FEATURE PHOTO

Congratulations to Staff Sgt. Jordan Carroll from the Resource Management Directorate, who celebrated her promotion last week with a pinning ceremony. This Army tradition involves a soldier's loved one pinning the new rank insignia on the uniform for the first time. See the full album here.

■ Microelectronics Update

It's been just over a year since Tobyhanna Army Depot cut the ribbon on its Microelectronics Manufacturing Facility. Due to high demand driven by the outstanding work of depot artisans, Tobyhanna's microelectronics mission is set to expand both in capability and capacity.

■ MWR Hosts a Color Run

Red-y, set, go! Last week, the Morale Welfare and Recreation (MWR) Team at Tobyhanna Army Depot hosted a lunchtime Color Run. Soldiers, civilians and students from Tobyhanna Children and Youth Services participated and had a blast (of color)! Many thanks to MWR for organizing this mauve-lous event!

■ Senate Armed Services Committee Visit

Team Tobyhanna hosted Senate Armed Services Committee staff members Jenny Davis and Michael Tokar on Aug. 12 for a first-hand look at the depot's modernized footprint. Alongside CECOM Deputy to the Commanding General Nicholas Saacks and OIB Integration Office representatives, the group toured Tobyhanna's rapidly growing radar campus and advanced manufacturing facilities, which are driving next-generation capabilities for microelectronics and sUAS. These collaborative visits help ensure decision makers across the Department of War and legislature understand Tobyhanna's essential contributions to joint force readiness.
