OVERVIEW

Welcome to Fort McCoy! Fort McCoy's mission is to strengthen Total Force Readiness by serving as a training center, mobilization force generation installation, and strategic support area. As a Total Force Training Center, Fort McCoy's primary responsibility is to support the training and readiness of military personnel and units of all branches and components of America's armed forces. Fort McCoy is a Mobilization Force Generation Installation prepared to support contingency operations as ordered.

As a world-class installation, Fort McCoy's continuing goal is to provide excellent customer service and facilities and to enhance the quality of life for all who train, work, play, or live here. The Fort McCoy community truly is unique, with active, reserve, and civilian components working together for the betterment of all facets of life at the installation.

Fort McCoy is the only Army installation in the state of Wisconsin. Located close to the intersection of two major interstates (I-90 & I-94) in scenic west-central Wisconsin, it is midway between the Chicago/Milwaukee corridor and Minneapolis/St. Paul.

The La Crosse Regional Airport, serviced by American and Delta Airlines, is within 35 miles. Amtrak rail serves the region with stops at stations in La Crosse and Tomah.

Fort McCoy is one of the largest area employers with more than 1,200 civilian employees and a more than $1.38 billion annual economic impact to the region.

The installation features newer Exchange and Commissary facilities that are open to military, Veterans and others as authorized by the Garrison Commander.

The neighboring family-friendly cities of Tomah and Sparta have well-rated school districts, low unemployment, affordable housing, and a low cost of living.

Both cities offer vibrant downtown shopping and community events. The average cost for a three-bedroom, two-bath home is approximately $425,000 (2024 Realtor.com).

Local schools feature exceptional educational opportunities, extra-curricular activities, and sports. Science, technology, engineering, and mathematics (STEM) is available in both districts.

The region also provides quality higher education (public and private), including three colleges/universities in La Crosse with satellite campuses in Tomah and Sparta.

At the edge of Wisconsin's scenic Driftless Area, the region boasts an abundance of outdoor recreational opportunities such as local aquatic centers, rails-to-trails conservancy, biking, hiking, camping, ATV/snowmobile trails, boating, hunting, world-class fishing waterways and much more. The Mississippi River, Necedah National Wildlife Refuge, Trempea-leau National Wildlife Refuge, Wildcat Mountain State Park, Black River State Forest, and many other state and county parks are within a 45-minute drive.

The area's quiet and safe quality-of-life opportunities draw families from around the country to relocate here.

The local communities, including nearby La Crosse and Onalaska, offer various entertainment: semi-pro and college sports, theater, museums, world-renowned festivals, fine dining and nightlife.

Fort McCoy is located near the Tomah VA Medical Center as well as numerous healthcare services systems, including the Mayo Clinic, and Gundersen Hospitals/Health Care Systems. The original, world-renowned Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minn., is only a 90-minute drive.

The installation has excellent quality-of-life programs such as Army Community Service, Child & Youth Services, and recreation facilities available to the workforce: Rumpel Fitness Center; Pineview Campground and Recreation Area, <https://mccoy.armymwr.com/programs/pine-view-campground>, where one can rent cabins and recreation equipment; and McCoy's Community Center, <https://mccoy.armymwr.com/programs/mccoys-community-center>, which features bowling, food and beverage, and recreation. Fort McCoy is also home to Whitetail Ridge Ski Hill, <https://mccoy.armymwr.com/programs/whitetail-ridge-ski-area>, one of only three ski and tubing hills in the entire Army.

Fort McCoy's South Post Family Housing offers 120 spacious new family houses.

The newly renovated South Post Community Center provides community space.

COMMUNITY LIFE

Longstanding tradition of bugle calls continues at Fort McCoy

Every day at 6 a.m. and 5 p.m., Soldiers, family members, and civilian employees can see, hear, and participate in a ritual that honors the nation while continuing a tradition as old as the U.S. Army. Traffic stops, work pauses, and activities cease while we render honors to the colors.

But reveille in the morning and retreat at night are only two of many bugle calls that punctuate daily life at Fort McCoy. Most think of old Western movies and cavalrymen when hearing a bugle call, but few actually understand the significance of most of the bugle calls heard throughout the day.

In the frontier outposts of the late 1800s, bugle calls united Soldiers and their families. These small, lonely forts with garrisons of only 100 to 200 Soldiers were often far from the nearest town. Household clocks were set by the bugle calls. According to some tales, an Army wife even used assembly as the signal for the children to take their naps.

