatures. The other, the Publican, came into the temple conscious of the perfection of God, but also of his own imperfection. His cry of passion was the prayer which must be prayed in all true worship, "God, be merciful to me, a sinner."

—Joe A. Davis, 2d Bn., 2d Marines.

Unity, Lack Of Fear Assure Freedom

This is the season of peace. This is the time of the year when Christians celebrate the birth of Jesus Christ Who preached peace on earth and good will to all men. While all men have not accepted Christ, all free men recognize the principles of which He preached.

But like a coin, there is another side. A fearful, black side which advocates not peace and good will but slavery of the body and the mind. Americans, after many mistakes are beginning to recognize the danger to themselves and the free world and, in what can only be termed righteous anger, are fighting this danger.

Marines are fighters but of a different kind. We are the front line men who actively carry weapons and put ourselves between our country and its enemies. We know how to fight. Tactics, weapons, logistics are words we understand since we work with them every day.

Too few know the meaning of the word "communism."

Too few understand the structure and function of our own Government and society.

Too many are willing to let someone else do the thinking, leaving the relatively easy job of combat to us.

A man fights better when he understands his enemy. For that reason we study the T/O's and T/E's, manuals, weapons and tactics of anyone we might have to fight. We study his past battles, his reactions in different situations. We study his individual soldier, his equipment and training. We try to understand how he thinks in combat and how he will react under bombardment, air attack and attack with the bayonet.

Then, when we have become familiar with this, we sit back and say, "We've done all we can. We know the enemy. We know how to fight him."

Only half true.

We know how to fight his soldiers but we are only now learning how to fight his ideology.

We are only now beginning to recognize a different brand of front line fighter—the communist grown here, trained to subvert our government and working for the enslavement of our country.

A communist is all things to all men. One expert said, in looking for recognizable signs, that the average communist is one of two sexes, either male or female. They range in age from 10 to 90 and are generally between five and six feet or more tall. Some are homely, some are handsome.

In other words, a communist is a human being who looks like any other human being.

The difference is in the mind. Police gave up trying to catch criminals by looks alone years ago.

Communists have no morals as we recognize morals. We play into their hands when we try to judge them and their intentions by our rules. The communist has only one rule—win. Win regardless of the methods needed. Be a Christian today, if it will help the party. Be a Jew tomorrow, if it will help the party. Be anything, anytime, if it will help the party.

We don't work that way but we have the weapons to defeat communism or any group or political idea which would deprive us of freedom.

Unity is our weapon. Unity and understanding of the aims of the people who would enslave us. Unity, understanding, and a program to teach our people, our children, ourselves, the aims, the methods and reasons for the actions of such people, are potent weapons.

That and the lack of fear.

If you are a Christian, this is a good time for a self appraisal as Christmas grows near. If you are of another religion, but a free man, join with your fellow men in this fight for freedom. Join with all free men in prayer to your God in this time of danger and dedicate yourself to the preservation of freedom for all men.

If You Ask Me:

WHAT DO YOU WANT SANTA CLAUS TO BRING YOU FOR CHRISTMAS?

ROBBY CHMIELEWSKI—For Christmas I want Santa Claus to bring me an automatic .45 to shoot squirrels with. I see lots of them around the base and in our yard. I don't have to ask for a rifle because I already have one. Matter of fact, I have two. I'm not going to ask for anything else because I want him to surprise me.

BRYAN AUSTIN—I can't write yet but my sister wrote Santa Claus a letter for me and told him what I want. I hope he will bring me a Marine Corps rifle. I also want two Roy Rogers guns and I would like a Robot Commando like I saw on television. I want a little jar of candy because a big one would make me sick.

TRICIA BAXTER—When I see Santa Claus I'm going to ask him to bring me a Chatty-Kathy Doll like the one on television. She talks and sometimes she kisses. I would like a lot of little picture books. Most of all, I want a real live horse with a saddle and we could keep it at my grandmother's farm. Every year we leave cookies for Santa.

MIKE TERRY—For Christmas I want a football, a machine gun and a Marine Corps rifle. I also want a Robot Commando like the ones on TV. I need a bunch of little cars, boots, army men and an electric train. I would like a pistol and holster set. I want a canvas tent, not the kind made of paper.

VICKI TERRY—This Christmas I asked Santa Claus for a doll and a watch. I like to play nurse and I might be one when I grow up so I also asked for a nurse outfit. I want a horse, too, and if Santa Claus brings me a horse I want him to bring me a cowgirl suit, too. I asked him for a doll that talks, too. Our whole family likes to play together so I asked him for some games. I want a cash register just like the real ones in the stores, and I always need clothes.

THE HIGH AND THE MIGHTY
This melodrama features John Wayne as a commercial pilot and Claire Trevor in the opening scenes. John Wayne is co-pilot of a plane which develops engine trouble. He is the only one aware of this condition. As he tries to convince the rest of the crew of their plight his mind reverts back to a similar situation in which the plane crashed and both his wife and child were fatally injured. This Warner Brothers production is in color and well worth seeing. (Color, time: 135 min.)

FLAMING STAR
Elvis Presley sings only twice in this western, but has considerable demands put on his acting ability in his role as half-breed in frontier Texas of the 70's. He and his father, a prosperous rancher, his Indian mother and his step-brother, son of his father's first wife, are devoted to each other, and their family life is happy and comfortable. Trouble begins when Indians of the mother's tribe start war to regain lands taken from them by the white settlers. Elvis Presley gives a credible, sincere performance and has the support of a good cast, notably John McIntire as his courageous, understanding father, and beautiful Delores Del Rio as his mother. (Time: 101 min.)

GABY
This new screen version of Robert Sherwood's "Waterloo Bridge" has been brought up to date with a World War II background. With Leslie Caron and John Kerr co-starring, this picture is a thoroughly entertaining romantic drama that most women will enjoy shedding a tear over—and the men will enjoy it too. Other members of the cast include: Sgt. Cedric Hardwicke, Tams Eggleston, Billie Holiday, Sam Levene, Joe E. Brown, Joseph Cawley, James Best, Lisa Montell, Ruta Lee, Narda Onyx and Gloria Wood. (Time: 103 min.)

VOYAGE TO THE BOTTOM OF THE SEA
In this movie you will see Walter Pidgeon, starting as a brilliant scientist and a top-ranking naval officer. At the start of the picture he is completing a voyage under the polar icecap in a new, giant nuclear-powered submarine of his design. In the ships company you will see John Fontaine, as a famous psychiatrist studying the behavior of the crew. The subsequent voyage and its adventures, including mysterious sabotage aboard the sub, with giant squid and near mutiny among the crew are the films highlights. (DeLuxe Color, time 113 min.)

