Fort McCoy's mission is to strengthen Total Force Readiness by serving as a training center, mobilization force generation installation, and strategic support area.

As a Total Force Training Center, Fort McCoy's primary responsibility is to support the training and readiness of military personnel and units of all branches and components of America's armed forces. Fort McCoy is a Mobilization Force Generation Installation prepared to support contingency operations as ordered.

As a world-class installation, Fort McCoy's continuing goal is to provide excellent customer service and facilities and to enhance the quality of life for all who train, work, play, or live here. The Fort McCoy community truly is unique, with active, reserve, and civilian components working together for the betterment of all facets of life at the installation.

Training Opportunities

Located in the heart of the upper Midwest, Fort McCoy is the only U.S. Army installation in Wisconsin. Fort McCoy lives its motto, "Total Force Training Center." The installation has provided support and facilities for the field and classroom training of more than 100,000 military personnel from all services each year since 1984. A record 155,975 service members trained at the post in fiscal year 2017.

The Fort McCoy complex is situated on approximately 60,000 acres, 46,000 of which are contiguous live-fire and maneuver areas. Fort McCoy's superb location, quality terrain, and four-season climate provide units with significant year-round training opportunities.

Fort McCoy provides reserve- and active-component forces with the networked, integrated, interoperable training resources required to support the Army's training strategies using a full spectrum of facilities, ranges, and training areas.

Fort McCoy offers an environment for units to train on unified land operations across the range of military operations, allowing simultaneous conduct of individual- through brigade-level training, static live fire, maneuver live fire, and force-on-force in both urban and unimproved terrain.

Fort McCoy has 31 live-fire ranges, 17 of which are automated or instrumented; 21 artillery firing points; 12 mortar firing points; and an 8,000-acre impact area. Ranges supporting collective live-fire training include two multipurpose training ranges, a convoy live-fire range, an infantry platoon and squad battle course, three multipurpose machine-gun ranges, two live-fire shoot houses, and a live-fire breach facility.

Individual qualification ranges include facilities for modified record-fire, automated record-fire, and 10-meter/25-meter rifle zero range for open and optic sights, as well as a qualification training facility with modified record-fire and combat pistol/military police qualification-course capability.

Fort McCoy has extensive urban and rural training facilities.

To support urban training the post offers two fully instrumented urban training sites, a 25-building Combined Arms Collective Training Facility (CACTF), a 20-building Collective Training Facility, and three wireless instrumented Combat in the Cities facilities with a total of 309 buildings.

These co-located facilities provide an urban training area with a continuous 2.4-kilometer capability for mounted and dismounted urban training scenarios. Three after-action review facilities provide on-site, immediate feedback capabilities. An urban assault course and two live-fire shoot houses round out the urban training capability.

Seven training areas were constructed to provide rural training capability. These include walled farm villages with planted crops; one is instrumented with wireless technology.

Specialized training sites include an Unmanned Aerial Systems strip; a semi-improved airstrip with a Seizure/Forced-Entry training site; a Search/Site Exploitation Facility; two tunnel systems; an engineer water-bridging site; and two wireless, instrumented Home Station Training Lanes (HSTL). Each 8-kilometer HSTL includes overpasses, bridges, canals, six urban villages, traffic circles, guard rails, culverts, and divided roadways.

More than $38 million was invested recently to improve and upgrade the Range Complex, including a Known Distance range, an Automated Record Fire range, and the CACTF.

Fort McCoy also is home to a number of Army, Department of Defense, and state activities that further broaden the scope of training and support available on the installation.

These include the 86th Training Division, 88th Readiness Division, 181st Multi-Functional Training Brigade, Army & Air Force

HISTORY

Serving America's armed forces since 1909

Fort McCoy is named for Robert Bruce McCoy.

The son of a Civil War captain, McCoy was a prominent local resident who, throughout his lifetime, served as a lawyer; district attorney; county judge; and mayor of Sparta, Wis.

He reached the rank of major general during his 31 years of distinguished military service, which included service in the Spanish-American War, the police action in Mexico, and World War I.

