The High-Tech Regional Training Site (HTRTS) conducted a repatching ceremony recently to recognize its realignment under the 83rd Army Reserve Readiness Training Center (ARRTC) located at Fort Knox, KY. Hosted by Brigade Commander Colonel Arthur R. Nowell and Command Sergeant Major Troy Buzard, the event formally welcomes HTRTS Soldiers and Civilians to the 83rd ARRTs by replacing the shoulder sleeve Insignia patch. This realignment is part of the U.S. Army Reserve's continuing transformation efforts to streamline operations and enhance efficiency.

Tobyhanna welcomes new enlisted leader

With the traditional passing of the unit colors, Sgt. Maj. Cory P. Alkire took the helm as Tobyhanna Army Depot's senior enlisted advisor on July 28th, pledging to champion workforce quality of life and sustain world-class readiness for the joint warfighter.

■ ACS Celebrates 61st Birthday

What do you get when you mix educational opportunities, special events, resiliency and community support and let it flourish for sixty-one years? Army Community Service! Team Tobyhanna enjoyed a lunchtime treat of cookies on the front lawn in honor of ACS's birthday.

ACS's mission is to provide the warfighter, DoW civilians and their families all the ingredients needed to succeed. In addition to educational opportunities and special events, ACS offers individual counseling services, deployment, or mobilization assistance, and more! ACS is there to build up the warfighter and the community from scratch!

You can contact ACS at 570-615-8371 to speak with an ACS specialist today!

■ Commander's Walk Around Awards

Congratulations to all members of Team Tobyhanna who were recipients of a Commander's Walk Around Award July 23! These awards are a reflection of your tireless efforts and dedication to our nation's warfighters.