KNIGHTS OF THE ROUND TABLE
The only information we could find on this movie is that it stars Robert Taylor, Ava Gardner, and Mel Ferrer. The movie is in color and running time is 108 min.

HIGH TIME
In this movie there is little story, just a series of short, loosely connected scenes of highly colored, happy, never-never phases of college life, spiced together with considerable originality. The leading players are: Bing Crosby, Nicole Maury, Fabian, Tuesday Weld. The young people playing with him are very attractive, and the two or three songs are pleasant. There is a startling ending in Bing's valedictory at the graduation exercises that brings matters to a close. (DeLuxe Color, time 116 min.)

THE BIG GAMBLE
The story tells of the adventures and misadventures of a trio of travelers—Juliette Greco as the high-spirited Corsican bride of Stephen Boyd, a stubborn, hot-tempered Irishman, and David Wayne, the latter's bank clerk cousin as they try to establish a trucking business on the Ivory Coast of Africa. The story begins in Dublin, when Boyd tries to convince his relations to finance the trucking project. Narrow roads, flooded riverbeds that are supposed to be dry, mechanical trouble and overturned trucks are among the many inconveniences that beset the pioneers. (DeLuxe color, time 108 min.)

THE SEARCHERS
This compelling and suspenseful drama set in the old Southwest during the post-Civil War era, is a superior motion picture with an impressive and effective performance by John Wayne. Jeffrey Hunter, Vera Miles, Ward Bond, Natalie Wood, John Qualen, Oliver Carey, Henry Brandon, Ken Curtis, Harry Carey Jr., and many others. Wayne, a Confederate soldier, while out with a posse seeking treacherous Comanche Indians, returns to the ranch to find his wife and two young nieces kidnapped. He goes in search of the girls; finds one has been murdered, and it takes him years to find the other one. (Technicolor, time 119 min.)

YOUNG DOCTORS
The sense of drama has been shrewdly heightened through the device of involving the doctor-protagonists with patients or loved ones. Thus one of the two major cases treated in this film is that of a pretty nurse, who is mutually in love with the subject matter, at the hospital. She has developed a leg tumor which this doctor is called upon to diagnose, in addition to the subject matter. This United Artists release is bolstered by an excellent cast that includes such veterans as Freddie March, Eddie Albert, and Aline MacMahon, along with such new comers as Ben Gazzara, Ina Balin, and Dick Clark. (Rama, 108 min.)

ADA
"Ada" is about a go-getting female (Susan Hayward) born on the other side of the tracks and marries a man (Dean Jagger), who becomes governor of a southern state, enters politics herself by taking over the job of his lieutenant-governor, and ultimately triumphs over enemies who expose her somewhat shady past. Also included in the cast are: Wilfrid Hyde White, Ralph Meeker, Martin Balsam, Frank Maxwell, Connie Sawyer, Portia Robinson, Charles Watts and Gates. Robert S. Simon, and William Zuckert. (MetroColor, time 116 min.)

BOMB OVER CHINA
We were unable to find a review for this movie. However, we do know that running time is 103 minutes.

CLAUDELLE INGLISH
Diane McBain plays the part of Claudelle Inglish, a teenage daughter of a Georgia share-cropper, who falls in love with a farm boy but her mother, Constance Ford, wants her to marry Claude Atkins, a middle-aged farm owner. While he is doing Army service, Diane waits for him until a letter arrives telling her he will marry another. Diane starts going with other men in town and when her father learns of this, he makes her return all the gifts she has received. Diane attempts to leave town for a new life but her father shoots and kills her. (Drama, 99 min.)

THE GREAT IMPOSTOR
As a youth Tony Curtis, as Demara, wants to do everything by short-cut. When he reports for military service, he finds that because of his limited education he cannot become an officer. So he forges college credentials and is in line for a commission. He learns that the FBI will have to check the college credentials, so he deserts and in sequence becomes a monk, an assistant warden, a professor of psychology, and so goes his life as an impostor. The U. S. State Department starts looking for him and he gets the assistance they need from Curtis himself. (Comedy, 88 min.)

THESE WILD YEARS
This is a well-written movie, that possesses honesty, suspense and a human interest story with a satisfactory climax. James Cagney never acted better in his career, and Barbara Stanwyck will please the audiences just as highly. Other in the cast are: Walter Pidgeon, Betty Lou Keim, Don Dubbins, Edward Andrews, Basil Ruysdael, Grandon Rhodes, and W. Wright. Cagney, a self-made millionaire, tries to find his 20-year-old son that was left at an adoption home. He never finds his son but does find happiness when he meets a 16-year-old girl with a newborn baby, and takes them home to become his family. (Drama, 91 min.)

MR. SARDONICUS
In this movie, Ronald Lewis is pioneering in new medical techniques in a London hospital, which is run by Dr. Andrew Dalton, a former girl friend now married to the wealthy Guy Rolfe and there he meets Rolfe, who wears a rubber mask to hide his features who became conformed when he was forced to dig up his father's body to recover a winning lottery ticket. Although Rolfe's face becomes normal again he is still punished in other ways for other misdeeds he has done. (Horror drama, 89 min.)

SOUTH SEA FURY
No information available on this film. We do know that the running time is 83 minutes.

FANNY
In the title role of Fanny is Leslie Caron as the daughter of a waterfront fishmonger, played by Georgeanne Arny. Also included in the cast are: Maurice Chevalier, Charles Boyer, Horst Buchholz, Baccanti, Lionel Jeffries, Raymond Burr, Victor Francen, and Joel Flateau. The homey, sentimental, amusing story of the Marmelites waterfront and its thoroughly endearing characters is played out with a brightness of spirit. (Color, 133 min.)

Dependents Information

Military formations have the right of way over all traffic aboard the Base with the exception of authorized emergency vehicles. No person operating a motor vehicle, unless under the circumstances mentioned above, shall drive at a speed in excess of 15 miles per hour when passing a military formation.

All persons employed on the reservation as domestic workers or day workers are required to register and obtain identification cards from the Provost Marshal's Office, Bldg. 37. This includes those living on Base and in all public quarters and rental housing areas over which the MCB commanding general exercises either exclusive or concurrent jurisdiction.

A valid health card (obtainable at the Onslow County Health Office, College Street Jacksonville) and a written statement from the prospective employer the applicant is to be employed by, location of employment and days employed, must be presented at time of registration.

The Youngsters Square Dance Group meets every Friday evening from 5 to 7 p. m. A "rock n' roll" jam session is held on week night in the clubs music room. The weekend movie will be "Guadalcanal Diary." On Sunday free coffee and doughnuts will be served starting at 10 a. m., and again at 4 p. m., during the Hospitality Hour. A quiz is also held at 4 p. m., on Sunday with the winner receiving a free telephone call home as the prize. The clubs stereo hi-fi juke box features 160 selections of top tunes of the week.

