Gen. Robinson Hosts Wilmington Officials

Past And Future Problems Discussed At Meeting Of Military, Civic Leaders

"If you treat the Marines of Camp Lejeune no better or no worse than you treat your own citizens, our boys will ask for nothing else."

This was the theme of a discussion conducted by Major General Ray Robinson and Brigadier General

John T. Selden for twenty-five top civic and business leaders of the Wilmington area held here last Thursday.

"Don't discriminate against service people," asked General Robinson. "It is highly desirable that Wilmington become the favorite liberty port of marines at Camp Lejeune."

Later in the meeting, General Selden announced that, in the very near future, there would be upwards of 30,000 men stationed here; many of which will be, of necessity, quartered off the base. "Gentlemen," said the General, "you are going to be hard put trying to take care of them."

The deputy camp commander launched into a discussion of Wilmington's recreational facilities. He thanked the assemblage on behalf of the marines for the fine spirit of cooperation evidenced by the organizations which furnish hostesses for the Camp Lejeune dances. He went on to outline suggested plans for improving the recreational facilities to handle the expected influx of regulars and reserves. The General mentioned the establishment of additional servicemen's clubs that would provide snack bars and clean sleeping quarters, for a slight fee, for those men spending week ends in Wilmington.

COURT CASES CITED

General Robinson went on to cite the apparent discrimination against marines in the Wilmington courts. He read an excerpt from a newspaper article which listed the traffic offenses on a certain date in the Wilmington traffic court. After a brief discussion, a solution to this apparent discrimination was reached to the satisfaction of all present.

Mayor Royce S. McClelland said, "The last thing in the world Wilmington wishes is to leave an impression of hostility toward the marine or any other serviceman."

The former Army colonel added that the best attitude "was to face the issues" and remove all factors which may endanger or damage the city's spirit of hospitality. He added the Service Club and all other recreational facilities can and will be enlarged.

From the President of the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce, Mr. John H. Fox, came a pledge of cooperation to the fullest extent to foster even better relations between the marines and Wilmington's businessmen. He mentioned that the Better Business Bureau and the Retailer's Association will do all in their power to assist in the program.

Mr. John Farrell, executive secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, said that plans were underway to reactivate the Military Affairs Committee under the direc-

Camp Personnel Undergoing New Training Program

Under way since July 1, the 1950-51 training program of the H&S Battalion, Marine Barracks, is concentrating on basic military subjects and infantry practice, according to Master Sergeant Robert C. Gray, training NCO.

With many reserves now entering the Battalion, Gray said that it is necessary to emphasize such basic subjects as military courtesy, the rifle, troop and drill, formations, etc., since some of the reserves have had no other previous military training and many others have been separated from the service for more than three years.

The Battalion's WR's are also attending the school, which has its classes for all personnel every Saturday from 0800 to 1130. The main classroom is in Building 12 where there is a complete movie, film and manual library as well as a huge sandbox on which a complete town has been simulated to aid the Marines in perceiving troop movements.

Capt. William Vaughan, USMC, is the Battalion training officer, and uses the staff NCO's as his instructors. The courses will last until July, 1951, and will include many lectures on current affairs.

It's a small world.

Back in the early forties, the News and Views of Jacksonville employed a charming girl reporter, native of Burgaw, who had just graduated from the University of North Carolina.

She was Miss Mary Bowen. Mary made quite a hit among the people of Jacksonville, but Editor Billy Arthur made one big mistake. That, however, ended in Mary's favor.

One bright morning one silver star was pinned on Brig. Gen. Allen Hal Turnage, and Mary drove Billy's car out to Tent Camp where Billy made the general's picture standing before the old Gurganus residence, then the general's quarters.

While the picture was being arranged, a tall handsome Marine lieutenant, the general's aide, began a conversation with Mary. That developed into courtship and marriage, and Mary went into the Marines, so to speak, and Billy went back to work.

Plan Outlined For Call Volunteers To Duty

The Commandant of the Marine Corps is ordering extended active duty all male enlisted personnel in the ranks of sergeant and below and some 2650 officers of Volunteer Marine Corps Reserve. Mobilization of quota is to be accomplished during September, October and November.

Officers affected by this order include Reserve officers in the ranks of captain, first and second lieutenants. Present plans indicate that staff non-commissioned officers will be called from time as needed. The quotas for Reserve officers will be published at a later date and will be published at a later date.

Officers and officers above the rank of captain will be ordered to duty from Headquarters Marine Corps as required.

