

U.S. Army Materiel Command Eye On AMC

Wednesday, August 5, 2026

TYAD enters first-of-its-kind for sUAS component production

REDSTONE ARSENAL, Ala. — In a move set to reshape the Defense Industrial Base, Tobyhanna Army Depot signed a landmark cooperative arrangement with a defense industry partner. This arrangement merges capabilities aimed at rapidly advancing domestic manufacturing and military readiness. The strategic agreement empowers TYAD and Darkhive to combine strengths in support of critical Department of War requirements.

State of Army Materiel Command

REDSTONE ARSENAL, Ala. — Lt. Gen. Chris Mohan, commander of AMC and the Army's Senior Sustainer, gives his final assessment of the command, the Army Sustainment Enterprise and his parting message to the workforce as he wraps up his historic 40-year career. Watch as he enters the hot seat for the last time, featuring a "Hot Ones"-style gauntlet. Can our leader survive the final Scoville levels?

Belvedere Bistro officially opens at Fort Drum

FORT DRUM, N.Y. — The Fort Drum community celebrated the grand opening of the Belvedere Bistro, the Army's third campus-style dining venue, during a July 30 ribbon-cutting ceremony. Lt. Gen. Chris Mohan, Army Materiel Command commanding general, said that the CSDV pilot program is designed to modernize the Soldier dining experience by providing flexible, healthier food choices.

New barracks bring quality of life to warfighters

FORT MEADE, Md. — Nearly three years after ground was broken on a long-awaited project, Fort Meade officially celebrated the grand opening of the Freedom Center IV Barracks during a ribbon-cutting ceremony July 30, marking a significant investment in the quality of life and readiness of the installation's enlisted service members. The new complex consists of two four-story barracks buildings that will house 380 enlisted personnel.

AMC honors top achievers with Dellamonica award

REDSTONE ARSENAL, Ala. — Army Materiel Command is recognizing its top employees from across the enterprise for their outstanding accomplishments and contributing to AMC's mission and goals with the 2025 Louis Dellamonica Award. Each year, the Louis Dellamonica Award for Outstanding AMC Personnel of the Year is awarded to both military and civilian employees who meet the established criteria.

USAMMA cases colors, passes baton to AMLC

FORT DETRICK, Md. — After more than eight decades of tirelessly supplying, supporting and sustaining the joint warfighter, Army Medical Materiel Agency officially discontinued operations and cased its colors during a formal ceremony July 31 at Fort Detrick. The roots of USAMMA trace back to the early days of World War II when the Army Surgeon General recognized a critical need to manage medical materiel for rapidly expanding mobilization forces.

FOCUS ON THE FORCE

2025 Dellamonica winner brings strategic impact, humility to AMC

ACC's Maine of 409th recognized with AMC Dellamonica Award

ACC, AMC team wins Department of War small business awards

AMLC flyaway teams provide pre-deployment readiness, training to medical maintainers

Fort Bliss unveils new 3D-printed barracks

PCS Tips and Tricks: Choosing the right kind of move

Next Generation Command and Control 'ready to scale'

Robinson relinquishes command of AMCOM, retires after 32 years