Welcome To Club 45.

Camp Lejeune scored another Marine Corps first when the doors of the NCO Club opened for business March 25, 1961. It was the first of its kind on any Marine Base in the United States and was ushered in at Camp Lejeune with a great deal of enthusiasm; an enthusiasm which has since ebbed to a point threatening further operation.

"Response was instant when the club first opened," said club manager Sgt. Herbert Icke. "We had good, steady patronization for awhile and then all of a sudden we gradually started drawing less and less crowds."

"I can truthfully say that we have had only about one-third of the Camp's E-4, E-5 population visit the club. The other two-thirds? They don't even know the club exists and in some cases, Division personnel have stated that they thought the club was for E-4's and E-5's attached to Marine Corps Base. It's not a rare thing to have groups of NCO's drift in for the first time saying they didn't know there was such a club until they heard of it in a round-about way."

At present a campaign is going on to get the "word around" to E-4's and E-5's at Camp Lejeune. As for the novelty aspect, Sergeant Icke and the club's board of directors have long since recognized the need for change in entertainment and have taken giant strides in an effort to promote the club through a variety of activities for the "entire family." Big name bands are constantly kept booked for dances in the club's massive ballroom. A game night with gifts for "the lucky" was started a short time ago and, according to Sergeant Icke, "bigger and better things are yet to come."

The club has a six-lane bowling alley open every night and just recently added a bar-patio for those who would rather be a spectator than a participant.

One of the most modern dining rooms of any club on the Base is a top feature of Club "45." Dubbed the "Venetian Room," the dining area can easily accommodate 90 diners at a time. There are 36 tables arranged in two, four and eight-person seating capacities. Diners have their meals in a relaxed atmosphere complete with piped in stereo sounds. The menu? Nothing but the best. Everything from a hamburger complete with little niceties of potato chips and pickles to choice cuts of sirloin steak char-coaled to a point that would make anyone's mouth water; all of this at nominal charge.

After a meal in the dining room perhaps your wife or your girl friend would like a few whirls around the dance floor just to top the evening off. One of the largest dancing floors on the base is just a few steps away from the dining area. The club's ballroom is complete with bar and accommodations for several hundred people. Lights are low for the romantic appeal, service is instant and cost is still nominal. When orchestras and bands are not on hand music is supplied by a stereophonic system featuring everything from the "twist" to the most popular in classical circles.

The entire upstairs of the building is for "stags." A club within the club, the "stag" room is equipped with its own private and fully stocked bar, and is furnished with lounge chairs, sofas, coffee tables, two pool tables and a variety of games.

Adjoining the "stag" room is the T.V. room with ample space and comfortable chairs "just right for viewing."

Contrary to popular belief, the club is not a supported feature of Base Special Services. It is self-sustaining like any other business and requires patronization to continue.

When the idea of an NCO club was approved by the Commandant of the Marine Corps, the money had to be borrowed from the Corps' recreation council. The debt is paid off in quarterly installments from club profits. So far, the club has barely been able to meet its debt obligations; all profit going back into restocking and the payments. When the club's business dwindles to a point where it cannot operate with a profit, its doors will close and Camp Lejeune's "first" will become a "has-been."

To get away from the gloomy side of the picture here's what can happen if business takes a steady climb up. The debt will be paid off quicker, insuring the club's continuance. When the debt is paid, the money that would have been used to meet the quarterly installments will be turned back into the club in the form of expansion of the facilities and the introduction of bigger, better and more frequent varieties of entertainment.

Even though the club is laboring under a budget at the present time, considering the debt and restocking, top entertainment is still being booked. Eleven well known bands are scheduled for appearances within the coming months. Among them are Bob Smith, Dec. 16. Billy Butterfield is slated to handle the music end of entertainment for the New Year's Ball, complete with confetti and noisemakers. The GLOBE will announce the events with full details.

Still in the planning stages, but likely to become a reality if business "picks up," are floor shows featuring some of the top acts in the business.

The club is open for business Monday through Thursday from 4:30 p.m. to 10:30 p.m.; Friday, 4:30 p.m. to 11 p.m., and on Saturdays, Sundays and holidays, from 2 p.m. to 11 p.m.

Whatever your pleasure, whether it be bowling, dancing, dining in an atmosphere of soft music, or casually lounging around, the best and most economical place to do it, if you're an E-4 or an E-5, is Club 45, located in Bldg. 425, just across the street from the Hostess House. Patronize your club and promote your entertainment.

Troops Artillerymen Fire At Ft. Bragg

FT. BRAGG, N. C.—Two weeks of intensive training will terminate here tomorrow for the 450 Marines that make up Force Troops' 2d Field Artillery Group, and Col. F. R. Schlesinger, the veteran commander of the artillery unit, praised the yearly exercise for getting the Group "at the peak of combat readiness by the time we leave here."

"Except for amphibious landings, this is the best training we get," said the wiry New Hampshire native while in the distance could be heard the mighty blast of an 8-inch howitzer as it laid down a three-round barrage.

The sides of the general purpose tent trembled again when the next round was fired, lending strong support to his next statement: "The battery commanders are taking full advantage of this opportunity by shooting both day and night." The third round put a period on the statement.

Then he said, "Every Marine in this unit strives to put the keen edge on our readiness while at Bragg... the unending work, loss of sleep, and unpleasant conditions of the field only serve to prove the old Chinese proverb that, 'The more you sweat in training, the less you bleed in war.'" This exercise started almost two weeks ago when the advance party of about 200 men arrived to begin building a tent city, complete with heat and electricity.

After this hard-working crew had completed the camp and the establishment of liaison with the Army here, the rest of the Group moved out from Camp Lejeune in a 100-vehicle convoy. The track vehicles were shipped here by rail.

However the movement here by the FAG troops was not an ordinary trek. The convoy was tactical for the entire 110 miles and the seven hours required to make the trip. This movement simulated the inland push after a hypothetical amphibious landing had secured a beachhead near Camp Lejeune.

Lt. Col. R. E. McClean, the Group S-3 officer, termed the movement a "tightly coordinated, well-executed displacement."

Upon arrival, the battery commanders took charge for the first week of independent firing. However, the second week was to be training at the Group level. At that time, a lot of the various detachments and units in the tent city area moved into the field with batteries to become a group-sized command and simulate nuclear warfare.

The 155mm Howitzer Battery, under the command of Maj. C. K. Whitfield, fired a total of 1,384 rounds during the two weeks of firing while Maj. L. E. Walton's 8-inch Howitzer Battery lobbed 342 rounds into the impact areas. Capt. H. M. Koppenhaver's 155mm Gun Battery cranked off 808 shots, and Capt. W. D. Benton's Heavy Artillery Rocket Battery launched three Honest John Rockets.