OFFICER PROGRAM

Marine Corps plans to call approximately 1300 second lieutenants, 900 first lieutenants and 500 captains to extended active duty. This will include 300 aviation officers. Primary consideration is being given those having combat-type specialties although a limited number of other specialties will be called.

Officers will be called in the initial quotas. In the second lieutenants, the first to be ordered to duty will be those recently commissioned under the merit-NCO program, Platoon Leaders Class or NROTC program.

In the present, the Marine will call officers preferential over the age of 31. None will be called from outside the continental limits of the United States at this time.

Extension of Reserve officers to extended active duty will be made under a program which provides a thorough impartial basis on which selections will be made. Commandant of the Marine

Three Wounded Army Veterans Patients Here

The war is temporarily over for three Army veterans of the Korean Campaign. The three, all from South Carolina, are the first Army casualties of the Korean campaign to be under treatment at the U. S. Naval Hospital at this base. They are: Sgt. James A. Duckworth, son of Mrs. W. A. Duckworth, 359 East Black Street, Rock Hill, S. C.; Pfc. William A. Johnson, son of William I. Johnson, Pacolet Mills, South Carolina; and 1st Lt. Purdy B. McLeod, Jr., son of Reverend and Mrs. P. B. McLeod, Conway.

Sgt. Duckworth, one of the first Army casualties to arrive at the Lejeune hospital received his wounds while setting up a road block near Waegan on August 15. Serving with the 1st Cavalry Division, he was hit by mortar shrapnel, sustaining injuries to both legs and his right hand. A veteran of four years in the Army, Sgt. Duckworth had been stationed in Japan for 27 months previously. His comment was, "Mighty Glad to be back in the States."

Pfc. William A. Johnson, 20, was shot in the right ankle during an attack on Red positions near Tansong, Korea, on August 8. Fortunately, several South Koreans were near at the time, and they carried him behind the lines to the First Aid Station. A comparative newcomer to the Army, Pfc. Johnson enlisted in May of 1949 and had been serving in Japan with the 24th Division before going to Korea on July 3rd. He was flown back to the states, arriving here on September 6th.

The third casualty, Lt. Purdy B. McLeod, Jr., got a surprise birthday present from the North Koreans when he was hit by mortar shrapnel in the left foot. Ironically, it was the second wound he had sustained in the same place. Three weeks prior to the shrapnel wound, he was hit by shrapnel when fired on by a Red tank. The lieutenant, however, went back to the first aid station, had his wound dressed and

Maj. P. B. Beckley, Women Marine CO Assigned PI Duty

Major Pauline B. Beckley, OIC of the Woman's Reserve Detachment here, has been assigned to duty at Parris Island, South Carolina. The major, who left here yesterday, will be assigned to duty as the Commanding Officer of the Women's Recruit Depot. Her mother, Mrs. Rottie E. Bowers of 147 Glenn Street, Johnstown, Pennsylvania, will accompany her to the South Carolina Station.

Major Beckley was no novice to duty at Camp Lejeune. After receiving her commission at Mt. Holyoke, Mass., in 1943, she arrived here for duty as the Postal Officer of the Marine Corps Schools and in 1944, became Executive Officer of the WR Battalion until her discharge in December of the following year.

A school teacher with the Johnstown Public School System, she returned to the Marine Corps, this time receiving a Captain's commission in the regular Marines.

In July of this year, Major Beckley accepted the task of preparing living quarters for the Women Reservists, and with the aid of two enlisted women, Cpl. Fox and TSgt. Schirmer, not only accomplished the task, but also was instrumental in getting the women assigned and squared away into an efficient outfit.

Corps will issue all orders for commissioned officers called to active duty. The orders will be forwarded via District Directors.

Generally, the same regulations governing the mobilization of enlisted Reservists, including initial deployment assignments, requests for delay, etc., also pertain to commissioned officers called to active duty.

ENLISTED ASSIGNMENTS
Enlisted Volunteer Reservists ordered to extended active duty will be assigned to initial duty stations according to military experience and geographical location of residence.

Those having no prior active service in the Marine Corps or Marine Corps Reserve, or an individual with prior Marine Corps experience who did not complete recruit training will be ordered to a Marine Corps Recruit Depot.

Reservists with non-aviation Military Occupational Specialties, who are not ordered to recruit training, will be assigned to Camp Lejeune, N. C. or Camp Pendleton, Calif., based on geographic considerations.