Days began early for Soldiers as they began feeding and grooming the horses before dawn. Following reveille and breakfast, Soldiers came together for inspection when they heard the call for Assembly. The Soldier with the best uniform and equipment was selected to be the commander's orderly, which gave him bragging rights and (sometimes) the following day off.

After inspection, Soldiers trained in critical skills of the day: marching, riding, bayonet drill, marksmanship, and gun crew drills.

Mess call to lunch ended the morning's training. Soldiers spent most of the afternoon in fatigue details, such as chopping wood, maintaining the buildings and stables, and taking care of the horses.

Soldiers returned from these tasks when the bugler sounded recall, giving the Soldiers time to prepare themselves for the evening parade and retreat.

The day at most frontier outposts ended with a parade of the entire command around the central field. This was a way to inspect the discipline and equipment of the unit, but it was also a community social event that was attended by nearly all of the family members.

Prior to the 1890s, Soldiers were required to assemble for a final roll call at 10 p.m. at the sound of tattoo, but this practice — along with inspections on Sundays — ended when the Army made efforts to improve the quality of Soldiers' lives.

Purpose of bugle calls (times played at Fort McCoy)

- First call (5:55 a.m.) — sounded as a warning for Soldiers to begin assembling for a formation.
- Reveille (6 a.m.) — signals the Soldiers to Stand-To for morning roll call and accompanies the raising of the national colors.
- Assembly (6:45 a.m.) — signals Soldiers to assemble at a designated place.

- Mess call (7 a.m., noon, and 5:45 p.m.) — signals breakfast, lunch, or dinner.
- Retreat (5 p.m.) — signals the end of the official duty day.
- To the colors (5 p.m.) — used to render honors to the nation when no band is available or in ceremonies requiring honors to the nation more than once. It requires the same courtesies as the national anthem. It is used to accompany lowering the national flag.
- Call to quarters (10 p.m.) — symbolically signals all Soldiers not authorized to be absent to return to their quarters for the night.
- Tattoo (10:30 p.m.) — signals that all lights in squad rooms be extinguished and that all loud talking and other disturbances be discontinued within 15 minutes.
- Taps (11 p.m.) — signals that unauthorized lights are to be extinguished. This is the last call of the day. It is also sounded at the completion of a military funeral.

Some bugle calls require certain actions or courtesies, whether the listener is civilian or a service member. For reveille (6 a.m.) and retreat and to the colors (both 5 p.m.), Soldiers in formation should execute the commands of the officer or noncommissioned officer in charge. Soldiers who are in uniform but not in formation should face the flag (or the direction of the music if the flag is not in view) and render a hand salute until the last note of music.

Civilians and Soldiers wearing civilian clothes should face the flag, come to the position of attention, remove any headgear with the right hand, and place the right hand over the heart until the last note of music. Soldiers, veterans, and retirees may render a hand salute rather than placing their hand over their heart, according to a 2009 law passed by Congress.

All personnel in vehicles should stop in a safe area, exit vehicles, face the flag (or in direction of the music), and render honors as described above.

HISTORY

Serving America's armed forces since 1909

Fort McCoy is named for Robert Bruce McCoy.

The son of a Civil War captain, McCoy was a prominent local resident who, throughout his lifetime, served as a lawyer; district attorney; county judge; and mayor of Sparta, Wis.

He reached the rank of major general during his 31 years of distinguished military service, which included service in the Spanish-American War, the police action in Mexico, and World War I.

McCoy returned from the Spanish-American War with a dream. He knew that as warfare became increasingly more modern, larger and more powerful guns would be developed, and training would be emphasized. He envisioned these changes would require larger training areas, and, by 1905, he had acquired approximately 4,000 acres of land in the Sparta area.

Maj. Samuel Allen of the 7th Field Artillery at Fort Snelling, Minn., also admired the terrain of the Sparta area for its training value. McCoy invited Allen's unit to put his family's ranch to the test during 16 days of training. September 1905 marked the first use of the land for military purposes.

As a result of the 16-day test, Allen recommended to an Army review board that a large piece of land be purchased for an artillery camp. Approximately 14,000 acres of land, including McCoy's property, were purchased in 1909. The resulting parcel was called the Sparta Maneuver Tract.

The Sparta Maneuver Tract was divided approximately in half by the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific Railroad. The maneuver camp situated on the northern half of the parcel was referred to as Camp Emory Upton, while that to the south was known as Camp Robinson, an artillery camp.

In 1910, the War Department authorized $40,000 for construction and improvements to the area. The camp officially was designated Camp McCoy on Nov. 19, 1926, in honor of Maj. Gen. Robert B. McCoy, who had died that same year.