Support was furnished by detachments from 2d FSR and the following Force Troops units: 8th Motor Transport Bn., 8th Engineer Bn., 8th Comm Bn., and four naval gunfire spotting teams from 2d ANGLICO. Air support came from VMO-1.

For the comfort of the troops, a shower unit was set up with hot and cold run-

Albany Cagers Bring Perfect Record Here

Camp Lejeune's high scoring varsity basketball squad, which is averaging 98.5 points per game after two outings this season, runs into another offensive-minded quintet here tomorrow and Saturday when they play host to the cagers from Marine Corps Supply School, Albany, Ga. Game time is 6:15 p.m. at Goettge Memorial Field House. Albany, which opened its season approximately four weeks ago, is off to a fast start this year under coach Bert Deckel, who is back for his second year as head coach of the Supply Center team. As of last Thursday, the Albany team had a record of 15-0 and was averaging more than 100 points-per-game.

"There's a lot of talent on this Albany club," coach Jack Whelan of Lejeune said here Monday. "Frankly, I was surprised that we won as big as we did over SubLant last week. Although the team has done a real good job in our first two games, its still too early to tell just how well we'll do this season. However, this two game set with Albany should give us a good indication."

The Supply Center team has good team speed and height and is built around six returning lettermen from last season. Aided by the return of Angia Cuttala, high scorer for the team the last two years, the visitors will be counting on 6-foot-5 Bill Morse and player-coach Deckel, 6-foot-6 for height.

A brother combination, Ray and Jerry McCully, both of whom are returning from last year, round out the starting five.

CG's Trophy Still Looms As Toss Up

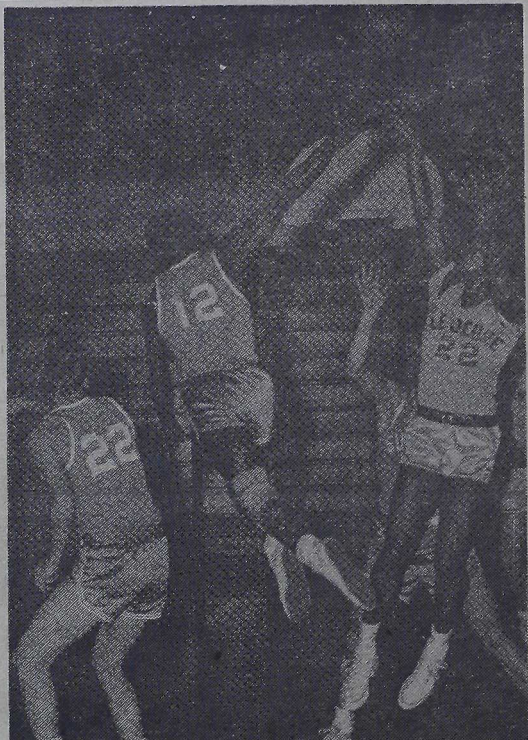

As the Base Special Services Intramural Sports Program draws nearer to the finish, the Commanding General's Rotating Trophy is still up for grabs with only two events remaining on the current schedule. They are Bowling and Basketball, which will be played early in 1962.

Second Force Service Regiment is currently holding down the front position for the trophy with 45½ points, but three other organizations loom threatening, and have been closing in on the leaders. In a tie for second place and only three points from the top slot are Headquarters and Service Battalion and Marine Corps Engineer Schools, each with 42½ points.

Also trailing, but still in the running for honors are the 1st Infantry Training Regiment with 34, U. S. Naval Hospital with 22½ and the Rifle Range with five points rounding out the standings.

Unbeaten Marines Face Albany Friday

After posting impressive victories over the Norfolk-based AirLant "Flyers", 104-73, and SubLant "Sea Raiders", 93-62, last week, Lejeune's cage squad faces two tough games tomorrow and Saturday nights here against the Marine Corps Supply Center, Albany, Ga. Game time for this pair of contests is 6:15 p.m. According to the December schedule, which appeared in the GLOBE, Nov. 30, Lejeune was to meet Ft. Devens, Mass., in its first conference game Dec. 13. However, this game has been cancelled and will be played at a later date.

The Marines, in winning their second outing of the year last Thursday night in as many tries, put on a tremendous showing for a small crowd at Goettge Memorial Field House.

Sparked by Derek Dickinson and player-coach Jack Whelan, the Marines played a hard-running game for the entire first half, taking the lead early in the game and holding it throughout the game. Both Dickinson and Whelan hit from all over the court in pacing the Marines to a 50-32 bulge at the half, while big Jim Meyers controlled the boards for Lejeune.

Lejeune shuffled its lineup slightly at the start of the second half, leaving only Dickinson and Meyers from the starting five in the lineup. Ron Santieo, the Marines' diminutive (5'9") backcourt ace, pumped in 15 points to pace the Lejeune attack in the second half.

SubLant put on a late scoring splurge with about five minutes remaining, but fell far short as Lejeune also turned hot in the last two minutes, sinking five of six shots for the final margin.

High point honors for the game went to the "Sea Raiders' " Bob Kelsey. The 5'10" sailor dropped in nine from the floor and added five from the foul line for a total of 23 points.

2d Amtrac Bn. Leads In FT Basketball

Second AmTrac Battalion continued down the unbeaten path last week by edging the third-place 8th Communications Battalion team by 70-63, to increase their first place lead in the Force Troops Intramural Basketball League to a game and a half.

This win gave the men of 2d AmTrac an 8-0 record and dropped the communicators to third place with a 7-2 mark behind 8th Engineer's 6-1 mark.

However, the engineers had their work cut out for them this week as they met both the communicators and the fourth place 2d Tank Bn. in back-to-back games.

Second Tank Battalion will also tangle with the unbeaten Amtrac crew.

In other results last week, 2d Composite Radio Co., defeated the winless Headquarters crew, 80-49; 2d Bridge Co., knocked off 8th Motor Transport Bn., 67-57; the motor transport crew bounced back to whip 2d ANGLICO, 53-45; and the radiomen won a really close one, 63-62, over the bridgemen.

'Rookie,' Vet Key To High Scoring Five

A first-year "rookie" and a veteran cornerman have combined scoring talents through the first two games of the current basketball season to pace Lejeune's high scoring five to a pair of impressive 31-point victories.

With guard Ron Santieo averaging 18 points per game and forward Derek (Dick) Dickinson hitting for a 17.5 average, the Marines are clipping along at a 98.5 average for two games.

Santieo is making his first start with the varsity after playing intramural ball here last season. The diminutive, 5-foot-9, Boston native was named the "Most Valuable Player" in the Fleet Marine Force, Atlantic Cage Tourney last year as he led the 2d Division All-Stars to the FMF title.