Generally, those residing east of the Mississippi River will go to Camp Lejeune, while those in the west will be sent to Camp Pendleton.

Enlisted Volunteers possessing an aviation Military Occupational Specialty and who are not ordered to recruit training will be ordered to Air, Fleet Marine Force, Atlantic, at Marine Corps Air Station, Cherry Point, N. C., or Air, Fleet Marine Force, Pacific, at Marine Corps Air Station, El Toro, Calif., in accordance with their geographic location as previously outlined.

tion of its former head, Mr. Frank P. O'Crowley. The purpose of the committee will be to aid all servicemen in this area in every way possible. Mr. Farrell added that the Chamber of Commerce invites all married men stationed at Camp Lejeune who have quarters problems to get in touch with his office, and every effort will be made to accommodate them with housing.

The Commander of the American Legion Post 10 in Wilmington, Mr. Leonard W. Barrett, who is also district officer of the North-Carolina Veteran's Commission, placed his offices at the disposal of the marines. The Wilmington address of the commission is: 710 Murchison Building.

The office is open five days a week, from 0830 to 1730 (EST). One branch office is available to Camp Lejeune. It is located in the Onslow County Courthouse in Jacksonville and the hours are 0900 to 1730, five days a week and on Saturday mornings, 0900 to 1300 (EST).

The services of the commission are available to veterans of any war, and also to servicemen. Mr. Barrett invited the marines to use the facilities of the American Legion Home, located at South 3rd and Dock Streets. Another invitation to marines was extended by the Veterans of Foreign Wars to make use of the local club.

An invitation to all Marines was extended by Mr. Randy Hamilton, City Manager of Carolina Beach, to enjoy the facilities there for the September-October season. He pointed out that the Beach was going to stay in operation as long as the weather permitted; which he added, "will be for some time to come."

The Mayor of Wrightsville Beach, N. C., the Honorable J. K. Taylor, Jr., cited the exemplary conduct of the Marines there. He said that Camp Lejeune men were always welcome to enjoy the recreational facilities of the resort.

Ten Week Summary Of Korean War

During the first ten weeks of the Korean war (up to 2400 Korean time 2 Sept.)—United Nations carrier-based aircraft destroyed 74 North Korean aircraft, 136 locomotives and hundreds of railroad cars, small vessels, trucks, warehouses and other enemy installations.

Surface naval units and carrier based aircraft were credited with destruction or damage of: 89 tanks, 1,439 railroad cars, 167 bridges, 1,429 vehicles of all types, 133 artillery or machine gun positions, 229 warehouses, 41 power plants, 340 enemy surface vessels and numerous key industrial installations. Seven complete railroad trains were destroyed, 5 damaged and 1 captured. Naval units killed 1,563 enemy troops and captured 52 prisoners.

During this ten-week period the U. S. Navy has had not only the primary responsibility for maintaining control of the seas and the air above sea areas on an extended line of communications which runs some 5,000 miles, but also was charged with covering and supporting operations in Korea and preventing any attack on Formosa.

In the course of its covering operations, the 7th Fleet has effected virtually a complete blockade of Korea, while carrying out its assigned task of preventing any attack on Formosa. This blockade has been augmented by units of other United Nations surface forces, including ROK Navy units operating with the 7th Fleet, as well as by extensive aerial patrols and reconnaissance by land-based naval aircraft.

Shore bombardments, both in support of ground troops and on targets of opportunity by United Nations surface units have been frequent and extremely effective. Naval gunfire against enemy troop concentrations and equipment has prevented use of coastal roads extremely important to enemy operations, in many instances preventing the advance of enemy troops in coastal areas. Naval gunfire on the east coast of Korea was called "terrific" by artillery authorities, and was credited with stopping the Communist advance in that area during the week of July 16-22.

On the west coast, United Nations naval forces have inflicted extensive damage to military installations and coastal traffic, especially in the vicinity of Inchon, the port for Seoul.

The sea lift of the First Cavalry Division to Pohang on 18 July was an impressive operation in which not a single person was injured. This operation was remarkable in that it was accomplished after only a ten-day preparation period instead of the usual two to three months of planning and preparation customary in such amphibious operations.

Naval units also supported the movement of the ROK ground forces which had been surrounded in the Yongdok area and evacuated them by sea. A Navy helicopter evacuated ROK troops who were severely wounded and who could not have been removed any other way. The water evacuation of the 3rd Republic of Korea Division from Yongdok area was completed on 19 August with all troops, vehicles, ammunition and supplies safely removed.