More than 45,000 acres were added between 1938 and 1942.

Unlike any other acquisition of sub-marginal farm land by the federal government, the Camp McCoy project envisioned the use of the land for military purposes as well as fishing, hunting and forest production.

In February 1942, the War Department announced the building of a cantonment area referred to as the "New Camp," which still serves as the installation's cantonment area today. These additions included construction of the large, triangular-shaped cantonment area, known as the "triad."

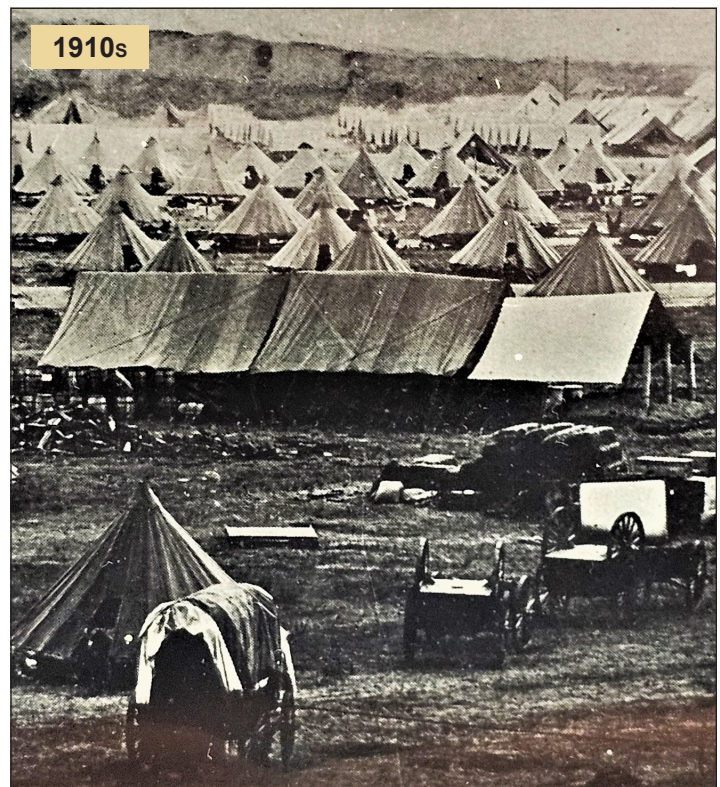

Camp McCoy was used as a training facility for many World War II units, including the 2nd Infantry Division; the 76th Infantry Division; and the 100th Infantry Battalion, which comprised Hawaii National Guardsmen of Japanese ancestry and was among the most decorated units in history. The post also served as a prisoner-of-war and enemy-alien prison camp during this time.

Aside from temporary lulls, the installation has been in almost constant use since its founding in 1909 and has provided artillery and maneuver training opportunities for millions of military personnel from all services.

Camp McCoy was aligned under U.S. Army Forces Command on July 1, 1973, and officially was re-designated as Fort McCoy on Sept. 30, 1974. In 1990-91, during Operations Desert Shield/Storm, Soldiers from 74 separate units and their equipment were deployed and redeployed at Fort McCoy.

From June 1991 through June 1992, the post also completed Operation Desert Fix, which was one of the largest reserve-component equipment demobilization/repair missions in the Army. During Desert Fix, Fort McCoy was responsible for inventorying, inspecting, repairing, and returning more than a division-and-a-half's worth of equipment to 121 owning units located throughout a nine-state area.

The 1990s ushered in the first great construction growth experienced at the post since the construction of the cantonment area in 1942.

From 1990 to the present day, new construction projects have served to modernize the post's infrastructure, facilities, and training areas. The hundreds of millions of dollars invested in the post have benefited Fort McCoy as well the local economy, with the majority of the new construction contracts having been awarded to regional firms.

The installation has provided support and facilities for the training of more than 100,000 personnel annually since 1984.

Fort McCoy was realigned under what is now known as the Installation Management Command (IMCOM) in 2002. On March 8, 2019, Installation Management Command became a subordinate command to Army Materiel Command, which Fort McCoy is also now aligned under through IMCOM. Today, Fort McCoy's primary mission is to support the readiness of the force by serving as a training center, mobilization force generation installation, and strategic support area.

The installation has served in a continuing capacity as an Army power-projection site by processing and preparing military personnel for duty in overseas contingency operations.

From Sept. 11, 2001, through Dec. 30, 2011, 140,197 military personnel from 2,416 units mobilized or demobilized at Fort McCoy during the installation's efforts to support the war on terrorism.