Dickinson, a native of Danbury, Conn., is back for his third year with the Marine varsity. Last year, Dick averaged 10 points per game for Lejeune and coach Jack Whelan expects the 6-foot-2 forward to provide a large share of the Marines' scoring punch this year.

Neither Dickinson nor Santieo have college experience, although Santieo played one season at Suffolk U. (Boston) as a freshman. Dickinson has one year of experience in the Connecticut Basketball Association, where he was fourth high scorer in 1958.

Two other first-year members of Lejeune's squad have scoring totals in double figures through the Marines' first two games.

Set For Christmas Tournament

Six Eastern States are represented by the seven college teams entered in the Fourth Annual Christmas Invitational Basketball Tournament which gets under way here Dec. 27. The college lineup includes: Central Conn. St. College, New Britain, Conn.; Georgia Southern College, Statesboro, Ga.; Pikeville College, (defending tourney champions), Pikeville, Ky.; U. of Baltimore, Baltimore, Md.; East Carolina College, Greenville, N. C.; Elon College, Burlington, N. C., and Bethel College, McKenzie, Tenn. The East Carolina College "Pirates" from Greenville, N. C., will be making their first appearance in this tournament and are one of the two Carolinas Conference teams competing here this year.

Coached by Earl Smith, who is in his third year as head coach at ECC, the Pirates were hard hit by graduation last year and have only four returning lettermen on this year's squad.

However, Coach Smith was able to form this year's team around Charlie Lewis, a six-foot senior from Kingston, N. C., averaged 14.4 points per game last year.

So far this year, the ECC squad has a 2-3 season record and a 1-2 slate in conference play and are in ninth place in the 11-team Carolinas Conference.

Curci, Junker Lead Eustis To One-Point Bowl Victory

Quarterback Fran Curci teamed up with Washington Redskins end Steve Junker at Orlando, Fla., last Saturday to pull Ft. Eustis, Va., from behind to a one-point, 25-24, victory over the Quantico Marines in the second annual Missile Bowl. Curci, a former All-America selection at the U. of Miami, started Eustis on its comeback after Quantico had jumped to an early 18-0 lead. He hit half-back Frank Walton with a 47-yard scoring pass in the second quarter, and added a two-point conversion by passing to Junker.

Less than three minutes later, he passed to Junker for a seven-yard scoring play and then hit Junker again with a nine-yarder for a TD in the third quarter. Dan Tassotti, Eustis' player-coach, booted both extra points and added a 41-yard field goal to give Ft. Eustis the unofficial national service football title.

Quantico had jumped into an early lead as Darrell Fitts rammed over from the one in the first period, and added to the margin in the second quarter when Bob Johnson went three yards and John Prichard went one yard for scores. The attempts for extra points failed.

The Marines added a final touchdown in the third quarter on a 37-yard pass from Paul Theres to Fitts, but again failed to convert.

Quantico also topped Eustis by the same margin, while Ft. Lee, even with Len Wilkins of the St. Louis Hawks in the lineup, only managed a two-point squeaker over the Wheels... The Leathernecks have a starting lineup that averages out at 6-foot-5 in Art Muselman, 6-foot-3, from The Citadel, Bob Cleary, 6-foot-1, and Bob Mealy, 6-foot-5, both from Manhattan College, and Al Sallee, 6-foot-7, from Western Kentucky.

Lejeune Archers Win Top Tourney Honors

Archers from Camp Lejeune walked off with most of the top honors last weekend at the 56-target Invitational Field Archery Tournament held at Cherry Point and sponsored by the Marine Corps Air Station Archery Club.

Besides pulling down team honors for the event, Lejeune's squad gathered four places in the tournament's three classes and saw one member named the tourney's top shooter.

GySgt. Eugene Cruickshank of Lejeune gathered in the top shooter berth by winning the 250 Class, placing in the Handicap event and leading the Lejeune team to the Team Handicap title with a 1,047 score.

Other top finishers for Lejeune were HN John Law, second place, 175 Class, Lt. Cmdr. Robert Kirk, third place, 175 Class, and HN E. R. Osowski, 100 Class.

Lieutenant Beyer, president of the local field archery club, announced this week that the club's December meeting has been cancelled because of Christmas activities.

WGA To Hold Xmas Party And Tourney

The Women's Golf Association of Camp Lejeune will hold a combination Christmas Party and tournament tomorrow at Paradise Point beginning at 10 a. m.

A nine-hole tournament will start at 10 to be followed by a luncheon and party at the Golf Club Annex. Gifts will be exchanged by club members.

The club recently concluded a two-month Ringer Tournament with Vivian Collins posting Low Gross and Della Koyiades Low Net scores in the First Flight. Winkie Miller had Low Gross and Nancy Demmer Low Net in the 2d Flight.

Also, back for a third try in this tournament is the University of Baltimore "Bees." Boasting a veteran unit, the Bees should improve on their fifth place finish in this tournament the past two years.

Senior Jack Bychich, 6-foot-3, from Baltimore, is the team's top scorer. However, a lack of team height may hurt with Dick Mitchell, 6-foot-5 soph, and 6-foot-5 frosh, Paul Nicholson, the tallest men on the squad.

The third and final article in this series, covering George Southern College and Pikeville College, the tournament's defending champion, will be published in next week's Globe, along with start times for all games and the complete tourney bracket.

Meeting

The monthly meeting of the Camp Lejeune Fish and Wildlife Club has been set for Dec. 14, at 8 p.m. at the club house at French Creek.

Plans for the club's annual Christmas get-together will be discussed along with the regular business meeting.

All personnel interested in obtaining membership as well as regular club members are invited to attend.

10th Marines Leading Both Cage Leagues

With the first half of the 2d Division Intramural Basketball League schedule coming to a close for the Christmas holidays, two teams from the 10th Marines appear to be walking off with top honors in the two-division league.

First Battalion, 10th, is undefeated in the Two-Star division and has a two-game lead on the second place team. Service Battalion, with a 4-2 record, is the nearest team to the 1st's 6-0 record.

In the Two-Star division, 3rd Battalion, 10th, also unbeaten in six games, leads the pack, but is being closely pursued by 1st Battalion, 6th Marines, with a 5-0 record.

The 1st Battalion squad, an all-enlisted crew and coached by Capt. R. W. Edwards, is a tall, high-scoring aggregation with plenty of speed. The team is averaging over 80 points per game, and has held its opponents to an average of only 68 per game.

The league leaders have posted wins over Service Bn., and 4th Bn., 10th Marines, their two closest challengers for the lead.