(The above figures include damage inflicted by Marine aircraft operating from carriers. They do not include reports of Marine air units under the operational control of the 5th Air Force or Marine ground units.)

(Editor's Note: The letters ROK as referred to in this article stands for the Republic Of Korea, or the South Korean Army.)

the identical twin brothers, familiarly known around England circuit as "Lenny

2 tons of Rythmn", are in the new year with her husband by delivering into the world two bouncing, bundles of joy. Allen saw ole man 1928 pick up his transfer papers and his buddie, Sumner came in just in time to greet the new recruit.

The Woolf's sensed that their boys seemed destined for more than a normal childhood when they began to show an early flair for entertainment. It was as early as the third grade in grammar school that Sumner decided that the drums were for him; Allen, not to be outdone reciprocated by unleashing hot licks on the trumpet.

In short order they amalgamated their instruments with their voices and feet and began to work up a song, dance and impersonation routine, giving their impressions of famous dance bands and personalities.

Although the twins were too young to contribute fire power, during the past war, they did the next best thing, and travelled the U. S. O. circuit; playing bond rallies and hospitals. Over all the boys helped to raise well over $100,000 for the government.

But the call to colors was too much for the rambunctious "Woolves." They enlisted in the Marine Corps in 1946, and immediately shipped to Parris Island, S. C., for "Boot" training. With their extensive background in show business it wasn't long before they were entertaining the troops at the numerous Marine Corps bases. When they landed at Camp Pendleton, Calif., they helped put together a variety show that was so well received that it was held over six extra days.

They pulled their last duty on Guam before discharge in 1949. They decided to settle down to a peaceful years duty at Bryant College in Providence, R. I., majoring in Business, Administration. When the 155 Howitzer Battalion, Organized Marine Corps Reserve, from Providence was activated August 7, 1950, the Woolf brothers were right along with them.

On reporting to this base, they were assigned to the Second Marine Division Band . . . Sumner with the drum section and brother Allen fingering the trumpet. During off duty hours the twins can be seen and heard practicing their act down in band building 328 . . . It seems that ole show "biz" is biting again. Anybody interested in "Lenny and Larry, two tons of rythmn?"

Household Effects

In order that household effects of families leaving Camp Lejeune area may be shipped to an address within the United States or to Camp Pendleton, as selected by the owner or dependent, it will be necessary that the Shipping and Receiving Section of the Marine Corps Supply Depot be furnished 10 certified copies of travel orders (or certificates in lieu thereof), and 10 signed transportation request forms (NAVMC 150-QM). The transportation forms may be obtained at Shipping and Receiving Section, Marine Corps Supply Depot. Shipments within authorized weight allowance for rank will be made at government expense.

When the Marine Corps has no available storage facilities for the household effects, and government facilities of other branches of the Armed Services are not available, temporary commercial storage not in excess of 6 months will be authorized at government expense. Commercial storage will be authorized only on authority of the local Shipping Officer, Shipping and Receiving Section, Marine Corps Supply Depot. Six months' storage of household effects will be authorized at Camp Lejeune as long as, and if such space is available. This information must be obtained from the Shipping and Receiving Section, Marine Corps Supply Depot. Camp Lejeune has no contract with any commercial storage companies due to the distance from Camp Lejeune to those cities where storage firms are located. Camp Pendleton has authority for commercial storage in the San Diego and Los Angeles areas. For packing and crating dates, please contact the Shipping and Receiving Section, Marine Corps Supply Depot.

Plans Discussed

... Patient Of The Week ...

He is rather thin, short in stature, with a shock of red hair, and eyes that look right through you, but pleasing eyes which bespeak kindness. And he is determined that when he is discharged from the service within a few weeks, that he is going to be what he has planned for years—in his own words, "a medical missionary."

Marine Pfc. Zachary Taylor Wester, Jr. has seen more than three years in the corps, having enlisted 14 July, 1947 at Tampa, Fla. He is now a patient on Ward 15 at the U. S. Naval Hospital, being hospitalized in July—the third time in his career. He now is attached to a Casual Company and awaiting discharge, but he originally served in the Second Medical Bn., and saw action overseas with the Ninth Marines.