In September 2014, the movie "Fort McCoy" was released. "Fort McCoy" is a drama written, co-produced, and co-directed by Kate Connor, who also stars in the film, playing her real-life grandmother. The film, based on a true story, is set in the summer of 1944, with Connor sharing the experience of her mother's family with the U.S. Army and prisoner-of-war camp situated at the Wisconsin post.

Today, the post provides full-scale support to its customers at each juncture of its training triad — transient, institutional, and exercise. Fort McCoy training levels reached an all-time record in fiscal year 2017 with 155,975 personnel participating in training.

ATTRACTIONS

Whitetail Ridge Ski Area is home for winter fun, more

Fort McCoy's Whitetail Ridge Ski Area provides the Fort McCoy community and the public with multiple opportunities for outdoor recreation. The 200-acre facility also is used for military training.

Slopes & Chalet

Whitetail Ridge is open from approximately mid-December through mid-March, weather permitting. Snow-making and snow-grooming equipment located on site keeps slopes in optimum condition.

More than 10,000 people enjoy the facility each year. The area also is accessible by snowmobile when the statewide groomed snowmobile trail network is open.

Downhill skiers and snowboarders of all skill levels will find three groomed and lighted ski runs — the longest exceeding 1,300 feet — equipped with a self-loading T-bar lift.

The vertical drop of the slope is more than 185 feet. A terrain park also is available to snowboarders.

The facility is ideal for those new to winter sports. Instructors are available for Ski/Snowboarding lessons, please book in advance.

The facility is recognized by the National Ski Patrol, and patrol members monitor activity on the slopes to promote safety and to attend to any injuries.

Snow tubers can enjoy the excitement of sliding down a 1,000-foot slope.

The six tubing runs are equipped with a Magic Carpet lift, making the journey to the top of the hill as enjoyable as the trip down.

When natural snow conditions are sufficient, cross-country skiers have access to more than 5 miles of groomed trails. Snowshoers also will find opportunities for fun.

The Whitetail Ridge Chalet provides an indoor respite. In addition to providing a break from the cold, the family-friendly area of the facility serves a variety of food and beverages and has large windows allowing views of the activities outdoors.

The Ten-Point Pub is open Thursday-Sunday each weekend for adults to stop in and enjoy and adult beverage, one of our signature sandwiches, and a cozy seating area around the fireplace to warm up.

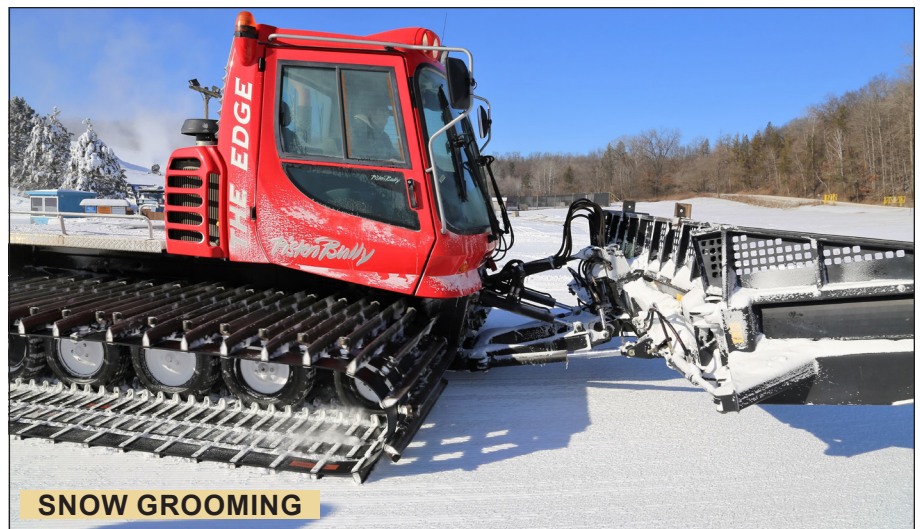

Lift tickets and on-site equipment rental are available at daily or seasonal rates.

Whitetail Ridge facilities also are available at special rates for group functions.

Paintball & Laser Tag

Tactics Paintball and Laser Tag also is located at Whitetail Ridge. Groups of six or more can be accommodated April-November. Reservations are required 48 hours in advance.

Whitetail Ridge is operated as a nonappropriated-fund activity, and all improvements to this recreation area are paid for using nonappropriated-fund dollars. For complete details, including hours, costs, and restrictions, visit mccoy.armymwr.com/programs/whitetail-ridge-ski-area/, or call 608-388-3517.