In One-Star action, 3/10 is showing the class that captured the Division title last year, with impressive victories over Pioneer Bn., Hq. Bn., 2d Bn., 6th Marines, and both 1st and 2d Bns., 6th Marines. The team is led again this year by player-coach Lt. Terry Drew.

8th Engineers Hold FT Bowling Lead

Eighth Engineer Bn., swept a four-game series from the 8th Motor Transport Bn., in its only match of the week to boost its season record to 18-2 and hang onto the lead in the Force Troops Intramural Bowling League, but 2d ANGLICO took seven of eight points last week to stay a close second with a 16-3 mark.

ANGLICO blanked 2d Hospital Co., 4-0, and took three of four from 8th Comm Bn., to take a precarious lead over the communicators who have held down second place last week. Comm now has an 11-5 mark.

Engineers will face the improved 2d Tank Bn. team this week as well as the comm team.

In other matches last week, 2d Tanks shut out 2d Separate Surgical, 4-0; 4th Dental beat 2d Hospital by 3-1; Headquarters Company whipped the tankers, 3-1; and Dental defeated Separate Surgical by 3-1.

Archers from Camp Lejeune walked off with most of the top honors last weekend at the 56-target Invitational Field Archery Tournament held at Cherry Point and sponsored by the Marine Corps Air Station Archery Club.

Besides pulling down team honors for the event, Lejeune's squad gathered four places in the tournament's three classes and saw one member named the tourney's top shooter.

GySgt. Eugene Cruickshank of Lejeune gathered in the top shooter berth by winning the 250 Class, placing in the Handicap event and leading the Lejeune team to the Team Handicap title with a 1,047 score.

Other top finishers for Lejeune were HN John Law, second place, 175 Class, Lt. Cmdr. Robert Kirk, third place, 175 Class, and HN E. R. Osowski, 100 Class.

Lieutenant Beyer, president of the local field archery club, announced this week that the club's December meeting has been cancelled because of Christmas activities.

Unique Presents Made By Midway Park Scout Troop

Members of the Midway Park Brownie Troop 292 are as busy as Santa these days making Christmas presents for Mom and Dad. Their "workshop" is the Midway Park Community Center and their latest project is a pocketbook made of popsicle sticks. "It's easy and fun," agree the girls. All you need is a little paste or glue, popsicle sticks, patience and a leader like Mrs. J. H. Henderson to show you how.

Midway Park Wives Discuss Decorations Set Christmas Party

Plans were discussed for a Christmas party at the last meeting of the Midway Park Wives Club. The party will be held at 10 a.m. Thursday, Dec. 14, in the Midway Park Community Center.

Mrs. B. G. Hubbard, assisted by Mrs. William Singleton and Mrs. B. J. Robinson, will take care of the decorations. Cakes will be brought by Mrs. J. E. Rachael and Mrs. H. D. Parsons. In charge of refreshments are Mrs. D. R. Smith and Mrs. G. R. Andrus.

Carol singing is on the agenda with piano accompaniment by Mrs. R. L. Stevenson. Each member is to bring an exchange gift and a food donation for the Christmas feast.

Progress on displays for the exterior decorating contest was reported and ideas were exchanged. The day of judging is to be kept a secret but will be sometime between Dec. 19 and 23. Judges include: Chief Fire Inspector C. B. Whittington, Midway Park Housing Manager A. W. Dalton, and Midway Park Protestant Chaplain J. H. Philabaum. First prize is $5, second, $3, and third, $2.

Protestant Choir To Sing Selections By Bach, Handel Dec. 17

An evening of Christmas music will be presented by the Protestant Chapel Choir of the Marine Corps Air Facility Dec. 17 at the Air Facility chapel beginning at 7:30 p.m.

The program will include choral and ensemble selections by Bach and Handel, as well as traditional Christmas carols. Soloists are Mrs. Frank Shook, Lt. J. T. Taylor, and Steven Keller. Mrs. D. E. Petree is the organist and the choir is directed by Mrs. J. T. Taylor. The public is cordially invited to attend.

PROTESTANT GUILD

Chaplain M. O. Stephenson, Division Chaplain, will speak on "The Spirit of Christmas" at the monthly meeting of the Protestant Chapel Woman's Guild, Dec. 8, at 9:30 a.m. in Bldg. 67. All Protestant women are invited that they may prepare their hearts for Christmas Day.

Scholarship Fund Receives Boost From Profits Of Platter Parade Book Sales

Is the chief chef running short of meal-planning ideas or looking for something new and different in the culinary line for Christmas? Mrs. D. T. Harp, chairman of the drive to raise money for the scholarship fund being sponsored by the Paradise Point Officers Wives Club, suggests a "Camp Lejeune Platter Parade Cookbook" which the wives are selling for $1.75. Each year the officers' wives furnish the Camp Lejeune High School with $300 and $200 scholarships. The cookbook sale is their biggest money-making project. The book is compiled of recipes contributed by wives stationed at Camp Lejeune. Some have been handed down from generation to generation, some were borrowed from foreign countries, others are original, but all are tested favorites.

The wives have set up a display in the Central Area Post Exchange but copies may also be obtained by contacting Mrs. Harp at 6-6414 or the individual group chairmen.

Included everything from canapés to casseroles and soups to salads the "Platter Parade" presents the following preview:

CARIBBEAN CHRISTMAS PUNCH

- 1/2 of a pineapple peeled and sliced
 - 1 cup of lemon juice
 - 1 1/2 bottles of an "elderly" rum
 - 2 cups pineapple juice
- Place ingredients in a large bowl and chill for two hours in the refrigerator. Then place a block of ice in your punch bowl and pour in the mixture.

Add 2 quarts of sparkling water and, as a fillup, add 1 pint of strawberries, sliced thin.

CHICKEN "SAUCE PIQUANTE"

- 1/2 cup shortening or any cooking oil
- 2 tablespoons flour
- 1 seasoned, cut-up chicken
- 1 can whole tomatoes

MRS. D. P. HARP

- 1 large onion, cut up
- 2 stalks celery, cut up
- 1/2 green pepper, cut up
- 2 cloves garlic, finely chopped
- 2 cans mushrooms
- 1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
- 1 cup water or more
- 1 tablespoon chopped green onion tops
- 1/2 tablespoon finely chopped parsley
- 1/4 sliced lemon

Heat shortening. Add flour and make "Roux" (stir continuously until dark brown). Add chicken and cook slowly for about 15 minutes, turning chicken often. Then add rest of ingredients except onion tops, parsley and lemon. Cook until chicken is done and sauce is thickened. When nearly done, add green onion tops and parsley. Turn off when done and add sliced lemon. Let stand for an hour or so and before serving, remove lemon. Serve over rice to Southerners or noodles to Yankees. Will serve 5 hungry adults.