"Zack", as he is known to his friends in the service, received his boot training at Parris Island, S. C., then went to the Great Lakes Naval Station where he studied for a radio technician for a nine month period then, at his request, was transferred and attached to the FMF and served in the Pacific area. He saw service on Guam and was in China—Shanghai and Tsingtao. His voyage back to the states took 46 days by way of the Panama Canal. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Z. T. Wester, reside in Tampa, where his father is engaged in the furniture business. The Marine was born on 9 June, 1929, at Ellaville, Ga., and is really a native of the "Cracker" state, but he went with his parents to Tampa at the age of four years, so to him, naturally, he calls Tampa "home."

He received all of his schooling in Tampa, graduating from Hillsborough High in 1946. He had approximately a year's study in chemical engineering at the John B. Stetson University, DeLand, Fla.

When he is discharged, "Zack" intends to finish his education at Tampa University (a pre-med course) and then hopes to go on to Baylor University at Waco, Texas, for medical training, and to the Southwestern Baptist Seminary at Fort Worth, Tex., for furtherance of this training. He prefers to be known then as a "medical missionary."

The young Marine is very active in religious work. Every Sabbath Day he will be found in the congregation of the Jacksonville Baptist church, where the Rev. L. Grady Burgess is pastor. On Sunday evenings, and again on Wednesday evenings, he sponsors the Intermediate Training Union held at the church, and which is usually attended by approximately 25 or more young people between the ages of 13 to 17. On Saturday night (See PATIENT Page 4)

Discipline - - - Leadership

In a military organization, the achievement of the mission of the unit is the first concern, and getting that done frequently justifies the means you use in doing it. In times of emergency, military leaders cannot concern themselves with the individual member's desire for self-expression. They must, instead, direct every effort toward the major objective—protection of the Nation from the ravages of an Enemy.

When you joined the Marine Corps, you moved from a democratic into a military society. During your time in the Marine Corps, you will be guided by regulations which are designed to (1) give the Marine Corps an orderly appearance, (2) assure the high efficiency of the organization, and (3) demonstrate to you how the rigid regulation of the Marine Corps assists the leader in doing the best possible job. The regulations, and discipline which is instilled by learning obedience to them, make the Marine Corps more efficient than the democratic society. All military procedure and discipline is orderly. If disorder is apparent, the leader senses that something is wrong, and takes steps to re-establish efficiency. Once the trouble is located and corrected, the organization quickly regains its orderly appearance.

PURPOSE OF DISCIPLINE

The very foundation of a military organization is discipline, which is brought about through willing obedience to duly constituted authority. In the military, there is no place for the questioning of authority. The responsibility which falls upon the commander, and upon no one else, makes it imperative that every individual under his command obeys implicitly and without questioning. As one great leader said, "He who commands, must first learn to follow." This is quite true.

Your training in the Marine Corps is designed to teach you the proper respect for regulations and authority. Without this respect, you can never become a leader. The efficient coordination of the Marine Corps is predicated on team-work and subordination. These are obtained only through discipline.

To the average person the word "Discipline" suggests severity and unreasonable curtailment of freedom, unnecessary restraints on personal conduct, endless restrictions and required adherence to arbitrary and unreasonable demands of authority. Actually discipline is the basis of true democracy, and everyone is subject to some sort of discipline. It is not limited to military organizations. It is present to a greater or lesser extent in any civilized society. The desirable and Happy Marine is one who has a proper concept of discipline.

"Zack" is attending the Onslow County Youth for Christ service, where R. B. (Jack) Turney, is director.

Here is a young Marine who knows and expounds the theory that you cannot live physically fit unless first you are spiritually prepared; that God should be a daily companion with human beings rather than The One to call upon only when confronted with problems that they feel they cannot solve.

"If men and women everywhere, in the service and out," said this Marine, "were to take God into their hearts, utterly live with Him, and have faith in His word, this whole world would be so much happier a place for all of us. After all, God is love, and His way and His teachings will never lead one astray."

Sufferin' Snakes .

Labor Day turned out to be "Belabored Day" to a two-foot black and white snake. The reptile was crawling around under a bush outside of the civilian cafeteria at approximately 2000 last Monday night when he was spied by four Marines.

The Marines, unidentified, recruited the aid of a flashlight from a passing motorist, and a butt box. One of the men dropped the butt box on the snake's neck and then hollered "What do I do now?"

Another of the other Marines solved the problem by securing the snake's neck with a forked stick while another put the finishing touches on the job by holding a "troop and stomp" on its head.

The reptile done in and passing women pacified, the four men, snake in hand, vanished into the dark night.