McCoy returned from the Spanish-American War with a dream. He knew that as warfare became increasingly more modern, larger and more powerful guns would be developed, and training would be emphasized. He envisioned these changes would require larger training areas, and, by 1905, he had acquired approximately 4,000 acres of land in the Sparta area.

Maj. Samuel Allen of the 7th Field Artillery at Fort Snelling, Minn., also admired the terrain of the Sparta area for its training value. McCoy invited Allen's unit to put his family's ranch to the test during 16 days of training. September 1905 marked the first use of the land for military purposes.

As a result of the 16-day test, Allen recommended to an Army review board that a large piece of land be purchased for an artillery camp. Approximately 14,000 acres of land, including McCoy's property, were purchased in 1909. The resulting parcel was called the Sparta Maneuver Tract.

The Sparta Maneuver Tract was divided approximately in half by the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific Railroad. The maneuver camp situated on the northern half of the parcel was referred to as Camp Emory Upton, while that to the south was known as Camp Robinson, an artillery camp.

In 1910, the War Department authorized $40,000 for construction and improvements to the area. The camp officially was designated Camp McCoy on Nov. 19, 1926, in honor of Maj. Gen. Robert B. McCoy, who had died that same year.

More than 45,000 acres were added between 1938 and 1942. Unlike any other acquisition of sub-marginal farm land by the federal government, the Camp McCoy project envisioned the use of the land for military purposes as well as fishing, hunting and forest production.

In February 1942, the War Department announced the building of a cantonment area referred to as the "New Camp," which still serves as the installation's cantonment area today. These additions included construction of the large, triangular-shaped cantonment area, known as the "triad."

Camp McCoy was used as a training facility for many World War II units, including the 2nd Infantry Division; the 76th Infantry Division; and the 100th Infantry Battalion, which comprised Hawaii National Guardsmen of Japanese ancestry and was among the most decorated units in history. The post also served as a prisoner-of-war and enemy-alien prison camp during this time.

Aside from temporary lulls, the installation has been in almost constant use since its founding in 1909 and has provided artillery and maneuver training opportunities for millions of military personnel from all services.

Camp McCoy was aligned under U.S. Army Forces Command on July 1, 1973, and officially was re-designated as Fort McCoy on Sept. 30, 1974. In 1990-91, during Operations Desert Shield/Storm, Soldiers from 74 separate units and their equipment were deployed and redeployed at Fort McCoy.

From June 1991 through June 1992, the post also completed Operation Desert Fix, which was one of the largest reserve-component equipment demobilization/repair missions in the Army. During Desert Fix, Fort McCoy was responsible for inventorying, inspecting, repairing, and returning more than a division-and-a-half's worth of equipment to 121 owning units located throughout a nine-state area.

The 1990s ushered in the first great construction growth experienced at the post since the construction of the cantonment area in 1942.

From 1990 to the present day, new construction projects have served to modernize the post's infrastructure, facilities, and training areas. The hundreds of millions of dollars invested in the post have benefited Fort McCoy as well the local economy, with the majority of the new construction contracts having been awarded to regional firms. The installation has provided support and facilities for the training of more than 100,000 personnel annually since 1984.

Fort McCoy was realigned under what is now known as the Installation Management Command (IMCOM) in 2002. On March 8, 2019, Installation Management Command became a subordinate command to Army Materiel Command, which Fort McCoy is also now aligned under through IMCOM.

Today, Fort McCoy's primary mission is to support the readiness of the force by serving as a training center, mobilization force generation installation, and strategic support area. The installation has served in a continuing capacity as an Army power-projection site by processing and preparing military personnel for duty in overseas contingency operations.

From Sept. 11, 2001, through Dec. 30, 2011, 140,197 military personnel from 2,416 units mobilized or demobilized at Fort McCoy during the installation's efforts to support the war on terrorism.

In September 2014, the movie "Fort McCoy" was released. "Fort McCoy" is a drama written, co-produced, and co-directed by Kate Connor, who also stars in the film, playing her real-life grandmother. The film, based on a true story, is set in the summer of 1944, with Connor sharing the experience of her mother's family with the U.S. Army and prisoner-of-war camp situated at the Wisconsin post.