Tarawa Terrace Grade School Enacts 'The Christmas Story' December 14

"The Christmas Story" will be told by the children of Tarawa Terrace Thursday evening, Dec. 14, at the Tarawa Terrace School Auditorium. A short PTA business meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. and precede the children's program. John Woods narrates "The Christmas Story" which is presented in four scenes. In scene one, the Journey to Bethlehem, Joseph is portrayed by Ed Thomas, Mary by Betty DeAngelo, and Gabriel by Charles Wood.

Staff Couples Dine, Dance At Club's Christmas Party

Members of the Staff NCO Wives Club and their husbands turned out in their season's finest last Saturday night for the club's combined Christmas Party and installation of officers. Time was 6:30 p.m. and place the Hadnot Point Staff NCO Annex. Capt. F. W. Kelly, USN, Base Chaplain, gave the invocation and a brief talk. He spoke of the importance of the wives' participation in the activities of the Club. He pointed out that it promoted not only friendship between the wives but understanding between husband and wife.

After the steak dinner gifts were presented to the outgoing board which included: Mrs. Charley Buess, Mrs. Chester Ballinger, Mrs. James Reimer, Mrs. James Hedge, Mrs. Robert Clukey and Mrs. Chester Baldyga.

Mrs. James Hedge, former recording secretary, resigned her pen and notebook and accepted the president's gavel from outgoing president, Mrs. Charley Buess. Other new officers are: Mrs. Carl Siel, vice president; Mrs. William Tinney, treasurer; Mrs. Jay Osmond, recording secretary; Mrs. Rodgers Gardner, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. Lawrence Junkins, sergeant at arms.

Winners of the turkeys were Mrs. Virginia Leete, GySgt. Carl Siel and GySgt. Frances Rooney. Exchange of Christmas gifts followed the drawing.

Eddie Long and the Sophisticates provided dining and dancing music throughout the evening.

The angels appear to the shepherds herds in scene two with Susan Barnes, Deborah Behnke and JoAnn Staggs as the angels. The shepherds are Scott Eckert, Randy Beaver, Billy Wiese, Jesse Craner, Donald Alquist, and Joseph Kelly. Scene three is of the three wise men played by Joey Pyburn, Barry Bartholomew and Jim Slavik. The Nativity Scene is the fourth scene.

Familiar Christmas carols will be sung by Choir I composed of first, second and third graders and Choir II from grades four, five and six. Soloists will be Paul Randolph and Lane Baldree. There will be a trio comprised of Paul Randolph, Mike Boltseridge and David Hall.

The program has been planned by the Christmas committee: Mrs. Alice Parrish, chairman, and her assistants: Miss Ann Creech, Miss Chris Sutton, Mr. Harold Martin, Mrs. Helen Clapp, Miss Jeanette Williams, Miss Regina Nakutis, Mrs. Judith Trent, Mrs. Ruth Hughes, Mrs. Jeanne Darling and Miss Patsy Nicholson. Pianist is Miss Kate Trivette. Costumes were made by mothers, Mrs. James H. Staggs and Mrs. Ernest Slavik.

Following the program, refreshments will be served in the cafeteria.

Christmas Display

The lighting-off ceremony for religious Christmas displays will be at 5:30 p.m., Dec. 15, on the Base Parade Field. The Base commander will turn on the lights. The senior chaplains from Base and 2d Division will give the invocation and benediction, and the 2d Division Band will play Christmas hymns. The public is cordially invited to attend.

CHRISTMAS CAROL—Members of the 2d Marine Division chorus as they will appear at Wilmington Friday during the annual festival lighting of the "world's oldest living Christmas tree." Thirty-five members of the chorus will make the trip to take part in the ritual.

Division Chorus To Sing At Tree Lighting Ceremony

Thirty-five Marines of the 2d Division chorus are scheduled to travel to Wilmington Dec. 15 where they will present a selection of traditional Christmas carols during lighting ceremonies of the "world's oldest living Christmas tree." The chorus, under the direction of LCpl. Bob Bongiorno, will present

New Training Films Listed At TA Library

The Training Aids Library at Marine Corps Base, has received a number of new training films. Information concerning use of the films may be obtained by calling the Training Aids Library in Bldg. 67.

MA 9091 H "The One That Got Away"—This film depicts the problems encountered by Career Advisory Officers and NCO's. This film is particularly good in that it covers most all the major reasons that individuals usually give for not reenlisting. This film makes a strong point that reenlistment is a problem that begins when a man enters the service, not the last two months of enlistment.

6376 "Watchover Tomorrow"—This film discusses ways in which the United Nations can safeguard the peace. It traces steps preceding the organization and explains the functions of the Security Council and the General Assembly.

3745 C "Anchors to Westward, Guam"—A brief review of the history of Guam, shows Japanese capture and American recapture, construction of air strips, and the important assembly point of men and material during WW II.

6704 "Sea Power for Peace"—Produced for general Navy Day publicity as basis for newscast excerpts. Shows Navy ships in action.

7834 "Floating Fortress"—Tells the story of the battleships' mission in Korea. It portrays life aboard the battle ship, shows the operation of the components.

MA 9648 "Drop Zone"—This film depicts a thorough explanation of what planning and coordination among Army, Air Force, Navy, and Marines is going into preparing a Drop Zone for airborne troops. It is discussed in detail.

MA 9651 "Tank Company Team in the Delaying Action"—The film follows the action of a tank company team in the planning, preparation and participation in a delaying action. The team readies its weapons and equipment and moves into the initial delaying position. In summary stress is placed on the importance of centralized control, decentralized action, the proper use of mines and obstacles, for effective delaying actions in combat.

MA 9650 A "Transistors" part 1 Introduction—This film describes the construction, characteristics, operation, and application of transistors, designed to amplify electronic signals. It is pointed out that the transistor performs the same job as a vacuum tube, and will ultimately replace the tube because it has the advantages of small size, light weight, rugged dependability, and low power requirements. In summary the main teaching points are reviewed.

MA 9649 "Infantry Light Weapon Carrier" M-274 Principles of Operation—This film describes the construction, capability and operation of the special purpose vehicle for 4x4 infantry light weapons carrier, M-274, known as the "mule." A review of the major components of the M-274 is followed with before, during, and after operational checks, proper operation and maintenance are stressed to assure optimum performance in the field.

9579 B "Mechanical Smoke Generator" M2A3 Disassembly—This film demonstrates the step disassembly of the mechanical smoke generator, M2A3 for the purpose of proper maintenance and repair. In introduction the features and tactical employment of the unit is described. It is shown how the parts of such assembly are removed, checked, and placed in the proper sequence for subsequent reassembly. It is emphasized that damaged generators encountered during the assembly should be replaced.