Midway Park

By Recreational Director

Welcome to our new teachers of Midway Park and Camp Lejeune. We anticipate a very active school year which borderslines on our recreational programs which promise to excel those of the past four years.

We are fortunate in having the Youth Conservation Committee of the Midway Park Woman's Club interested in the programs for the youth. This is not the work of one or two people, it takes the combined efforts of groups who are interested in the children of their community. We are grateful for this help. Mrs. Mark Raney, chairman of this community has extensive plans for the coming season.

A dance, the first of the season will be held in the Community Building on Friday evening, Oct. 15th at 8 p.m., EST. This affair is sponsored by the Midway Park Woman's Club.

Our Scout program for Boys and Girls is well on the way to being the best ever.

Parents are requested to sign the consent card your child will bring to you for your signature in the very near future. It is our aim and purpose that every boy and girl of age be a scout.

Mr. Hennesy of Piney Green has organized a group of colored boy scouts for the Piney Green section. This promises to be a fine troop.

Women Marines

By Pfc. Gertrude Wolf

The lights were glowing brightly at Marston Pavilion last Thursday night when the Women Marines arrived at a party, given in their honor by the Staff NCO's Wives.

The WR's really enjoyed themselves, especially when eating the 40 pound cake that was cut by Sgt. Dot Carty. Dot's bunkie, Pfc. Mary Jane Johnston also got in the limelight by winning the Jitterbug dance and a door prize. Pfc. Martha Frye saw a pink elephant that evening—her prize for "jet-terbugging"?

More than any prize, we all greatly appreciated the friendly greeting. To the Staff NCO's Wives we can only say, "Thank You".

Inter-service cooperation was evidenced when Pfc. Maureen Tirpak, WAF, was granted leave by the Air Force at Mitchell Field, to visit her brother, Pfc. Stephen Tirpak, who is a patient in the Naval Hospital.

If atmospheric conditions are right tonight, we will all journey to Hospital Point for our Get-Together Picnic. We plan to "cook our own", toast marshmallows and then play a violent game of volley ball to wear off all the recently consumed calories.

Our barracks played host to two members of the instructional staff of the WOTC at Quantico. Sgt. Grace Karl and Cpl. Mary Thompson, are on their way to Parris Island where they will assist in the training program for women recruits.

It is a pleasure to welcome aboard Capt. Fisher, who is to be our new Women Officer in Charge.

It is with a great deal of regret that the women of Barracks 63 say goodbye to Major Pauline Beckley, who leaves for Parris Island where she will be in charge of Women Marines. The appearance of the barracks and the general attitude of the women are certainly a reflection of her tireless efforts to help square us away in record time. Good Luck, Major!

Here are some of the latest books received, and a brief synopsis on them:

KOREA: by G. N. McCune. An up to date description of the nation, its people, customs and resources, and the events leading up to the current conflict. A must for future Marine "tourists".

DRUMS AGAINST FRONTENAC: by Harvey Chalmers. An historical novel for readers who like to relive the hardships of the pre-revolution times. Describes the campaigns against French Canada by the Americans and British led by Generals Abercrombie and Bradstreet marking the end of the French Regime in Canada.

MANGUS THE MAGNIFICENT: by L. T. White. Blood brother to "Lord Johnnie", disappointed in love, Mangus turns to the high seas and swashbuckling adventure. After a life of danger and romance, Mangus meets "the girl" and marries her. Good reading for "Blood and Romance" fans.

THE STUBBORN HEART: by F. G. Slaughter. The travails of an ex-Confederate Army surgeon in re-suming civilian life during the turbulent days of the "Reconstruction Period". The hero battles the Klux-Klan and faces a choice between his wife and the woman he loves.

FLOODTIDE: by Frank Yerby. The author of such novels as "The Foxes of Harrow" and "The Golden Hawk" tells of the social climb of a quick-tongued, sly young rogue and of the women who help him achieve his goal.

WORLD ENOUGH AND TIME: by R. P. Warren, author of "All the King's Men". A love story set in Kentucky during the late 1830's about a young man who falls in love with a woman he has never seen and how he woos her. This is a story marked by human violence and a surprise ending that makes it really worth-while reading.

The Globe Sports

Sports At A Glance . . .

By Sgt. Dick Murphy

The intermural sports picture received a shot in the arm this week when a Camp Training Memorandum was issued by Brigadier General John T. Selden. The memo, directed toward improving the physical condition of the men stationed here, particularly mentioned that an active athletic program be instigated. This program would include: baseball, softball, swimming, tennis, touch football, volley ball, basketball and golf.