Today, the post provides full-scale support to its customers at each juncture of its training triad — transient, institutional, and exercise. Fort McCoy training levels reached an all-time record in fiscal year 2017 with 155,975 personnel participating in training.

ATTRactions

Whitetail Ridge Ski Area

Fort McCoy's Whitetail Ridge Ski Area provides the Fort McCoy community and the public with multiple opportunities for outdoor recreation. The 200-acre facility also is used for military training.

Slopes & Chalet

Whitetail Ridge is open from approximately mid-December through mid-March, weather permitting. Snow-making and snow-grooming equipment located on site keeps slopes in optimum condition. More than 10,000 people enjoy the facility each year. The area also is accessible by snowmobile when the state-wide groomed snowmobile trail network is open.

Downhill skiers and snowboarders of all skill levels will find three groomed and lighted ski runs — the longest exceeding 1,300 feet — equipped with a self-loading T-bar lift. The vertical drop of the slope is more than 185 feet. A terrain park also is available to snowboarders.

The facility is ideal for those new to winter sports. Instructors are available for Ski/Snowboarding lessons, please book in advance.

The facility is recognized by the National Ski Patrol, and patrol members monitor activity on the slopes to promote safety and to attend to any injuries.

Snow tubers can enjoy the excitement of sliding down a 1,000-foot slope. The six tubing runs are equipped with a Magic Carpet lift, making the journey to the top of the hill as enjoyable as the trip down.

When natural snow conditions are sufficient, cross-country skiers have access to more than 5 miles of groomed trails. Snowshoers also will find opportunities for fun.

The Whitetail Ridge Chalet provides an indoor respite. In addition to providing a break from the cold, the family-friendly area of the facility serves a variety of food and beverages and has large windows allowing views of the activities outdoors.

The Ten-Point Pub is open Thursday-Sunday each weekend for adults to stop in and enjoy and adult beverage, one of our signature sandwiches, and a cozy seating area around the fireplace to warm up.

Lift tickets and on-site equipment rental are available at daily or seasonal rates. Whitetail Ridge facilities also are available at special rates for group functions.

Paintball & Laser Tag

Tactics Paintball and Laser Tag also is located at Whitetail Ridge. Groups of six or more can be accommodated April-November. Reservations are required 48 hours in advance.

Whitetail Ridge is operated as a nonappropriated-fund activity, and all improvements to this recreation area are paid for using nonappropriated-fund dollars.

Public website

Fort McCoy's public website, home.army.mil/mccoy, is a communication tool to maintain a connection with the public and the global audience 24/7/365. The website serves to enhance understanding of Fort McCoy's strategic vision, missions, and roles supporting America's armed forces.

It also serves as an online portal that provides basic levels of information and points of contact for the public, current and potential customers, and members of the installation community.

The Real McCoy

As Fort McCoy's only newspaper, The Real McCoy covers news in the community like nobody else! A civilian-enterprise printing contract ensures the newspaper is printed at no cost to the government and that sufficient numbers of copies are available for all who live, work, train, or visit here.

The workforce can expect to receive a copy through official mail/distribution channels. Copies are available around post in high-traffic areas, including the Exchange, Commissary, McCoy's Community Center, Rumpel Fitness Center, etc. The online edition is available at home.army.mil/mccoy.

Digital Garrison app

The Digital Garrison app is now available and provides handy information about any IMCOM installation, whether you're visiting or stationed there. The app can be downloaded via your phone's app store. Once it's downloaded, choose "Fort McCoy" for information about services, locations, and more.

Fort McCoy on DVIDS

News, information, and photos about Fort McCoy can also be found on the installation's page on the Defense Video and Imagery Distribution System. Visit the page at www.dvidshub.net/unit/FMPAO.

Social media

Fort McCoy operates two official social-media sources for the garrison: www.facebook.com/ftmccoy and www.twitter.com/usagmccoy. Several tenant organizations also operate social-media accounts.

Fort McCoy TV 6

While you're at Fort McCoy, tune into channel 6 to see programming on this closed-circuit, command-access channel. A community bulletin board and pre-recorded presentations/content are featured around the clock.