Artilleryman Earns Mast For Gunnery

SSgt. Jack W. Willcox, a member of the 3d Bn., 10th Marines, 2d Marine Division, received a Meritorious Mast from his battalion commander, Maj. W. C. Patton.

The sergeant received his mast for his "outstanding services during the period June 1957 to November 1961." During this time, he initiated an "extensive gunnery training program, resulting in more than 200 men being trained as Operations Chiefs and Fire Controlmen."

The mast continued, citing his efforts at setting up the six-week course of instruction, and performing the majority of instruction himself.

LIGHT, ANYONE?—Cpl. Terry Hall doesn't smoke, but he's mighty proud of this cigarette lighter. Lt. Col. Thomas J. Belt, commanding officer of ASD Battalion, 2d Force Service Regiment, gave it to him last Friday for being top man in the regiment's General Military Subjects School.

BRIG. GEN. DAVID SARNOFF TELLS:

How You Can Help Your Country

Destiny has imposed a great mission upon the men and women of the Armed Forces, as it has upon all Americans and their government: The preservation and strengthening of democratic freedom and the defeat of tyrannical world communism, by peaceful means if at all possible. The awesome truth of our time is that either we will fulfill this mission energetically and fearlessly or we will fall ignominiously into an era in which ideological dogma replaces free inquiry, political demands, supplant human aspiration, and mass man smothers the individual.

Among the many steps that could be taken by individual Americans, both within the Armed Services and without, to help their country in this decade of danger, three stand out in my mind as distinct and different in their relevance to the central reality of our time: the struggle between communism and freedom.

Know The Enemy

First we must know the enemy. The Communists, whatever their tactics in a particular period, have never deviated from their fundamental purpose. It has been openly proclaimed from Lenin's day to Khrushchev's. It is, in the words of the official Moscow magazine "Kommunist," "the inevitable end of capitalism and the total triumph of communism."

The illusion still persists that the Cold War can be "called off." But the plain truth is that the Kremlin itself could not call it off without abandoning the Communist conspiracy to dominate the world—without, that is, ceasing to be Communists.

Such a challenge can be met and overcome only if each of us understands its full import and the compelling need for adequate counter-measures. This understanding can be developed through discriminating reading about the enemy and about our own traditions; through studying, both in formal classes and informal discussions, the nature of the challenge confronting us. Only in this way can the allegiance of the heart which we call patriotism be made fully effective through a fusion with the allegiance of the mind.

Make Sacrifices

Second, we must be willing to sacrifice.

The safeguarding of our cherished freedoms cannot be bought cheaply, nor can it be bought once and for all. Each generation of Americans must be ready to purchase it anew, paying when necessary in the coin of life and treasure.

To win the Cold War—and win it we must—will call for substantial sacrifices in material terms. But the notion that it will require a deep cut in living standards—either for military or civilian personnel—underestimates the wealth and productive genius of our country. The more demanding sacrifices, indeed, will be in the psychological and moral domains. Our people, in short, will have to renounce complacency, euphoria and illusion. They will have to embrace the grim but inspiring realities of our epoch.

May it never be said of us, as Marshal Pétain said of his countrymen after the fall of France in 1940: "Our spirit of enjoyment was greater than our spirit of sacrifice. We wanted to have more than we wanted to give. We spared effort and we met disaster."

Spiritual Cultivate

Third, we must cultivate a deeper appreciation of moral and spiritual values.

No one denies that we need the best military hardware that science can produce to guarantee our survival.

al. But this will prove tragically inadequate if it is not backed by the hardware of the spirit.

Regardless of how dramatically the known and accessible universe may be enlarged, the center of that universe remains man himself. Recognition of this ageless premise is the best guarantee of inner stability as the pressures of a changing world multiply. Without it, the human being will lose the sense of personal responsibility for his own conduct and for the course of history. He will become rootless, indifferent to the divine spark that sets him apart from lesser creatures.

On Our Shoulders

Nothing that science or technology can conceivably produce in the future will cancel out the moral imperatives and spiritual insights of the past and present. Freedom and justice, love and conscience—these are aspects of mortal existence more abiding than bronze. They provide elements of certainty in a period of crowding obsolescence. They give us a secure anchorage amid the vast tides of change, a sense of direction amid the complexities of our time.

The preservation of any free society depends, in largest measures, on the conscience and sense of duty of its citizens. This sense of duty was dramatically exemplified, nearly 200 years ago, in the Declaration of Independence. Today, if our nation is to survive and flourish, there must be a personal Declaration of Dedication by every American to those ideas and ideals upon which our nation is founded. As human beings, each of us can do more; as men and women who love our country, we can do less.

FT Engineers Celebrated 11th Birthday Last Week

The 8th Engineer Battalion, Force Troops, celebrated its 11th anniversary here last Friday with a cake-cutting ceremony and charcoal steak dinner. The Battalion is directly responsible for the development, operation and maintenance of the Marine training base on Vieques Island, Puerto Rico, and has developed facilities at the Marine Corps Air Station, Cherry Point, and various other military installations throughout the eastern United States.

Lt. Col. W. L. Batchelor, commanding officer of the Battalion, presented the first pieces of anniversary cake to representatives of the officers and enlisted men who served with the battalion when it was first activated. Capt. C. J. Smith, accepted the cake for the officers, having served with the unit in 1953 while MSgt. D. V. Cahoon acted as the enlisted representative. Sergeant Cahoon was with the battalion when it was first activated Dec. 11, 1950.

Upon its activation the battalion consisted of a headquarters company, a sub unit and four letter companies.

Training of combat engineers and overall engineering support for Marine Corps forces comprise the mission of the unit.

In peace time the Battalion is employed to develop training areas, building roads and numerous other facilities integral to the overall training program.

Toastmasters Install New Club Officers

The Camp Lejeune Toastmasters Club elected new officers at a fried chicken dinner meeting held in the Hadnot Point Hostess House on December 5. These officers will officiate until the next general election to be held during March 1962.

Elected were MSgt. Ken Polk, President; Gy Sgt. Ray Laurie, Educational Vice-President; GySgt. Israel Nurenberg, Administrative Vice-President; SSgt. Ray Wells, Secretary-Treasurer; MSgt. A. L. (Jack) Fisher, Sergeant-at-Arms; HMI John Zeigler, Grammarian-Parliamentarian.

Membership is open to all male Marine and Navy personnel of staff NCO rating and male civilians of equivalent GS ratings. If you are interested in a non-profit educational organization dedicated to increase your leadership and public speaking ability a most cordial invitation is extended to meet with the Toastmasters every Tuesday evening between 7 and 9 p.m. in the Conference Room, Bldg. 50, Hadnot Point. Interested persons may phone Sergeant Nurenberg at 7-5782 or Sergeant Wells at 7-3363 for further information.