Although boxing and wrestling were not specifically mentioned, it is believed that they will be included in the general intermural sports set-up. It is too early to be thinking of these two sports as far as participation is concerned, however, the groundwork is laid and plans are formulated to put them on a varsity status. This is borne out by the fact that Special Services has a schedule all drawn up for the wrestling team.

The memorandum also stated that practice marches will be made so as to insure that all men be capable of performing a minimum march of 12 miles in a 5 hour period. I don't know about the rest of you fans, but this Mack Truck Model Marine is going to develop more muscles than a ballerina's thighs.

ONCE IN A LIFETIME

Master Sergeant H. D. O'Hara, H&S Co., 6th Marines, experienced a "Once in a lifetime" thrill last September 3rd when he blasted a hole in one on the Camp Lejeune golf course. His drive of 183 yards dropped into the cup on the number two green and, get this duffers—on the fly, O'Hara even has two witnesses to prove it: MSgt. James Reddock and MSgt. James Hogseti.

Sgt. O'Hara's fete was the first hole in one on the Camp course since a Fort Bragg sergeant took a "one" hole early in the spring. He finally finished the 18 in a neat 84.

Seems as though everyone is going great guns out on that course. On the day before Sgt. O'Hara's hole-in-one, Lt. C. S. McKenna spent a very nice day when he tied the course record with a 65. McKenna six under parred the 71 par course with a 33 out and a 32 in. The record was set in 1943 by Master Sergeant C. A. Adams former NCI in charge of the golf course.

HUNTERS AWAKE

Now that we are fast approaching the hunting season and "the word" is being passed concerning the rules and regulations of base boondocking for chow, it might interest some of you more ardent followers of the sport to know that there have been some pretty fine looking deer spotted out on the road to Courthouse Bay.

SCHEDULE CHANGES

During the past week two new schedule changes have been made in the varsity football line-up.

Saturday, September 23, will see the airmen from Eglin Air Force Base, Pensacola, Fla., on our home grounds.

Saturday, December 3, Lejeune will journey to Macon, Ga., to tangle with the Warner Robbins Air Force Base team there.

Sgt. Jimmy Warren Pride Of N. Y. On Active Duty Here

With an estimated 400 bouts under his belt since starting at the age of 13, Sergeant James (Jimmy) Warren, of Brooklyn, N. Y., has had 80 professional battles—the most recent a ten-round go with the former featherweight champ, Willie Pep, at Miami last February.

"Jimmy" arrived in Camp Lejeune three weeks ago with Brooklyn's 19th Infantry Battalion, and was assigned to Special Services. This quiet-spoken, mild-mannered fellow would have gone unnoticed if a member of the "Globe" staff had not recognized the name.

Holder of the New York Journal-American's Diamond Belt, "Jimmy" was managed by "Joe" Capp, veteran fight manager and well-known figure along New York's Jacob's Beach.

In order to keep in fighting trim,

Warren took a job in a New York brewery, handling heavy beer kegs eight hours a day. That this training helped him is attested by his spectacular record of sixty-four wins out of eighty professional fights. The "Battling Brewer" has met almost every outstanding boxer in his class, but he is particularly remembered for his fight with "Paddy" DeMarco.

Warren was acquainted with the late Laverne Roach, ex-Marine boxer.

"Jimmy" joined the Navy Construction Battalion in December, 1943. His talents led him to be chosen as boxing instructor and manager of a CB boxing team. While attached to the Seabees Jimmy saw service in New Guinea and the Philippines. He was discharged in December, 1946.

When asked why he picked the Marine Corps this time, Jimmy said, "I know that the Marines are trained to a great degree of superiority, not only physically as individuals, but as a highly coordinated team. I have seen them perform and prove the worth of this training. Learning that the Corps recognizes the value of sports as an integral part of this making of men, I wanted to share in the instruction, if I was accepted."

Eglin AFB Schedule For Sept 23 At Home

Camp Lejeune's gridiron gladiators have completed their first week of scrimmage, the first of the season and they are shaping up into a well-oiled machine. The pressure was increased this week with the announcement that the first game of the season would be played here at Lejeune and against the airmen of the Eglin Air Force Base at Pensacola, Fla. on Saturday, September 23, which leaves only 16 days 'till opening kickoff.

The initial scrimmage, which took place last Friday afternoon, was lacking in all the finesse of a seasoned squad. This, however, is evident in nearly all first-of-the-year work-outs. It served to convince Head Coach Major Andruska that there is a lot of work and not too much time before the September 23rd opener.

Saturday's scrimmage was a vast improvement over the offensive wore on, definite football abilities began to develop. "Blues" and the "Whites" in their noggin-knockin'.

A few of the standouts were Bill Minihan, the returning letterman year's championship team terrific quarterback on Grover Martin, halfback Roanoke, Va., who also outstanding game on offense Wagner, a hard plunging who should really go pl season; and Val Criado, and ready Texan, who has the other halfback position fence.

Also noted for their performance were backfield Ed Ahonen, Bill Moran, Mahoney, who will work slot field general's position Minihan.

The line is fast shaping up. Major Dick Opp, Line Coach, well pleased with the improvement of the play since Friday. A few of the last minutes were removed and now have settled down to solid and vicious blocking.

Outstanding in the line Ken Schoff at center, filled in for Rick McMurry left a wide gap in the line he was transferred at the beginning of this season.

Big Rufe Williams, tackle and holdover last season, will retain the line in the lineup. They could show the bone-crushing tackling that was evident in Lejeune's '49 impenetrable line.

Fortunately for Lejeune have been no serious injuries, the usual run of bruises and pulled ligaments have minor and no men have because of them. Captain Williams, backfield coach, bemoaning the loss of John All-Scholastic football Philadelphia, Pa., who was with a suspected hernia as we go to press. The that Kitabjan will be in Eglin game.

The two-day practice continued right up until the AFB game.

NCAA Announces New Rules For 1950 Football

The National Collegiate Athletic Association, the final word on who does what and how in college football, has recently published the 1950 Official Rule Book. The 83-page manual lists 19 major changes incorporated into the 1950 rules.

The new rule that will probably prove most advantageous for our Camp Lejeune team is the one covering Free Time Outs. The new NCAA rule book states, in part: "Each team is entitled to five free time outs during each half without penalty." It goes on to say "If the ball is dead and a team has not exhausted its five free time outs, the referee shall allow a free time-out and charge that team:

1. When requested by its field captain.
2. When an eligible substitute enters the field while the game clock is running and before the ball is ready for play."

Major Andruska, head coach of the Lejeune squad, anticipates that this new ruling will mean a possible five or ten yards advantage in each game. Of course, the rule works for both teams; but while using the two-platoon system, under which our eleven will operate, that yardage can win ball games.

Another new ruling is one rewritten to curb the use of elbows in offensive blocking and facilitate the detection of fouls by officials. The ruling states, in effect, that in offensive blocking, the hands must be kept in contact with the body. However, in a crab or body block, it is not required that this contact be maintained. In no block may the hands be locked.

A brief resume of the remaining rule changes is:

1. No outsider within Limit Lines. (A distance of five feet from the sidelines and endzones).
2. Hazardous markers or obstructions prohibited within the playing enclosure.
3. Knee braces of hard mater-provided that he post a bond conditioned upon presentation of the property as evidence at the trial. For major offenses, the court at its discretion, may order the property sold, after guilt has been established. For minor offenses, the property may be ordered to be returned to the owner.

Silencer Unlawful: It is unlawful to hunt with any firearms equipped with a silencer of any type. Penalty for violation, $100.00 minimum fine or imprisonment for 60 days, or both.

Here is a little advice for all hunters to remember: "More Sport for More People—Equal Opportunity for All."

is permitted if covered with 1/2 inch soft padding.

4. The fair catch abolished.
5. Amended to prescribe a mandatory time-out if Team A recovers and downs its own free kick in the field-of-play.
6. Former penalties for violation of the substitution rule deleted and such violations penalized as illegal delay.
7. Ruling amended to include substitutions by a team with less than 11 players on the field.
8. Prior touching by Team B beyond the neutral zone (area between two lines of scrimmage) a requirement for a first down when Team A recovers and downs its own scrimmage kick behind the neutral zone.
9. A free kick becoming dead with no player in possession now governed by a new article.
10. Former free kick provisions eliminated entirely, but an article providing protection from the receiving team's opportunity to catch any kick retained.
11. Cancels commonly called "offside" fouls by opponents when snapper moves ball illegally.
12. New procedure following a foul committed on a try-off-point.
13. New rule gives both the kicker and holder of a place-kick equal protection.
14. Prohibits interference with play by substitutes.
15. Prohibitions on flying blocks and tackles deleted from rule book.
